PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Soka University of America (SUA) is a campus of great beauty and functionality where students, faculty and staff are dedicated to realizing the university's mission to foster a steady stream of global citizens committed to living a contributive life. The university has accepted the following educational principles proposed by our Founder, Daisaku Ikeda: foster leaders of culture in the community; foster leaders of humanism in society; foster leaders of pacifism in the world; and, foster leaders for the creative coexistence of nature and humanity.

As these principles suggest, Soka's culture and values promote international understanding and peace by providing excellence in teaching that allows our students to contribute to society in their own unique way. The curriculum aims to integrate service to the community, nature and humanity with the actualization of individual achievement and happiness. Learning is pursued through developing a close and humanistic relationship between the teacher and the student. At Soka University, the dialogue between teacher and student is a key element in cultivating the type of wisdom and intellect that fosters global-minded individuals.

SUA's undergraduate program in Liberal Arts also provides students with a unique opportunity to apply what they learn in the classroom through a required semester of study abroad that enables them to immerse themselves in another culture and utilize their chosen foreign language. In addition, Soka University provides an international setting where students are able to meet and share experiences with their peers from all different backgrounds as half of the student body are from overseas.

The MA program in Educational Leadership and Societal Change will allow students to study and conduct research into the historical roots of educational policies as well as the relationship between educational philosophies and practices with contemporary social, political, economic and cultural developments. Courses include field, such as a summer research internship that provides students with hands-on opportunities to shadow administrators, analyze organizational dynamics, and evaluate curriculum.

At Soka University of America, we are committed to creating a better future for humanity. We hope that you will find at SUA all the elements you need to give full play to your special talents to make the world a better place.

ABOUT SOKA UNIVERSITY OF AMERICA

A PROUD HERITAGE

“What our world most requires now is the kind of education that fosters love for humankind, that develops character – that provides an intellectual basis for the realization of peace and empowers learners to contribute to and improve society.”

- Daisaku Ikeda
Founder, SUA
in a lecture at the Rajiv Gandhi Foundation,
New Delhi, India, October 21, 1997

Helping students learn how to create value in their lives, their communities and the world is a central tenet of the Soka schools founded by Daisaku Ikeda, an educator and the current president of the Soka Gakkai International (SGI). The Soka schools, which range from kindergartens to the 8,800-student Soka University in Japan, have established a tradition of humanistic learning and scholarship where the focus is on each student’s growth and development. Soka means “to create value.”

Soka education has its origins in the work of Tsunesaburo Makiguchi, a Japanese educator and Buddhist leader. During World War II, Makiguchi was arrested as a “thought criminal” by Japanese military authorities for his opposition to the war and for his defense of religious freedom. He died in prison in 1944.

The small education society that Makiguchi founded in 1930 has since grown to become one of the world’s largest lay Buddhist organizations. Today, members of the SGI work for education, cultural exchange, and peace in over 190 countries.

In February 1987 Soka University of America (SUA), an independent not-for-profit organization incorporated in the state of California, dedicated its first campus in Calabasas, California. The Graduate School opened in 1994, offering a Master of Arts degree in Second and Foreign Language Education with a concentration in Teaching English to Speakers of Other Languages (TESOL.)

year SUA acquired a 103-acre site in Aliso Viejo for a private non-profit four-year liberal arts college. The Aliso Viejo campus opened May 3, 2001 with its first entrance ceremony for a freshman class of 120 students from 18 countries and 18 states. On May 22, 2005 the Aliso Viejo undergraduate program held its first commencement. In June 2005, Soka University received its accreditation from the Accrediting Commission for Senior Colleges and Universities of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges (WASC). In 2007, the Calabasas campus was closed and the Graduate School relocated to the Aliso Viejo campus, uniting both programs on one campus for the first time.

In 2008 SUA announced the Soka Opportunity Scholarships which offer free tuition (room and board fees still apply) for eligible admitted undergraduate students whose families make $60,000 or less a year.

In 2009 SUA began construction on our new 1000-seat Soka Performing Arts Center, which was dedicated on May 27, 2011 with the commencement of the Class of 2011.

In 2012 Soka University joined the CAL PAC Conference of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA.) Our students compete against other colleges in soccer, swimming, track and field and cross country.

In 2013 SUA announced a new Master’s Program in Educational Leadership and Societal Change. SUA is ranked #1 in Faculty Resources, #1 in Study Abroad, #4 Best Value, #5 in Diversity and Top 50 among National Liberal Arts Colleges by US News & World Report’s “Best Colleges 2016.”

MISSION

The mission of Soka University of America is to foster a steady stream of global citizens committed to living a contributive life.

University Mottos:

- Be philosophers of a renaissance of life.

- Be the pioneers of a global civilization.

ABOUT SOKA UNIVERSITY

University Principles:

- Foster leaders of culture in the community.
- Foster leaders of humanism in society.
- Foster leaders of pacifism in the world.
- Foster leaders for the creative co-existence of nature and humanity.

Soka University of America is an independent, non-profit, public-benefit, co-educational, comprehensive institution of higher learning. SUA serves both national and international students. Founded on the Buddhist principles of peace, human rights and the sanctity of life, SUA is open to students of all beliefs and is committed to diversity in its academic community.

SUA is founded on the belief that student-centered education is the best way to promote peace and human rights by fostering a global humanistic perspective on the world in which we live. The university prepares students for graduate studies and the world of work in an increasingly diverse and global society.

Classrooms are centers of dialogue and discussion, emphasizing seminar course settings. Students have many opportunities to work in small teams in the classroom and with faculty on research projects, as well as with peers in residence hall learning activities. Advanced computing and networking capabilities are widely available in all buildings and outside gathering areas, supporting a laptop computer campus. Information technology facilitates student-faculty and student-student interactions.

SUA currently offers a B.A. in Liberal Arts, with concentrations in Environmental Studies; Humanities; International Studies; and Social and Behavioral Sciences. SUA also offers a Master's Program in Educational Leadership and Societal Change.

VALUES

Soka University is founded upon the Buddhist principles of peace, human rights and the sanctity of life. Educational objectives are fostered at the university through the commitment to rigorous academic endeavors, free and open dialogue, and an appreciation for human diversity. In the Buddhist view, education is an integrating process in which students gain an awareness of the interdependence of themselves, others and the environment. Wisdom, courage and compassion – values treasured by the university – do not exist in isolation. They emerge in individuals as they learn the importance of service to others, to the natural world around them, and to the great cause of peace and freedom.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

PRIVACY OF STUDENT RECORDS

The university maintains records relating to students for various academic purposes in compliance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974. Annually, Soka University of America informs students of the Act (FERPA), which affords students certain rights with respect to their education records. These rights are:

1. The right to inspect and review the student's education records within 45 days of the day the University receives a request for access. Students should submit to the Registrar's Office written requests that identify the record(s) they wish to inspect. The Registrar will make arrangements for access and notify the student of the time and place where the records may be inspected. If the records are not maintained by the Registrar's Office, the student shall be advised of the correct official to whom the request should be addressed.
2. The right to request the amendment of the student's education records that the student believes is inaccurate or misleading. Students should write the Registrar, clearly identify the part of the record they want changed, and specify why it is inaccurate or misleading. If SUA decides not to amend the record as requested by the student, the student shall be notified of the decision and advised of his or her right to a hearing regarding the request for amendment. Additional information regarding the hearing procedures will be provided to the student when notified of the right to a hearing.
3. The right to consent to disclosures of personally identifiable information contained in the student's education records, except to the extent that FERPA authorizes disclosure without consent. One exception, which permits disclosure without consent, is disclosure to school officials with legitimate educational interests. A school official is defined as a person employed by the university in an administrative, supervisory, academic, or support staff position (including law enforcement unit and health staff); a person or company with whom SUA has contracted (such as attorney, auditor, or collection agent); a person serving on the Board of Trustees; or assisting another school official in performing his or her tasks. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility. As allowed within FERPA guidelines, SUA discloses education records without consent to officials of another school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

4. The right to file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Education concerning alleged failures by the university to comply with the requirements of FERPA. The name and address of the office that administers FERPA is:

Family Policy Compliance Office
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, DC 20202-4605

At its discretion, SUA may release directory information to parties outside the university in accordance with the provisions of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act and its amendments. Directory information is defined as that information that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. Designated directory information at SUA includes the following: student name, campus address, permanent address, local address, e-mail address, telephone number, dates of attendance, degrees and awards received, field of study, dean's list, photograph, participation in officially recognized clubs and sports, height and weight of members of athletic teams, full-time/part-time status, and date of birth.

Students may withhold directory information by notifying the Registrar in writing; please note that such withholding requests are binding for all information to all parties other than for those exceptions allowed under the Act. Students should consider all aspects of a directory hold prior to filing such a request. The initial request must be filed during the first two weeks of the fall session. Requests for non-disclosure will be honored by the university for no more than one academic year. Re-authorization to withhold directory information must be filed annually in the Registrar's Office within the first two weeks of the Fall Session.

CONSENT TO USE OF PHOTOGRAPHIC IMAGES

Registration as a student and attendance at or participation in classes and other campus and university activities constitutes an agreement by the student to the university's use and distribution (both now and in the future) of the student's image or voice in photographs, videotapes, electronic reproductions, or audiotapes of such classes and other campus and University activities.

If any student in a class where such photographing or recording is to take place does not wish to have his or her image or voice so used, the student should raise the matter in advance with the instructor.

CAMPUS ALCOHOL AND DRUG POLICY

SUA places emphasis on the health and well-being of members of the university community. Good health provides the foundation on which citizens build contributive, value-creating lives. Alcohol and drug abuse have become serious health problems that challenge colleges around the globe. Alcohol and drug abuse can lead to conduct that may endanger the safety of individuals and property both on and off campus. It is the firm belief of the university that alcohol is not a necessary ingredient for holding a successful event. As such, the usual standard for university functions is that alcoholic beverages are not served.

There may be occasions, however, where a group sponsoring an event feels it is appropriate for alcohol to be made available. In such instances, the individuals sponsoring the event should follow the policies outlined below for obtaining permission to serve alcohol on university premises. At no time is alcohol allowed in the first-year residence halls. In addition, possession or consumption of alcoholic beverages on the campus of Soka University of America conforms to the laws of California and Orange County.

In summary, these laws prohibit:

- Possession, use or purchase of liquor, beer or wine by persons under 21 years of age (California Alcohol Beverage Control Act, Section 25658).
- Consumption of alcoholic beverages or possession of an open container of alcoholic beverages in a public place (Orange County Code 2-5-35).

- Sale or advertisement of sale of alcoholic beverages without a license (Business and Professions Code 23300).
- Public Drunkenness (California Penal Code 647f).
- Providing liquor, beer or wine to an underage individual (California Alcohol Beverage Control Act, Section 25658).
- Driving while under the influence of alcoholic or controlled substance (Code of State of California Vehicle Code 23152(a) and 23152(b)).

As a TITLE IV institution receiving Federal aid, the University must comply with Federal regulations regarding illegal substances. Federal law prohibits the illegal manufacture, distribution, dispensing, possession, or use of a controlled substance. No member of the university community shall possess or distribute an illegal drug as defined by federal laws. Such possession, distribution, or use is prohibited in any building or on any property owned or operated by the university. Possession is defined to include any area or property for which the student or employee is responsible.

Because of the considerable health risks involved in drug and alcohol use, resources are available to assist members of the Soka community in dealing with drug and alcohol abuse problems. Individuals interested in using these resources should contact the Student Health Services at (949) 480-4134 or the Student Affairs Office at (949) 480-4130.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROCEDURES FOR OBTAINING APPROVAL TO SERVE ALCOHOL ON CAMPUS

All individuals wishing to sponsor an event on campus where alcohol is served must seek and obtain the written approval of the Dean of Students. In granting permission, the Dean is at discretion to set the terms and restrictions of such use and to hold sponsoring parties and events responsible for abiding by those conditions.

SMOKING

Smoking is not permitted in any campus building. Smoking is allowed on campus only in clearly identified areas. The campus is surrounded by a wilderness park, which presents a significant fire hazard. Smoking rules are strictly enforced.

THEFT

It is the expectation of the university that all campus citizens respect the property of the university as well as property belonging to other campus citizens.

FIREARMS AND FIREWORKS

The university strictly prohibits the use or possession of firearms and other weapons or implements that may be used for violent purposes, including illegal knives. Such items are not permitted on campus. Fireworks and other explosive materials are also prohibited. Students are reminded that California laws, Section 12303.2 and 12312 of the Penal Code, establish strict restrictions of these items.

DISABILITIES POLICY

Soka University of America (SUA) is committed to ensuring equal treatment, educational opportunity and human dignity for students with learning, physical/medical, and psychological/psychiatric disabilities. SUA is committed to providing reasonable and appropriate accommodations to otherwise qualified students with disabilities. These accommodations include academic adjustment and auxiliary aides necessary to ensure access to the University's overall education program in accordance with Section 504 of the Federal Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 and ADA Amendments Acts of 2008.

Whenever the need for a special accommodation or auxiliary aid is necessary, the department/area responsible for the program or service will work with the Office of Student Services to ensure that reasonable accommodations are made.

Nevertheless, an academic unit is not required to fundamentally alter the nature of its academic program in order to accommodate students.

The student is presumed to have independent living skills sufficient to provide for his/her personal needs on campus. If this is not the case, the student must, at their own expense, employ a personal attendant or mobility aide. Students requiring specialized medical care beyond that ordinarily offered through the Student Health Center must be prepared to bear the expense of this care through a general hospital or a private physician/clinic of their choice.

It is the student's responsibility to provide diagnosis and supporting documentation to establish the severity of his/her condition and the implications on major life activities. Upon receipt of relevant documentation and assessment data, the student shall receive reasonable and necessary accommodation, including adjustments and aids.

The ADA defines an individual with a disability as a person who

- (1) has a physical or mental impairment that substantially limits one or more of the major life activities of that person,
- (2) has a record of such an impairment, or
- (3) is regarded as having such an impairment.

Major life activities include caring for oneself, performing manual tasks, walking, seeing, hearing, speaking, breathing, learning, and working.

For inquiries regarding Soka University of America disability policy, please contact the Office of Student Services at (949) 480-4139 or visit our website (www.soka.edu) under Student Services for a more detailed description of the Disabilities Services Policies and Procedures.

All such harassment is unlawful.

Prohibited unlawful harassment includes, but is not limited to, the following behavior:

- a. Verbal conduct such as epithets, derogatory jokes or comments, slurs or unwanted sexual advances, invitations or comments.
- b. Visual conduct such as derogatory and/or sexually oriented posters, photography, cartoons, drawings, or gestures.

c. Physical conduct such as assault, unwanted touching or blocking normal movement because of sex, race or any other protected basis; threats and demands to submit to sexual requests and sexual favors.

d. Retaliation for having reported or threatened to report harassment.

A written complaint should be given to the Dean of Students as soon as possible after an incident. Complaints should include details of the incident or incidents, names of the individuals involved and names of any witnesses.

SEXUAL MISCONDUCT/TITLE IX POLICY AND PROCEDURE

Students who report sexual misconduct/Title IX violations will be advised of all options available to them as outlined in this policy. University officials will respect the student's right to confidentiality to the extent permitted under university and legal regulations.

I. STATEMENT AND INTENT OF POLICY

Under Title IX, and as a standard for the Student Code of Conduct, Soka University of America (SUA) will not tolerate and prohibits sexual assault and all forms of sexual misconduct including intimate partner violence, stalking, dating violence, sexual violence, sexual harassment, and domestic violence offenses. These acts are also against California State Law.

In publishing this policy the University is not intending to substitute or supersede related civil and/or criminal law. It should be clearly understood that there is a fundamental difference between the nature and purpose of student discipline and criminal law. California State Law considers gross sexual assault and unlawful sexual contact to be serious crimes that are punishable by imprisonment in jail and/or probation. It also involves creation of a criminal record and may include a monetary fine.

All students, faculty, and staff, as well as members of the public participating in University activities have the right to an environment free from sexual or physical intimidation that would prevent a reasonable person from attaining educational goals or living and working in a safe environment.

If there is reason to believe that SUA campus regulations prohibiting sexual misconduct in any form have been violated, on campus, off campus, in person, and even online, the administration will pursue disciplinary action through the appropriate University procedures. This includes any online postings or other electronic communication, including cyber-bullying, cyber-stalking, cyber-harassment, etc. occurring completely outside of the University/College's control (e.g. not on University networks, websites or between University email accounts). Regardless of where the violation occurred, the University discipline process will be conducted consistently, in the same manner. SUA complies with its obligation to investigate and resolve reports of all forms of sexual misconduct regardless of whether or not a formal complaint is filed, in order to maintain a non-discriminatory and respectful educational environment.

This policy is intended to provide more detailed information about how SUA handles these matters and is not intended to replace the SUA Student Code of Conduct or SUA Sexual Harassment Policy.

II. DEFINITION OF VARIOUS TERMS OF SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

A. Sexual Assault:

Sexual assault is a general term which covers a range of crimes. For the purposes of this statement by the University, "sexual assault" includes, but is not limited to rape, acquaintance rape, forced sodomy, forced oral copulation, rape by a foreign object, sexual battery or threat of sexual assault. Rape is generally defined as forced or nonconsensual sexual intercourse. Non-consensual sexual intercourse may take many forms including, but not limited to, rape by a stranger; an acquaintance, while on a date; rape by multiple perpetrators (often referred to as "gang rape"), and may occur both on and off campus. Rape may be accomplished by fear, threats of harm, and/or actual physical force. Rape may also include situations in which penetration is accomplished when the victim is unable to give consent, or is prevented from resisting, due to being intoxicated, drugged, unconscious, or asleep.

It also includes various types of unwanted sexual touching or penetration without consent. Sexual assault includes forced sodomy (anal intercourse), forced oral copulation (oral-genital contact), rape by a foreign object (including a finger), and sexual battery, the unwanted touching of an intimate part of another person for the purpose of sexual arousal.

B. Intimate partner violence:

This term is defined to mean any physical, sexual, or psychological harm against an individual by a current or former partner or spouse of the individual. It would include rape, acquaintance rape, stalking, dating violence, sexual violence, or domestic violence.

C. Sexual Harassment:

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination and a violation of title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972. Sexual harassment has two key categories: quid pro quo (loosely translated as "this for that") and hostile environment. Often sexual harassment involves relationships of unequal power and contains elements of coercion, as when compliance with requests for sexual favors becomes a criterion for granting work, study, or grading benefits. However, sexual harassment may also involve relationships among equals, as when repeated sexual advances or demeaning verbal behaviors have a harmful effect on a person's ability to study or work in an academic setting.

In compliance with federal and state law, SUA defines sexual harassment as follows: "Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when: Submission to such conduct is made either explicitly or implicitly as a term or condition of instruction, employment, or participation in other University activity;

Submission to or rejection of such conduct by an individual is used as a basis for evaluation in making academic or personnel decisions affecting an individual; or Such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive University environment.”

D. Sexual Exploitation:

Sexual Exploitation occurs when a person takes non-consensual, unfair, or abusive sexual advantage of another for his/her own advantage or benefit; or to benefit or advantage anyone other than the one being exploited. Examples of sexual exploitation include, but are not limited to, prostituting another student, non-consensual video or audio-taping of sexual activity, presentation or unauthorized viewing of such recordings, going beyond the boundaries of consent (such as letting your friends watch you having consensual sex without the knowledge or consent of your sexual partner), engaging in peeping tommy, and knowingly transmitting an STD or HIV to another student.

E. Consent:

“Affirmative consent” means affirmative, conscious, and voluntary agreement to engage in sexual activity. It is given by both parties to sexual activity. Moreover, it is the responsibility of each person involved in the sexual activity to ensure that he or she has the affirmative consent of the other or others to engage in the sexual activity. Lack of protest or resistance does not mean consent, nor does silence mean consent. Affirmative consent must be ongoing throughout a sexual activity and can be revoked at any time. The existence of a dating relationship between the persons involved, or the fact of past sexual relations between them, should never by itself be assumed to be an indicator of consent.

Any consent that is given is invalid when the exchange involves unwanted physical force, coercion, intimidation, and/or threats. If an individual is mentally or physically incapacitated or impaired such that one cannot understand the fact, nature or extent of the sexual situation, and the incapacitation or impairment is known or should be known to a reasonable person, there is no consent. This includes conditions resulting from alcohol or drug consumption, or being asleep or unconscious.

F. Sexual violence:

A term that is used to refer to physical sexual acts perpetrated against a person's will or where a person is incapable of giving consent due to the victim's use of drugs or alcohol. An individual also may be unable to give consent due to an intellectual or other disability.

G. Stranger rape:

Rape perpetrated by someone unknown.

H. Acquaintance rape:

The most prevalent form of sexual assault on a university campus is between two people who know each other. The acquaintance may be a date, partner, or someone known casually from a residence hall, class, club, or through mutual friends.

I. Bystander intervention:

A course of action that may be carried out by an individual to prevent harm or intervene where there is a risk or an act of violence.

III. WHAT TO DO IF YOU ARE VICTIM OF SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

Any individual who is a victim of sexual misconduct is strongly encouraged to reach out immediately to someone s/he trusts such as a family member, friend and/or campus counselor for support. Experiencing sexual misconduct is not only difficult but can be very confusing. There are resources available on and off campus to the victim to provide the support s/he needs and help cope with the difficulties.

Recognizing that victim's response to the sexual misconduct may differ, if you have been physically assaulted or raped, there are other important steps you can take right away:

- Go to a safe place.
- Do not hesitate. If on campus, contact appropriate authorities and if during off hours, contact 24-hour Security, Res Life On-Call, or 911.
- Call a friend, a campus advocate, a family member or someone else you trust and ask her or him to stay with you.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

- It is important for the victim to preserve the evidence if s/he intends to pursue criminal charges. Do not shower, bathe, douche, or brush his/her teeth, and save all clothing worn at the time of the assault. Put each item of clothing in a separate paper bag. Do not use plastic bags. Do not disturb anything in the area where the assault occurred.
- Go immediately to see medical personnel either at the Student Health Center or a local hospital emergency department. If you suspect that you may have been given a rape drug, ask the hospital or clinic where you receive medical care to take a urine sample. The urine sample should be preserved as evidence. Rape drugs, such as Rohypnol and GHB, are more likely to be detected in urine than in blood.
- If the student has not seen the medical personnel at the time of the complaint, the student will be immediately advised to do so. The University will provide the transportation to the hospital if needed.
- Write down as much as you can remember about the circumstances of the assault, including a description of the assailant.
- Talk with a counselor who is trained to assist rape victims about the emotional and physical impacts of the assault. You can call a hot line, a rape crisis center, or a counseling agency to find someone who understands the trauma of rape and knows how to help.

IV. REPORTING OPTIONS

SUA strongly encourages individuals to report all incidents and violations of this nature to the Office of Dean of Students, law enforcement officials, and/or a university official in order for these incidents to be properly addressed and for victims to avail themselves of all the services and rights to which they are entitled.

Any member of the SUA community can file a report with the Office of Dean of Students. At SUA, all SUA's faculty and staff*, except for the counselor, are designated as 'responsible employees.' This means that if a student or any member of SUA community reveals potential sexual misconduct/Title IX violations to any SUA staff or faculty, it is the responsibility of that staff or faculty to report the incident immediately to the Dean of Students/Title IX Deputy Coordinator who will then take appropriate actions. If a student wishes to discuss the incident in complete confidence, s/he should report to the counselor.

*SUA staff does not include 3rd party vendor employees such as facilities or dining services staff.

In addition, it is the victim's rights to notify law enforcement and to be assisted by University officials in doing so. Thus, it is the victim's right to decide whether or not to involve law enforcement. Declining the involvement of law enforcement does not prevent the victim from receiving assistance from the University. A victim also has the right to use the University's procedures in addition to filing a criminal complaint.

Regardless of whether or not a student decides to report an incident, SUA strongly encourages students to at least meet with our campus counselor. All conversations with SUA's Counseling Services are held strictly confidential.

Reporting Timeframe:

Any individual may file a complaint of sexual misconduct at any time. Early reporting is encouraged to preserve evidence if necessary and provide the victim with information regarding rights, options, and resources available to them by this policy and federal/state laws. However, all complaints will be taken seriously and investigated no matter how much time has passed since the incident.

Reporting Options:

I. Official Reporting

All SUA students are strongly encouraged to make an official report of any incident of sexual misconduct to the Office of Dean of Students whether the incident occurred on or off campus.

All SUA's staff and faculty (except for the staff of Counseling Service), including resident assistants, are required to promptly report to the Office of Dean of Students information they have about possible sexual harassment or sexual misconduct, including but not limited to sexual assault, domestic or dating violence, and stalking. Official reporting initiates a course of immediate action and the University's Student Conduct & Resolution process.

The complaint/report can be filed directly to the Dean of Students via a written statement or an appointment. Once a complaint/report has been submitted, the Dean of Students or a designee by the Dean will conduct intake interviews and fact-finding interviews with appropriate parties involved and follow the processes outlined in the Student Conduct & Resolution Process. Each complaint will be investigated promptly and appropriate corrective actions will be taken.

2. Confidential Disclosure

SUA also offers confidential reporting through Counseling Services to

- 1) Weigh options and associated risks,
- 2) Discuss possible next steps, and
- 3) Obtain information about available resources and services.

No one is expected or required to pursue a specific course of action with this option.

Medical Amnesty Clause:

The Office of Student Conduct & Resolution offers immunity (Amnesty) to students who may have violated the Code of Conduct's Alcohol or Drug Policy at the same time of the incident when he or she became a victim of or is reporting of sexual misconduct. Therefore, no alcohol or drug violations are applied to a student who reports that he or she was under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs at the time of a sexual misconduct.

The purpose of this clause is to encourage reporting. Victims or bystanders (witnesses) should not let his or her use of alcohol or drugs be a deterrent to reporting an incident. When conducting the investigation, the University's primary focus will be on addressing the sexual misconduct violation and not on alcohol/drug violations that may be discovered or disclosed. However, the University may provide referrals to counseling and may require educational options, rather than disciplinary sanctions, in such cases.

Bystander Intervention:

The same above mentioned reporting options are available for bystanders as well. These are safe and positive options for bystanders who intervened during an incident in order to prevent harm when there was a risk or an act of violence. SUA strongly encourages bystanders to step up on behalf of another person's well-being and safety.

V. VICTIM'S RIGHTS PROVISIONS

It is SUA's responsibility to assure students who report an incident of sexual misconduct that:

- Victims will have the opportunity to request prompt proceedings and that a fair, and impartial investigation and resolution will occur
- University officials will treat the incident seriously and that the incident will be investigated and adjudicated by appropriate University officials.
- Proceedings shall be conducted by officials trained on sexual assault and other intimate partner violence issues. And shall use preponderance of the evidence standard (which is "more likely than not" and the standard used by civil courts in the United States).
- Victims will be treated with dignity, respect, and in a non-judgmental manner.
- University officials will inform victims of their option to notify appropriate law enforcement authorities, including on-campus security and local police, and offer assistance in notifying proper authorities when an individual discloses an incident of sexual misconduct.
- University personnel will not discourage

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

- anyone from reporting, nor encourage them to under-report or report the incident as a lesser crime.
- University personnel will cooperate in obtaining, securing and maintaining evidence (including a medical examination) necessary in legal/criminal proceedings.
 - University officials will prohibit retaliation and will not only take steps to prevent retaliation but also take strong responsive action if it occurs. They will also follow up with complaints to determine whether any retaliation or new incidents of harassment have occurred.
 - Victims will be provided with information on available services for mental health, victim advocacy, legal assistance, and other available community resources on and off campus.
 - Victims can obtain no contact/restraining orders to prevent unnecessary or unwanted contact or proximity to an alleged perpetrator when reasonably available.
 - Victims will be afforded the opportunity to request immediate on-campus housing relocation or other steps to prevent unnecessary or unwanted contact or proximity to an alleged perpetrator when reasonably available.
 - Victims are informed that he/she is entitled to be accompanied to any related meeting or proceeding by an advisor of their choice, knowing that the respondent also has the same opportunity to have others present during any proceeding.
 - Victims are informed that he/she is entitled to receive, in writing, the final results of the Conduct & Resolution process within one business day of such outcome being reached.

VI. RIGHTS OF THE PERSON ACCUSED OF SEXUAL MISCONDUCT

The student accused of sexual misconduct (the respondent) may be assured that:

- All sexual misconduct cases will be treated seriously.
- The respondent will be treated with dignity, respect, and in a non-judgmental manner.
- The respondent will be advised of on- and off-campus organizations and services that may be of assistance.

- University personnel will cooperate in investigating the case fully for legal and Student Conduct & Resolution process.
- The respondent will be informed of available counseling and psychological services.
- Respondents are informed that he/she is entitled to be accompanied to any related meeting or proceeding by an advisor of their choice, knowing that the victim also is provided with the same opportunity to have others present during any proceeding.
- Respondents are informed that he/she is entitled to receive, in writing, the final results of the Conduct & Resolution process within one business day of such outcome being reached.

VII. DISCIPLINARY PROCEDURE

It is the victim's rights to notify law enforcement and to be assisted by University officials in doing so. Thus, it is the victim's right to decide whether or not to involve law enforcement. Declining the involvement of law enforcement does not prevent the victim from receiving assistance from the University. A victim also has the right to use the University's procedures in addition to filing a criminal complaint

A student accused of sexual misconduct may be prosecuted under the California Criminal Justice System and disciplined through SUA Student Conduct & Resolution process. Even if the criminal justice authorities choose not to prosecute, the accused may be subject to University disciplinary action. University Student Conduct & Resolution process should be considered distinct and independent of any and all criminal procedures. Student Conduct & Resolution process may precede, occur simultaneously, or follow court action. In the event that University's Student Conduct & Resolution process follows court action, the court proceedings and/or verdict may be considered in the Student Conduct & Resolution process. Process shall be conducted by officials trained on all forms of sexual misconduct. Moreover, they shall use the preponderance of the evidence standard (which is "more likely than not" and the standard used by civil courts in the United States).

When necessary, temporary action may be taken by the University by suspending or restricting the accused, or officially requesting no contact between the complainant and the respondent. Relocation or removal from the residence halls may also occur. Any of these measures may result in the accused student's restricted access to the University and/or participation in University events, such as attendance at classes and residing on campus.

A. Disciplinary Action:

Any student found by Office of Dean of Students to have committed sexual misconduct may be subject to severe disciplinary sanctions, including suspension or dismissal from the University. For information regarding the range of possible sanctions that may be imposed following an institutional disciplinary procedure, please refer to the SUA's Student Code of Conduct & Resolution Policy and Procedures found in the University Catalog, Student Handbook, or University website.

The University recognizes that violations of sexual misconduct are not the fault of the individual filing the complaint. The University intends to encourage the report of sexual misconduct and therefore the University generally does not intend to hold complainants accountable for student code of conduct violations that may have occurred along with violations of sexual misconduct. The University will use discretion to ensure the rights of the complainant are preserved.

B. Appeals:

Both victim/complainant and the accused student have a right to an appeal. Please refer to the Appeal Process in SUA's Student Code of Conduct and Resolution Policy and Procedures.

VIII. SAFETY AND SECURITY INFORMATION REPORT

Under The Campus Save Act, an addendum to the Clery Act, SUA will provide annual statistics on incidents of campus crimes, including incidents of sexual misconduct occurring on campus and reported to campus authorities and/or local police. Additionally, SUA will comply with all mandatory reporting requirements that include a broader range of sexual misconduct incidents occurring on campus including domestic violence, dating violence, and stalking.

Nothing in this policy should be interpreted as precluding enforcement of the laws and regulations of the United States of America, the State of California, any locality in the state of California, or the University's Student Code of Conduct & Resolution Policy and Procedures.

VIOLENCE, ABUSE AND HAZING

Direct and indirect forms of verbal and written abuse, threats, physical harassment, intimidation, or violence against another person or their property, as well as conduct that threatens the health and safety of self (including threats of or attempts at suicide), will not be tolerated on the campus. Violations of this policy can result in disciplinary action by the university and criminal charges.

California Hazing Law states:

Hazing is any method of initiation or pre-initiation into a student organization or any pastime or amusement engaged in with respect to such an organization that causes, or is likely to cause, bodily danger, physical harm, personal degradation, or disgrace resulting in physical or mental harm, to any student or other person attending any college, university or other educational institution in this state.

Education Code Section 32050

No student or other person in attendance at any private college or other educational institution shall conspire to engage in hazing, participate in hazing, or commit any act that causes or is likely to cause bodily danger, physical harm, or personal degradation or disgrace resulting in physical or mental harm to any fellow student or person attending the institution. The violation of this section is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine, or imprisonment.

Education Code Section 32051

Hazing of any kind will not be tolerated. If the university determines that harassment has occurred, effective remedial action will be taken in accordance with the circumstances involved.

Those campus citizens responsible for harassment will be referred to the Dean of Students and face appropriate disciplinary action, up to and including expulsion.

The university encourages all campus citizens to report any incidents of harassment immediately. The Federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and the California Department of Fair Employment and Housing investigate and prosecute complaints of prohibited harassment.

RELIGIOUS LIFE ON CAMPUS POLICY

Soka University seeks to support the spiritual and religious beliefs and practices of all our community members. As a diverse campus community, we seek to promote respect and understanding among all religious groups on campus and to foster an enlightening and informative exchange among them. Also, it is a person's right to believe in no faith, to be an atheist, and this must be respected, too. SUA promotes open, respectful, and non-judgmental dialogue among groups, especially cautioning campus citizens to monitor carefully their language use with others of different religious beliefs.

UNIVERSITY-WIDE STATEMENT OF RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES

The central functions of an academic community are learning, teaching, research and scholarship. By accepting membership in the University, an individual joins a community ideally characterized by free expression, free inquiry, intellectual honesty, respect for the dignity of others and openness to constructive change. At Soka University of America the rights and responsibilities exercised within the community are compatible with these qualities.

The rights of members of the University are not fundamentally different from those of other members of society. The University, however, has a special autonomy, and reasoned dissent plays a particularly vital part in its existence. All members of the University have the right to press for action on matters of concern by any appropriate means. Soka University of America affirms, assures and protects the rights of its members to organize and join political associations, convene and conduct public meetings, publicly demonstrate and picket in orderly fashion, and advocate and publicize opinion by print, sign and voice.

The University places special emphasis, as well, upon certain values which are essential to its nature as an academic community. Among these are freedom of speech and academic freedom, freedom from personal force and violence and freedom of movement. Interference with any of these freedoms is regarded as a serious violation of the personal rights upon which the community is based. Furthermore, although the administrative process and activities of the University are not ends in themselves, such functions are vital to the orderly pursuit of the work of all members of the University. Therefore, interference with members of the University in performance of their normal duties and activities is regarded as unacceptable obstruction of the essential processes of the University. Theft or willful destruction of property of the University or its members is also considered an unacceptable violation of the rights of individuals or of the community as a whole.

Moreover, it is the responsibility of all members of the academic community to maintain an atmosphere in which violations of rights are unlikely to occur and to develop processes by which these rights are fully assured. In particular, it is the responsibility of officers of administration and instruction to be alert to the needs of the University community; to give full and fair hearing to reasoned expressions of grievances; and to respond promptly and in good faith to such expressions and to widely-expressed needs for change. In making decisions which concern the community as a whole or any part of the community, officers consult with those affected by the decisions. Failures to meet the responsibilities may be profoundly damaging to the life of the University. Therefore, Soka University of America has established orderly procedures consistent with imperatives of academic freedom to assess the policies and assure the responsibility of those whose decisions affect the life of the University.

No violation of the rights of members of the University, nor any failure to meet responsibilities, justifies any violation of the rights of members of the University. All members of the community, students and officers alike, are expected to uphold the rights and responsibilities expressed in this statement so that the University is characterized by mutual respect and trust.

Intense personal harassment of such a character as to amount to grave disrespect for the dignity of others is an unacceptable violation of the personal rights on which the University is based.

ACADEMIC HONESTY

Academic honesty is expected of all members of the SUA community. Failure to adhere to standards of honesty will result in sanctions.

The following definitions will help you understand the boundaries of academic dishonesty. The sanctions section, which follows, will help you understand the seriousness of various types of academic dishonesty. These definitions do not represent a complete list of possible infractions; rather, they are intended generally to reveal the range of conduct which violates academic honesty. Presentation of this list is prompted by the belief that education concerning improper conduct will help students avoid such practices, including those which, although innocently performed, may technically be classified as academically dishonest.

1. Plagiarism. Presenting the words or ideas of another person requires proper acknowledgement; failure to do so is plagiarism. This applies to direct quotations, paraphrases or summarized ideas; guidelines concerning standards for citation may be found in The LEA Guide to Composition, which is owned and used by all students from the time they take freshman Writing 101.
2. Submission of the same work in two courses without explicit permission to do so. Presenting all or part of the work done for one course in another course requires permission of the instructors of the involved courses. A related point is that paired courses, by design, often require submission of the same work in the two associated courses.
3. Unauthorized collaboration. In many course activities, other than examinations, collaboration is permitted and encouraged. Course syllabi and in-class instructions will usually identify situations where collaboration is prohibited, but the student shares responsibility for ascertaining whether collaboration is permitted. In cases where a student receives tutoring on a course topic, the student should consult the professor of the course to understand the permissible limits of the tutoring help.

4. Cheating. This is a very broad category encompassing a variety of forms of misrepresentation and fraud. Examples include sharing exam answers, presenting work done by another as one's own, changing in any way work which may be reviewed in response to a grade reconsideration request, having a falsely identified person take an exam, or using notes, books and the like in closed-book examinations.
5. Misrepresentation of experience or ability. Providing false information concerning academic achievement or background in an area of study; for example, false reporting the substance of an internship.
6. Falsification of records. Any attempt to change grades or written records pertaining to assessment of a student's academic achievement.
7. Sabotage. Destruction of or deliberate inhibition of progress of another person's work related to a course; this includes the destruction of shared resources such as library materials and computer software or hardware.
8. Complicity concerning any of the above. Any act which facilitates academic dishonesty is itself an act of academic dishonesty.

SANCTIONS

Various sanctions exist which may be applied in response to an act of academic dishonesty. The severity of sanctions will correlate to the severity of the offense. Judgment of the severity of an academic dishonesty offense is the responsibility of the faculty member. The faculty member is encouraged to seek counsel of faculty colleagues, the Registrar, Dean of Faculty (undergraduate)/ Dean of the Graduate School (graduate) or the Dean of Students in gaining perspective concerning the severity of an offense.

All grade-related sanctions shall be levied by the faculty member teaching the course within which the offense occurred.

UNIVERSITY POLICIES

The following list articulates the sanctions which may be levied in response to acts of academic dishonesty.

1. A warning indicating to the student, faculty, and administration knowledge of the incident; this will ordinarily be accompanied by a requirement that the student redo the work if the infraction is related to a course assignment. Included will be notification that another act of academic dishonesty will result in a more severe sanction.
2. A letter grade reduction on the assignment. This also will ordinarily be accompanied by a requirement to redo the work.
3. A failing grade for the assignment. This applies in cases where the faculty member chooses not to allow redoing the work.
4. A failing grade for the course. This would be a suitable sanction for a serious case or for repeated cases of less extreme infractions.
5. Suspension from the university for a specified minimum period of time. This sanction will ordinarily be applied when, in the estimation of the Dean of Students and the Dean of Faculty (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School and Director of the MA Program (graduate), a pattern of misconduct is so chronic or severe that separation from the campus community is warranted. If serious enough, a single case of academic dishonesty can result in suspension. This could occur in the case of indisputable willful intent by the student to commit an academically dishonest act, such as altering a professor's grade record or maliciously damaging academic work of another individual. Suspension may take effect immediately. Continuing attendance at the university may be permitted during an appeal. The minimum period of suspension will be the balance of the current block or semester. Ordinarily the period of suspension will continue through the entire following block or semester.

6. Expulsion from the university. This sanction is used in the event of extraordinarily grave cases of academic dishonesty or when less severe cases of dishonesty persist after one returns from a period of suspension for academic dishonesty.

THE PROCESS

Faculty members should provide the student with a written account of the offense and the sanction. Faculty members should also report cases of academic dishonesty to the Office of the Dean of Students (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School (graduate), including an indication of the sanction levied (this could be a copy of the letter sent to the student).

The Dean of Students (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School (graduate) will monitor academic dishonesty infractions in the context of a student's entire record of misconduct at the university. When appropriate, the Dean of Students (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School (graduate) will activate a hearing process wherein the sanctions of suspension or expulsion from the University may be levied. These cases are heard by the Deans Committee consisting of the Dean of Students and the Dean of Faculty (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School and Director of the MA Program (graduate).

Whether undergraduate or graduate, the Deans Committee does not reconsider the grade sanction which may have been levied at an earlier stage. It only considers whether additional sanctions are in order, and does not confine consideration to the case of academic dishonesty. Rather, it considers the entire record of misconduct of the student at the college which is compiled in the Dean of Students Office (undergraduate)/Dean of the Graduate School (graduate).

APPEALS

There are two avenues of appeal, one applicable to appealing grade sanctions, the other applicable to appealing suspension or expulsion decisions. The Academic Standards Committee of the undergraduate faculty/graduate faculty will consider appeals of grade sanctions. The President of the University will hear appeals of suspension and expulsion sanctions. No further opportunities for appeal are available.

INSTITUTIONAL STUDENT COMPLAINT PROCESS

Soka University of America's primary objective is to help students meet their educational goals through a positive and rigorous academic experience. Soka University of America is committed to its students and would like to know about student concerns. Students may voice concerns through the University's administrative procedures, which include meeting with his/her academic advisor, faculty member, Deans or through a more formal process of grievance as outlined in the University catalog under University Policies or Student Code of Conduct.

However, on occasion, a student may have a complaint about their educational experience at Soka University of America and/or may believe that administrative procedures have not adequately addressed their concerns and/or circumstances to alleged violations of applicable state laws, that include but are not limited to fraud and false advertising; alleged violations of state laws or rules relating to the licensure of postsecondary institutions; and complaints relating to the quality of education or other state regulatory requirements.

In accordance with Section 600.9 of Title 34 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Soka University is required to provide students with contact information for filing complaints to the state as well as with our own accrediting agency.

Soka University of America is accredited by the WASC Senior College and University Commission (WSCUC). The WSCUC Complaint Process is available at:

OUR MISSION

SUA is fully committed to the safety and well-being of all community citizens. It is the intention of the University to foster an environment that is devoid of harassment, violence, and any infringement of the rights of privacy and property.

The Student Code of Conduct was designed in collaboration with students to serve as a provision to protect the rights of both the individual and the campus community. It is a document which continues to be modified to adequately reflect the changes in community standards. Thus, the University reserves the right to alter this document at any time. The current Student Code of Conduct supersedes all previous policies and procedures. The latest policy revisions herein will govern all student conduct issues.

The Office of Student Conduct & Resolution's Policies and Procedures identifies the kinds of disruptive behavior that inhibit the normal functioning of the University and its constituents. It also describes the Student Conduct & Resolution Process, which may be enacted upon the notice of an alleged violation.

SUA's mission and educational goals can only be achieved with genuine community collaboration and respect for the rights of others. Therefore, knowledge of the Student Code of Conduct is a crucial element in creating a positive, safe, and healthy community. All students are responsible for informing themselves of these standards and conducting themselves with honor, integrity, and in the spirit of good citizenship. Students will be held accountable for adhering to the high standards of this institution as long as they are deemed as currently enrolled students.

JURISDICTION

SUA shall have jurisdiction over student behavior associated with the SUA Student Code of Conduct which takes place on campus, off campus, in person, and even online. Any online postings or other electronic communication, including cyber-bullying, cyber-stalking, cyber-harassment and other policy violations will be subject to the Student Conduct & Resolution Process. Regardless of where the violation occurred, the Student Conduct & Resolution Process will be conducted consistently, in the same manner.

Each student will be responsible for his/her conduct as long as the student is enrolled and considered to be an SUA student. The Student Code of Conduct shall apply to a student's conduct even if the student withdraws from the University after the Student Conduct & Resolution Process had already begun. However, the University has no jurisdiction over a student who has officially withdrawn from the institution before an alleged violation occurred.

REPORTING

Any Member of the SUA community may report alleged conduct by a student or student organization that may be a violation of our Student Code of Conduct. A report should be made either in writing or in person to any SUA employee who will then forward that incident statement to the Office of Student Conduct & Resolution. The Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution will then review the incident statement to determine if the information provided constitutes initiating the Student Conduct & Resolution Process.

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

Each member of the University shares the responsibility for maintaining conditions conducive to the achievement of the University's mission. The following is a non-exclusive list of misconduct that is prohibited and subject to the Student Conduct & Resolution Process:

- a) Violation of the Campus Alcohol and Drug Policies.
- b) Direct and indirect forms of abuse, threats, intentional or reckless endangerment, or causing physical harm to any person.
- c) Sexual misconduct as defined in the SUA's Sexual Misconduct/Title IX Policy and Procedures. The grievance procedures for resolving the alleged violations of the Sexual Misconduct Policy can be found in SUA's Sexual Misconduct/Title IX Policy and Procedures.
- d) Possession of a firearm or any other weapon on campus.

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

- e) Intentionally initiating or causing to be initiated any false reporting, warning or threat of fire, explosion or other emergency.
- f) Disorderly or inappropriate conduct on University property or at official University functions.
- g) Forgery, unauthorized use of or alteration of any University document, card system or identification.
- h) Intentionally or recklessly interfering with any and all normal University or University-sponsored activities, events and procedures.
- i) Unauthorized entry or use of University facilities.
- j) Violation of the term of any sanction imposed in accordance with the Code.
- k) Theft of property; possession of stolen property.
- l) Intentionally or recklessly destroying or damaging University property or the property of others.
- m) Purposefully failing to comply with the reasonable directions of University officials, including Campus Security officers.
- n) Violations of other published University regulations or policies. Such regulations or policies may include the University Catalog, Student-Athlete Handbook, IT Policies, Residential Life Guide, as well as those regulations relating to governing student organizations.
- o) Actions violating University policies or inappropriate conduct by a student's guest.
- p) Violation of federal or state law of special relevance to the university including but not limited to sex offenses and indecent conduct.
- q) Hate violence motivated by hostility to race, ethnic background, religious belief, sex, age, disability, or sexual orientation.

MEDICAL AMNESTY POLICY

Student health and safety are our top priority here at Soka University of America. So much so that this policy was created in an effort to keep students from compromising their own or another student's well-being due to the fear or dislike of potentially being subjected to the disciplinary action by the University. Therefore, in cases of an alcohol/drug-related emergency (intoxication, alcohol poisoning and/or drug overdose), SUA encourages student(s) to act on this policy whether on or off campus in order to ensure medical assistance for themselves and/or for another student who they observe to be or feel is dangerously intoxicated/under the influence of alcohol or illegal substance. Therefore, if a student(s) meets all the required criteria on behalf of another student or for themselves, that student(s) will not be subject to disciplinary action for the violation of the SUA's Student Code of Conduct:

- Call university staff or local EMS/authorities for medical attention on behalf of another student or for themselves. Calling for medical attention may include a range of efforts such as a voluntary examination by University Residential Life Staff, contacting local EMS/authority, seeking transportation to or visiting a hospital for more intensive care. It also includes asking for the assistance of Student Health Services.
- Medical intervention must be sought at the time of the observed conditions that give rise to a reasonable suspicion of alcohol/drug abuse.
- Remain with the person experiencing the emergency until medical assistance arrives.
- Meet with the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution within 5 business days of the incident in order to request Amnesty.

RIGHTS OF COMPLAINANT OR RESPONDENT

I. Complainant

Any student or member of the SUA community may bring complaints related to a violation in the code of conduct to the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution or a Dean of Students. In addition, criminal or civil complaints may be filed with the state of California if desired. The university encourages all those affected by the incident to report violations of the law to proper authorities on or off campus. Complainant's rights will be upheld and strictly protected by the Office of the Dean of Students. A respectful, equitable, expeditious and thorough fact-finding process will be conducted upon receipt of a complaint.

II. Non-SUA Complainant

A complainant can also be a non-student and not be affiliated with the University community. A complainant could be a guest or visitor. If an incident occurs off-campus, involving a complainant who is not a member of the University community, the complainant may have the right to file a complaint with the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution or a Dean of Students. When the circumstances of an incident and/or the behavior of the complainant are considered to have a substantially adverse effect upon the integrity of the University and its community, disciplinary action may take place.

III. Respondent

Students who are allegedly responsible for violating the Student Code of Conduct also have rights. A thorough fact-finding process will be conducted by the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution upon receipt of a complaint. The Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution will meet with all parties alleged of violating Student Code of Conduct. The student(s) will then be provided an opportunity to respond to allegations of misconduct. After a respectful, equitable and expeditious review, the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution will attempt to resolve the complaint or refer the case to the Dean of Students if necessary. The student(s) also has the right to appeal the decision.

IV. Rights of Complainant and Respondent

Following rights are afforded equally to both complainant and respondent:

- Be informed in writing of all allegations
- Discuss the incident with the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution
- Submit a written statement to be considered by the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution/Dean of Students/Student Conduct & Resolution Board
- Present witnesses or their statements
- Be supported by a victim advocate or an advisor
- Be informed of the outcome of the Student Conduct & Resolution process as in accordance with applicable laws
- Appeal the decision

V. The Right to Review Records

A student conduct record is an educational record and is protected by the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA). This ensures confidentiality of student educational records and restricts disclosure to or access by third parties. However, those authorized by law such as officers of the federal and state governments and representatives of accreditation agencies may have legal access to these files, as well as SUA officials who are required to perform duties which necessitate having access to these files.

In addition, FERPA allows notification to parents/legal guardians and/or “emergency contact” of students when the University determines that a student(s), regardless of age, is in a situation that is threatening to their own health or safety or placed another in a situation that is threatening to their health or safety.

THE PROCESS

I. Introduction

The Office of Student Conduct & Resolution serves to assist students who are affected by an incident as well as those who are allegedly responsible for an incident. The Office of Residential Life and Campus security also works in cooperation with this office to report incidents and assist in the process.

SUA is committed to a fundamentally fair conduct process. The University’s approach is intended to be an educational process, not a legal process, and all proceedings are informal. Our process respects the rights of all parties involved, provides an appeal process, and our end goal focuses on fostering student development and character.

However, students should be aware that they could be held accountable for both civil and criminal authorities as well as to the University for violating a state and/or federal law that also violates the Code of Conduct. The Student Conduct & Resolution Process affords each alleged student to undergo a process which is based on a standard of proof (an amount of information needed to establish a violation of policy) known as the preponderance of evidence. To clarify, this standard of proof is used by higher education institutions in the U.S. and is different from the standard of proof used in a legal system (proof beyond reasonable doubt). Preponderance of evidence means “it is more likely than not that this individual (group) violated the SUA Student Code of Conduct.”

STUDENT CODE OF CONDUCT

II. Student Expectation

All students going through the Student Conduct & Resolution process are expected to cooperate fully and demonstrate honesty throughout each phase of the process. This expectation is based on SUA's mission "to foster a steady stream of global citizens committed to living a contributive life." Living out our mission is a direct call to character; that our students realize that actually living out this mission will require the development of character through all circumstances experienced here at SUA. If a student chooses not to cooperate in any part of the process, the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution/Dean of Students will continue moving forward with deciding an outcome based on all the pertinent information that has been already gathered throughout the process.

III. Retaliation

Any attempt to penalize, intimidate, or retaliate in any way against a person who makes a report or who is otherwise involved in a report or in the Student Conduct & Resolution process for alleged violation(s) of the Student Code of Conduct is strictly prohibited. Any person who believes that he or she has been retaliated against for making a complaint/report or cooperating in the Student Conduct & Resolution process should immediately contact the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution. Any person who retaliates against a person for cooperating in the Student Conduct & Resolution process is in violation and is subject to disciplinary action.

IV. Our Educational Process

Student Conduct & Resolution process is initiated when a report of an alleged violation of the Code of Conduct is made to an SUA staff member (ex: Dean of Students, Residential Life Coordinator, Residential Advisor, Professor, etc) which is forwarded to the Office of Student Conduct & Resolution. This report in the form of an Incident Statement will then be reviewed by the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution to first determine if the nature of the incident warrants proceeding with the Conduct & Resolution process. Note that a Dean of Students may intervene in the process at any time during any case if needed.

Once it is determined that the incident relates to the Student Code of Conduct, the first step of our educational process is a preliminary fact-finding which includes meeting with all student(s) involved in the incident. The purpose is to determine if there is sufficient information to hold the student(s) responsible for a violation. The Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution will conduct the process based upon the facts and circumstances reported to the Office and developed through the course of the process, including interviews and follow-up interviews as feasible and appropriate with the Complainant, the Respondent, any witnesses, and other SUA community members, and gathering other pertinent evidentiary materials to the extent reasonable and appropriate. All this information, collectively, will be analyzed and be considered towards the outcome.

If the Assistant Director of Student Code of Conduct & Resolution decides that there is inadequate information to hold the student(s) responsible, the complaint will be dropped and no further action taken. However, if there is adequate information to support the complaint, and a student(s) is held responsible for violating the Student Code of Conduct, appropriate sanctions will be imposed. Students should be made aware that being found responsible for violations of the Code of Conduct could lead to suspension or expulsion. The University will not tolerate students who act to endanger others, repeat any inappropriate behavior, or interfere with the educational process and operation of the University.

Certain cases involving issues such as sexual misconduct, weapons and drugs will be automatically elevated to a Dean of Students. For these violations, more severe sanctions such as probation, suspension, and expulsion can be given.

V. Sanctions

Sanctions served are intended as reminders for students of their accountability for their actions. Sanctions may have an educational component to specifically curtail behavior that is in violation of the Code of Conduct. Sanctions will not generally be imposed unless considerations of all of the circumstances in a particular case have been made. The guidelines for determining sanctions are based on previous disciplinary records, the nature of the incident and the details surrounding the incident. A number of considerations are made in assigning a sanction.

One or more of the following sanctions may be imposed if held responsible for violations:

- Warnings (verbal and/or written)
- Community Service or Special Assignment
- Educational Assignment
- Monetary Fines
- Parental Notification in the case of alcohol and/or controlled substance abuse will be as follows:
 - Notification will be sent following the 1st violation of the SUA Campus Drug policy
 - Notification will be sent for those students under the age of 21 for a 2nd violation of the SUA Campus Alcohol policy
- Exclusion from specific campus privileges
- Probation
- Suspension: A Dean of Students may suspend a student from the University for an interim period pending disciplinary or criminal proceedings, or medical evaluation. The interim suspension shall become immediately effective without prior notice whenever there is evidence that the continued presence of the student at the University poses a substantial and immediate threat to others, or to the stability and continuance of normal University functions.
- Expulsion: The University reserves the rights to disqualify, discontinue, exclude, or involuntarily withdraw any student from the University at the discretion of a Dean of Students, or a Dean's designee, as deemed necessary based on the violation.

Other restrictions may be imposed at the discretion of the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution or a Dean of Students.

APPEALS PROCESS

A respondent or complainant can appeal the decision. It is important to note that the purpose of the appeals process is only to review the decision to hold a student responsible for violating the Student Code of Conduct; not the sanctions. If the decision to hold a student responsible is upheld, the sanctions remain the same. A student can only appeal once and the decision made by the appeals process will be final.

If the student chooses to appeal, he or she must make a request in writing to the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution within 5 days of the date of the original decision. The following are the only grounds for appeal:

- a) New facts/information: New facts/information that could potentially alter the outcome of the case became available after the decision. Failure to present facts/information that was available prior to the decision is not grounds for an appeal under this provision.
- b) Insufficient facts/information: The decision was not based on substantial facts/information; that is, the respondent or complainant believes the facts/information supporting the decision was insufficient to establish that a violation of the code of conduct occurred.
- c) Procedural issue: The Conduct & Resolution procedures were not followed in some respect that resulted in significant detriment to the appealing party.

Depending upon who rendered the original decision, a student has the following options to appeal.

I. To appeal a decision made by the Assistant Director of Student Conduct & Resolution (a student can choose only one of the following options):

- a) Appeal the decision to a Dean of Students through a written statement (stating the grounds and arguments) within 10 days from the date the appeal request was submitted. The Dean's decision will be final.
- b) Appeal the decision to the Student Conduct & Resolution Board through a written statement (stating the grounds and arguments) within 10 days from the date the appeal request was submitted. The Board will make a recommendation to the Dean of Students who will then make the final decision.

The Student Conduct & Resolution Board, convened by the Dean of Students, is made up of two students elected by peers (generally SSU EC Vice-President and Attorney General or other SSU EC members if necessary), two professional staff appointed by the Vice President of Administration and two faculty members appointed by the Dean of Faculty. One professional staff or faculty member will be appointed as a Chairperson. The Chairperson is a non-voting member except in the event of a tie vote.

II. To appeal a decision, when the original decision was made by a Dean of Students:

A student may appeal a Dean's decision to the President of the University through a written statement (stating the grounds and arguments). An appeal request must be made to the President of the University in writing within 10 days from the date the appeal request was submitted. The President's decision will be final.

THE DAISAKU AND KANEKO IKEDA LIBRARY

The Daisaku and Kaneko Ikeda Library is named after the founders of Soka University of America (SUA). The mission of the library is to offer student-centered library services in support of SUA's mission, and the library strives to meet the information needs of the SUA community by

1. Disseminating academic resources that support the programs and courses at SUA,
2. Providing personal reference services and information literacy instruction, and by
3. Offering a functional space for students to read and study comfortably.

The materials held by Ikeda Library are chosen according to their relevance to the curricula of the courses at SUA. The print book collection contains titles in English and in the four languages taught at Soka: Chinese, French, Japanese, and Spanish. The library currently subscribes to more than 90 online databases, offering students easy access to peer-reviewed journals and over 260,000 electronic books. The librarians actively update these collections and offer instruction in optimizing their use. Students and faculty are also encouraged to recommend materials for the library to purchase.

The media collection includes works that contribute to the teaching of all disciplines in the university curricula, and it also boasts popular films chosen to support students in their studies, foreign language development, and for their leisure viewing. Over a thousand documentary films and music recordings are also accessible from the library's online databases.

Supplementing the library's physical and online collections, the library's interlibrary loan (ILL) service provides the campus community with the means to access materials not found within the walls of the library. Students wanting to borrow resources not held by Ikeda Library can request them through ILL. Ikeda Library borrows the items from another library at no charge to the students. Periodical articles are usually emailed to the students within 2 to 3 business days, and the books are mailed to the library. The students are then asked to check out the books at the Circulation Desk.

Through collaboration with the faculty, the library is pursuing its mission of promoting information literacy. Students are also welcome to attend the information literacy session held at the beginning of each semester. These sessions offer an introduction to library research and are a great way to develop searching strategies and source evaluation skills. Information literacy instruction sessions, provided by the Reference and Instruction Librarian, impart not only skills needed to succeed in academia, but also foster in the students the qualities necessary for self-directed lifelong learning.

In addition to classroom instruction sessions, individualized reference sessions and research consultations with a reference librarian are available to all SUA students. Walk-in inquiries, emails, and phone calls are also welcome, and are responded to in a timely manner. The library also offers a number of research guides, called LibGuides, on its website. These guides contain useful information about library services and resources, and are designed to help students in their studies and in developing their information literacy skills.

On each floor of the library, a number of study desks and carrels are available for individual study. For collaborative work or film viewing, group study rooms are open to students during the library operation hours. They are equipped with a TV, a DVD/Blu-ray/VHS player, and a whiteboard. Reservations are not required, but they are recommended when demand for study rooms is high, most often during midterms and final exams.

There are also two study rooms open for student use 24 hours a day: the 24-Hour Study Room, located on the 2nd floor of the library, and room 461 on the 4th floor of the library. The Grand Reading Room, also located on the 4th floor of the library, is open 9 a.m.-5 p.m. during the week.

For more information about the library's services and collections, please contact the library or visit the website. Phone: 949.480.4105, Email: library@soka.edu, Website: <http://ikedalibrary.soka.edu>, and Facebook: <http://www.facebook.com/ikedalibrary>.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT & STUDENT SERVICES

The University Archive and Photography Office

As part of the Ikeda Library, the University Archives Office gathers and manages scholastic, historic, and cultural materials that reflect the actions, values, and founders of SUA; the campus activities of students, faculty and staff; and the notable accomplishments of SUA alumni. Select items from the SUA Archives Office have been used to supplement the academic holdings of the Ikeda Library, such as digital video recordings of academic events and commencement ceremonies, conference proceedings from the Soka Education Conference, and writings related to the history of Soka education. The University Archives Office holds additional records that can be used to support student learning. For more information, please visit <http://libguides.soka.edu/archives> or email archive@soka.edu.

The University Photography Office photographs, and provides photographs for, SUA events and projects. To request existing images, view samples of our work, and learn more, please visit <http://libguides.soka.edu/photo> or email photo@soka.edu.

UNIVERSITY WRITING CENTER

The University Writing Center provides a range of services to students, from workshops on all aspects of writing to individualized tutoring. We also offer appointments for faculty members working on their writing projects. Students may drop in for tutoring, or they may schedule an appointment with one of the tutors using our online appointment system. Faculty members should contact the Center's Director or the Director's Assistant to make appointments. Workshops are announced in advance, and students may sign up on a first-come, first-served basis.

For tutoring sessions, the Center requests that students bring a copy of their writing assignment along with a draft of their paper. A tutor will go over the assignment and look at the draft and help the student by offering suggestions for revision. Note that tutors do not edit or correct student papers. Instead, they ask questions that help students discover on their own how to make a paper better or they point out common mistakes that need to be corrected.

Most of the Center's writing tutors have master's degrees and are experienced teachers. The Center also employs a select group of Writing Center Fellows. Writing Center Fellows are peer tutors who have been nominated by faculty members for their proficiency in writing and working with students.

For more information about the University Writing Center, call 949-480-4060.

LIBERAL ARTS

BA IN LIBERAL ARTS

The uniqueness of the BA program lies in the comparative teaching of international perspectives, the Core Curriculum and Learning Clusters, the semester of Study Abroad and an emphasis on language, art, and culture.

Core Curriculum is a series of two sequential courses taken by all students, focusing on a range of issues related to such SUA values as peace, human rights and the creative co-existence of nature and humanity.

Learning Clusters are research seminars designed to bridge theory and practice in the investigation of a specific question, and to elicit in the way of a specific product, an educated outcome or response. Students work in teams with one or more faculty facilitators to propose, research and model constructive approaches to local, regional and/or global issues.

All SUA undergraduate students concentrate on a non-native language and culture. All students participate in a semester of study abroad during their junior year.

The undergraduate learning outcomes are:

1. To foster an awareness of the needs of our changing world through developing a sense of history and an understanding of the nature of reality
2. To think and investigate critically and creatively
3. To be effective at various modes of expression and communication
4. To acquire knowledge and appreciation of multiple cultures and traditions
5. To become, through integrative learning, active and informed global citizens

Soka University BA graduates have been accepted to top graduate schools, including Harvard, Yale, Columbia, Stanford, USC, UC Berkeley, UCLA, University of Hawaii Law School and London School of Economics. SUA graduates are currently employed all around the world, and are working in law, business, education, nursing and medical practices, at the World Bank, Peace Corps, and United Nations ... just to name a few!

HOW WILL YOU KNOW AN SUA GRADUATE?

SUA graduates will be true international citizens, comfortably discoursing in English and in other languages on a range of topics – from their careers to the arts and the environment and, more importantly, the peace and well-being of the global community. They also will be recognized by the breadth of their education – a familiarity with the great works of the East and West as well as with issues relevant to their communities and the world at large. They will incorporate the outlook of many cultures and modes of thought in their writing, speech and thought, bringing an inclusive and critical perspective to their analysis of opinion, issues, and policy.

As leaders and decision-makers, SUA graduates will be guided by the ideal of a contributive life and a humanistic approach inspired by Buddhist principles. Leading a contributive life means valuing the individual ahead of individualism, ideas ahead of ideology, and compassion ahead of sentimentality. Appreciation for the individual regardless of national origin, group affiliation, race, color, creed, or gender is a hallmark of SUA's graduates. Leaders in many walks of life, these graduates will manifest their education and their character through their commitment to the central values of global citizenship, justice, freedom, human rights, and peace — not as abstractions, but as the foundation of their daily intercourse with others.

IMPLEMENTING THE VISION

In order to prepare its students to become global citizens, SUA has brought together an international faculty and an international student body. This diversity in itself helps to create a climate for learning, and weaves a global perspective into the fabric of daily campus life.

SUA classrooms are centers of dialogue and discussion, emphasizing seminar course settings. Students work in small teams in the classroom and with faculty on research projects, as well as with peers on residence hall learning activities. Advanced computing and telecommunication capabilities are widely available in all buildings and outside gathering areas, supporting a laptop computer campus. Information technology facilitates student-faculty and student-student interactions, as well as interaction with the wider world.

The undergraduate degree offered at SUA is a B.A. in Liberal Arts, with concentrations in Humanities, International Studies, Social and Behavioral Sciences and Environmental Studies. Each of these concentrations supports the Pacific Basin focus of SUA, as well as its emphasis on leadership and contributive citizenship. Degree offerings and concentrations will increase in number and range consistent with enrollment increases and student interests. Programs and courses have been designed to provide students with the following:

- Multiple perspectives drawing on diverse cultures, traditions, and points of view with special attention given to Eastern and Western thought and practice.
- A general education program that introduces students to disciplinary knowledge and perspectives, as well as to critical and creative thinking and to the communication skills necessary for life-long learning.
- A core curriculum that reflects the values that inspired the creation of SUA through the study of the great works of the human mind.
- Language offerings that enable access to the literature and culture of different Pacific Basin peoples.
- A study abroad or internship experience for half the junior year, that deepens students' language skills and their awareness of the culture supporting that language.
- Learning clusters that organize small teams of students and faculty to conduct interdisciplinary research and develop proposals and solutions for issues of local, regional, or global significance.

GENERAL EDUCATION CURRICULUM

OVERVIEW

The purpose of the general education requirement is to provide students with a wide range of knowledge. It also provides them with the skills and abilities to transform this knowledge into responsible and effective participation in society. By the end of the general education program at Soka University of America, students will have acquired the foundation to:

1. Live, work, and provide leadership in a rapidly changing world.
2. Think critically and creatively.
3. Be effective at various modes of expression and communication.
4. Interact with and appreciate other cultures and traditions.
5. Take constructive action for a better society.

Underlying the general education program are courses aimed at integrating diverse disciplinary perspectives, with an emphasis on comparative and international dimensions. Within each course, clearly identified objectives are specified as being relevant to the overall general education program and to the mission of a Soka education. The program is designed to have synergy with the rest of the curriculum and to introduce or reinforce themes, goals, and outcomes of the SUA experience without being repetitive.

Specific courses within the general education curriculum are designed to meet one or more of the learning objectives outlined below. CORE

A two-course sequence, Core explores a range of issues related to the mission statement of the school, including its commitment to such values as peace, human rights, and the creative co-existence of nature and humanity. Core also provides an introduction to the various ways of knowing that characterize the major divisions of the undergraduate curriculum, thereby laying the foundation for the interdisciplinary and cross-cultural study that underlies a Soka education. In this exploration, Core courses stress an understanding of the social and historical contexts necessary to make meaningful comparisons among civilizations both of the East and the West. Upon completing the Core, students will be able to question and probe the commonalities and differences of the human experience and thus their own lives from multiple perspectives. They will be provided the tools to speak and write intelligently about those perspectives and more generally about the difficulties and nuances of cross-cultural description, in preparation for the day when they will take their place as citizens of the world. Building on a set of common readings, individual members of the faculty help shape the core through reading selections drawn from their special training, expertise, and interests.

Student learning outcomes for the Core area are:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of the commonalities and differences of the human experience from multiple (historical/cultural/disciplinary) perspectives.
2. Critically evaluate this knowledge in relation to their own lives.
3. Develop their ability to speak and write effectively about their evaluation of this knowledge.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

CORE 100 The Enduring Questions of Humanity 3 units

This course looks at the central questions that Eastern and Western cultures have posed about what makes for a meaningful and successful life. These questions include cross-cultural notions of virtue, perceptions of self and other, community relations and governance, human interactions with nature, and transcendence. The course is offered in a seminar format that requires active participation and reading of primary texts.

CORE 200 The Enduring Questions in Contemporary Contexts 3 units

This course examines how the central questions posed in Core I continue to be addressed in the contemporary context. Through readings on the environment, historical development of human societies, current issues of social inequality, as well as personal and group identities and relationships, Core II explores some of the major issues facing humanity today. Prerequisite: CORE 100.

COMMUNICATION AND INQUIRY

In keeping with the mission of the university, communication is highly valued at SUA. The University Writing Program introduces students to the principles of effective written and oral communication that will allow them to excel as writers, readers, listeners, and speakers. The courses challenge students to understand the complex rhetorical relationships among audience, purpose, and text, and among language, knowledge and power. The courses also introduce students to the collaborative and social aspects of the writing process. The program aims to cultivate lifelong learning in written and oral communication by encouraging students to develop their capacity to reflect on events and information; to reason critically and thoughtfully; and to develop a commitment to the ethical uses of language.

Related to the courses on communication skills is a course on modes of inquiry, which helps students approach the rest of the curriculum with a critical sense of the varying ways that knowledge and understanding are conceived and used by different disciplines. When investigating problems and articulating insights, students are able to choose among and combine different modes of inquiry. They are able to understand the assumptions and limitations that underlie the various ways of inquiring used within disciplines, to see that certain problems require using certain modes of inquiry, to see that intellectual problems often require the use of many modes of inquiry, and to see the delineation and commonalities among them.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

WRIT 101 Communication Skills 3 units

This course provides students with opportunities to practice a range of conventions, standards of proof, and ways of knowing that characterize language in the concentration areas that make up the SUA liberal arts education: the humanities, environmental studies, social and behavioral sciences, and international studies. In the process, students develop critical reading and thinking skills as well as competence in written and oral English so as to produce coherent, interesting, thoughtful, and largely error-free papers that are congruent with appropriate standards of academic discourse.

WRIT 301 and 305 Advanced Communications Skills 3 units

To satisfy the upper-division writing requirement, students may select any WRIT 301 or WRIT 305 course that corresponds with their areas of interest. Although specific readings and writing projects vary by professor, all sections of WRIT 301 and WRIT 305 share learning outcomes and general course goals.

Writing 301 and 305 are advanced courses that provide students with opportunities to practice the kind of writing, research, and oral presentation skills that characterize topics and discourses related to particular concentration areas as preparation for graduate and/or professional work. Students develop a professional voice in writing and speaking while examining topical issues representative of the concentration areas at SUA. In addition, they use solutions to problems and new perspectives in concentration areas. Writing 301 courses are paired with a particular concentration, whereas Writing 305 courses are organized around broad, often cross-disciplinary topics Prerequisites: WRIT 101, with a grade of C- or better.

INQUIRY 100 Modes of Inquiry 3 units

This course examines various ways of studying, knowing, and understanding information and experience. It focuses on the axiomatic (or formal deductive), philosophical, historical, observational (or empirical), imaginative expressive, and interpretive paradigms of discovery and understanding. As a result of taking this course, students will understand the assumptions that underlie the various ways of inquiring used within and across disciplines, understand that every mode of inquiry has its own strengths and limitations in the exploration of a given question or problem, be able to sustain a line of argument using one or more modes of inquiry, and be able to articulate the commonalities and/or differences among various modes of inquiry.

CREATIVE ARTS PROGRAM

SUA regards imagination and creativity as essential qualities for global leadership. The creative arts courses help students develop these qualities through individual and collaborative endeavors.

All creative arts courses are designed to fulfill the following goals:

1. Direct experience of the creative process in at least one artistic medium.
2. Appreciation for the universal human creative spirit.
3. Enhancement of creative thinking and problem-solving as skills that can be transferred to other endeavors.
4. Creation of a non-competitive community for individual and collaborative work.

The student learning outcomes for Creative Arts Program are:

1. Creative Artwork – Students will demonstrate development and improvement of skills or craft in the artistic medium in which they work, including the understanding and appropriate use of materials and techniques, resulting in successful completion of their artistic end product.
2. Tools of Creativity – Students will demonstrate development and improvement of internal skills that foster the creation of art, including expanded aesthetic appreciation, improved perceptual abilities (e.g., listening, seeing, comprehending), and flexible imagination.
3. General Creative Processes – Students will demonstrate development and improvement of attitudes and abilities that support creative endeavor in general, such as openness to exploring new possibilities, lateral thinking/brainstorming and, in specific situations, the ability to work in teams across artistic disciplines.

Students can fulfill the Creative Arts requirement by choosing one of the 3-credit hour courses offered within the Creative Arts Program and the 1-credit Creativity Forum.

SCIENCE AND MATHEMATICS

The math and science curriculum at SUA offers courses in three areas: The Mathematical World, The Physical World, and The Natural World. One course from each area is required of all students, but these may be taken in any order.

Students taking courses in the Science and Mathematics area will learn to:

1. Understand the nature of mathematical or scientific inquiry
2. Understand how mathematical or scientific inquiry is relevant to contemporary society
3. Use mathematical or scientific skills for problem solving
4. Communicate mathematical or scientific principles and results effectively

The Natural WorldBIO 110 Nature and Humanity 3 units

This course is an introduction to environmental issues – the interactions of humanity and industrial civilization with the natural environment of Earth. The course draws on scientific, technological, and social perspectives to examine current and future environmental challenges, including the impacts of human actions on natural ecosystems, natural resources, pollution, and climate change.

BIO 120 Human Body in aModern World 3 units

The human body is an amazing product of 3.5 billions of years of evolution. From our cells to our organ systems, our bodies are beautifully designed to thrive on planet Earth. In this course, we will explore the structure and function of various human organ systems including the circulatory system, respiratory system, digestive system, reproductive system, and portions of the endocrine system (kidneys and adrenal glands). Along the way, we will discuss challenges faced by each of these organ systems in this modern age that can result in disease such as air pollution, endocrine disrupting chemicals, overuse of antibiotics, and a highly-processed industrial diet. Students will perform various hands-on laboratory activities that will reinforce how their bodies function and how to live a healthy life.

BIO 130 Genetics and Evolution 3 units

Have you ever wondered about DNA and how it has evolved to produce the amazing variety of life forms that inhabit our planet? This class will explore exciting topics in both genetics and evolutionary biology, some of which include: the genetics of cancer, reproduction and inheritance, epigenetics, GMOs, DNA forensics, antibiotic resistance, human evolution and the genetics of “race,” evolution of the “fat gene,” and the evolution of development. Students will explore these topics through lectures, case study work, and hands-on laboratory exercises.

BIO 140 DNA to Organisms 4 units

This course offers a fundamental introduction to genetics, cell biology, and organ systems. We will explore the four macromolecules of life (nucleic acid, proteins, carbohydrates, and lipids) and discuss how they are used inside and outside of cells to build structures, transport materials across membranes, send signals, and acquire cellular energy (ATP). We will study biological information flow (DNA to protein, receptors to nuclei, blood to distant organs, and DNA to offspring). We will also learn the structure and function of human organ systems and how they work together to maintain homeostasis in the body. This course is appropriate for students planning to continue in fields requiring knowledge of biology such as the health sciences, environmental studies, or the natural sciences. Students will spend three hours in lecture/discussion and three hours in the laboratory each week.

BIO 141 Organisms to Ecosystems 4 units

This course offers a fundamental introduction to evolutionary biology, patterns of diversity, and ecology. We will discuss evolutionary processes such as natural selection and genetic drift and explore how those processes can lead to genetic diversity within species as well as the creation of new species. We will also explore the form and function of various phyla from the tree of life and discuss how they interact within communities and ecosystems. This course is appropriate for students planning to continue in fields requiring knowledge of biology such as the health sciences, environmental studies, or the natural sciences. Students will spend three hours in lecture/discussion and three hours in the laboratory each week. Prerequisite: BIO 140

Chemistry asks what is matter made of and how does it interact? A basic understanding of chemistry is a prerequisite for good citizenship in our changing and technological society. This course introduces modern chemical concepts and processes in the context of their impact on health, the environment, and technology. Through inquiry-based learning, you will develop critical thinking skills and data-driven decision making toward the understanding of matter. This course has a moderate laboratory component and is appropriate for students not intending to continue in fields requiring foundational chemistry knowledge.

CHEM 140 General Chemistry I 4 units

This course is an introduction to general chemistry with an emphasis on developing problem solving skills. This is the first semester of a two semester sequence in general chemistry for students planning to major in science, engineering, and medical fields. We will explore basic concepts of chemistry along with the mathematics required for quantitative problem solving. The topics include: elements and compounds, chemical calculations, atomic structure, bonding, stoichiometry, chemical equations, reactions in aqueous solutions, oxidation-reduction, energy and chemical changes, and the quantum mechanical atom. PHYS 150 Heaven and Earth: A First Synthesis 3 units

The physics of motion on earth and in the heavens is traced from ancient Greek times through the Dark and Middle Ages, to the Renaissance and Galileo, and to Newton and the Enlightenment. Humanistic, cultural, and historical perspectives are emphasized as is the scientific method/process. Science is shown to be inextricably linked to other human endeavors such as religion, art, politics, music, literature, philosophy, and commerce. High school knowledge of algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and scientific notation would be helpful. Concurrently, we will explore physics after Newton and up to the contemporary frontier of string/brane theory, covering topics such as relativity and quantum mechanics and utilizing modern physics labs.

PHYS 370 Space, Time, & the Texture of Reality 3 units

This heavily mathematical course with no lab requirement examines the changing conceptions of space and time from classical to modern to contemporary physics. Moving from Newtonian reality to Einstein's relativity to quantum mechanics to current unification theories, we will explore mathematics as a tool to transcend our faulty perceptions and to reveal new phenomenal, though perhaps not narrative, truth. Prerequisite: Previous and solid experience in physics and calculus plus instructor consent.

AREA AND COMPARATIVE STUDIES

One of the distinguishing features of SUA is its emphasis on global and cross-cultural points of view. As part of the general education requirement, students must take a course in the American Experience and a course about the Pacific Basin. These courses draw from the social and behavioral sciences (SBS), from the humanities (HUM), international studies (IS) and from environmental studies (ES). Collectively, the courses offered under area and comparative studies are designed to build bridges between East and West, North and South, to develop and expand perspectives concerning various regions of the world, and to enlarge the focus of the student from local to global engagement. These courses seek to introduce important dimensions of human life – social, artistic, cultural, economic, historical, literary, musical, philosophical, political, and religious – as well as to provide a variety of ways to experience, analyze, and appreciate these dimensions. To prepare students to live contributory lives for the betterment of the world, the humanities and social and behavioral science disciplines offer, in these courses, important lessons about common patterns and issues that have faced people at different times and places while also highlighting the uniqueness of each person, time, and place.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

AMEREXP 200 The American Experience3 units

This multidisciplinary course explores the American experience in its social, political, cultural, and historical dimensions. The course examines major American institutions, including the philosophy and history of the United States Constitution from its founding to present day interpretations; the struggle over individual and group rights; and America's presence in the world, taking an approach to the American experience that exposes it to many and varied interpretations. The course includes such topics as American musical, film, and literary traditions, contemporary social and economic issues, politics and political history, the immigrant experience, slavery and its aftermath, American isolationism/expansionism, and the question of what is "mainstream" and what is "marginal" to American life. As a result of taking this course, students will develop a critical understanding of the social, political, cultural, and historical dimensions of the diversity of US experiences; perspectives on US institutions and their role in local and global power relations; interpretive skills through close readings of texts across a variety of genres and media; written and oral communication skills.

PACBASIN 100 Introduction to the Pacific Basin3 units

This course compares regions, cultures, societies, and economies within and across the Pacific Basin.

The course surveys the geography and history of this region, an increasingly important arena in world affairs. From various perspectives, the course also examines contemporary issues, such as economic relations, migration, regional institutions, globalization, democratization, trans-nationalism, and the environment in the Pacific Basin. As a result of taking this course, students will develop an understanding of the historical transformations that characterize the region since the first encounters with Europeans; develop a critical awareness of social, political, economic and cultural issues within the region over time; develop skills of oral and/or written expression; gain experience of interdisciplinary perspectives; gain critical skills for interpreting visual and/or other representations of peoples and cultures across the region.

LANGUAGE AND CULTURE

The mission of the Language and Culture Program (LCP) is to foster the development of the linguistic proficiency and cultural awareness that students will require to become well-educated global citizens. The underlying goals of the LCP are to build communicative competence within a structured context; to strive for excellence in instruction through an eclectic yet integrated variety of pedagogical methods, including the innovative use of technology; and to instill a broad cultural awareness that can expand the disciplinary options open to students.

A key task of the LCP is to prepare students academically for their junior-year semester abroad. SUA requires all students to take a minimum of four LCP language courses, one of which must be at the 202 level or above in the target language of the study-abroad destination. Language study begins in the freshman year, ensuring prolonged and intensive engagement with the languages and cultures studied. Instruction is geared to active student participation.

LCP courses above the 306/307-level are designed for students returning from Study Abroad as well as those with sufficient background in the target language to be placed into courses at this level. These courses enable students to further develop their cultural understanding and linguistic proficiency, and are especially beneficial for students interested in employment abroad or graduate study.

The student learning outcomes for the Language and Culture program are:

1. Upon completion of the required courses in the LCP, students are expected to have the linguistic proficiency to participate in the study abroad semester during their junior year.
2. Upon completion of the required courses in the LCP, students are expected to have the cultural awareness to adapt to their study abroad environment.
3. Upon completion of the upper-level courses offered in the LCP, students are expected to further advance their linguistic proficiency and cultural awareness in any of the languages offered at Soka University of America.

Please see language and culture courses under the Language and Culture Program page 62.

STUDY ABROAD

A unique aspect of SUA's academic program is that all students must spend one half of their junior year abroad engaged in a study abroad program. This requirement is to be fulfilled in a country where the principal language corresponds to a student's language of study at SUA. These programs are designed to extend the reach of a student's academic study of a foreign language through total immersion in the day-to-day life of another culture.

Study abroad gives students an opportunity to acquire further the habits and dispositions of a global citizen, returning to campus with a network of new friends and associates with whom they may nurture deep bonds and lifelong relationships. The study abroad program also adds to the student's intellectual grasp of the world in all its diversity.

Soka University of America assumes no responsibility for any adverse consequences regarding a student's U.S. immigration status that may result from fulfillment of our Study Abroad requirement.

Eligibility

Students must meet the following requirements for study abroad.

- No students are allowed to go on study abroad while on academic probation.
- Incomplete Grades: Default grades will be manually calculated into the student's semester GPA when considering study abroad eligibility. A student whose default grades result in a term or cumulative GPA of less than 2.0 will be considered ineligible to participate in study abroad the following semester.

- Students must be in their junior year to participate in study abroad. Students who are not in the junior year must petition in order to become eligible for studying abroad during a year other than junior.
- Students are required to have completed the 202-level or above in the target language before leaving on their semester abroad.
- Language courses required for eligibility in the study abroad program may not be taken on a Pass/No Pass basis.
- Students are required to take the Language Proficiency Tests (STAMP Test) administered by the LCP, once before and once after Study Abroad.
- Students are required to attend orientations organized by the Office of Study Abroad and International Internships (SAII Office) and to submit all required documents to the SAII Office before leaving for study abroad.

Academic Load Abroad

Students are required to earn a minimum of 12 credits and maximum of 16 credits in the target language per semester for study abroad, and programs will be arranged by the student in coordination with the Director of the SAII Office. The academic worthiness of a particular program will be determined by a faculty committee working with the SAII Office.

Choosing courses in which to enroll while on study abroad involves a combination of factors – scores on the Pre-Study Abroad STAMP Test at SUA; on-site placement test scores and expert opinions (those of Resident Directors and faculty members); and the nature and requirements of the particular study abroad program. Generally, students fulfill SUA's minimum requirement of 12 credits in the target language by taking language courses and/or content courses designed exclusively for international students (see also the following paragraph on "regular" university courses for local students).

To be eligible to take courses while on study abroad at local universities with native-speaking students as valid units for fulfillment of SUA's study abroad requirements, SUA students must achieve scores of TB (Intermediate Mid) or higher in all four skill categories on the mandatory Pre-Study Abroad STAMP Test. Students scoring TA (Intermediate Low) in no more than one of the four skill categories on this test may petition the Study Abroad Committee for special consideration. Final decisions on such petitions will be made by a member of the Study Abroad Committee in the target language in question and the Director of the Language and Culture Program (LCP).

In addition to the minimum required target language credits, students studying abroad are welcome to enroll in any course offered by the Site University or Provider Program. They should keep in mind, however, that they will not receive credit for every course in which they enroll (e.g., Math, Ceramics, Music, Photography, Tai Chi, Dance, etc.). No credit will be given for courses taken abroad that are taught in English or any other non-target language. No credit will be given for internships/service learning courses unless such courses have been pre-approved by the Study Abroad Committee.

Registering for an overload is not recommended, nor will credit be granted for anything above what is considered a full course load; however, an overload can be requested and approved in consultation with the Director of LCP and the Director of the SALL Office. Please note that full-time does not necessarily mean just four courses. Some students enroll in two courses abroad, while other students enroll in five or six, depending on the structure of education in the host country.

Each study abroad program has its own policies concerning minimum and maximum number of credits. To satisfy their study abroad requirement, students must adhere to both the SUA academic guidelines for Academic Load and the guidelines for the individual study abroad program (e.g., some programs require students to enroll in up to 15 credits).

Approval Process for Courses Abroad

Prior to departure, it is mandatory for students to consult with a member of the Study Abroad Committee who teaches their target language about their course choices. Such consultation will guarantee the selection of courses that reflect the students' interests, SUA's academic requirements, and the educational goals of the host university unique to each site.

Approval process will ensure that students enroll in courses that will yield at least the 12 transferable credits necessary to fulfill their academic requirements for Study Abroad. Ultimately, though, each student is responsible for the courses she or he chooses, and must be careful not to mistakenly register for a course for which SUA cannot grant credit.

Students should complete the "Approval form for Courses Abroad" by listing all courses they wish to take during their semester abroad, including courses not for credit transfer. Grades for not credit transfer will NOT be counted toward GPAs, although course names and grades will be documented on SUA's transcripts.

Students should be aware that in certain cases the courses selected before departure might be preliminary, as course listings provided by Provider Programs before departure may differ from the actual courses offered on site. When students make changes on site to their proposed schedule (including pass/non-pass) that differ from the pre-approved plan, they are required to notify the Director of the SALL Office via email within the first 14 days of on-site course registration. Failure to do so could result in not being able to transfer credits in the end. The final course selection must be approved by the Director of the SALL Office and/or Study Abroad Committee.

Transferred Grades from Abroad

The grading system stipulated in the SUA Undergraduate Catalog will apply to the study abroad program. Study abroad courses will be graded and count towards the GPA. Students may fail to complete the minimum of 12 credits by receiving a grade of F or NP. The "I," or incomplete, designation is not allowed for any study abroad course.

Individual courses taken abroad cannot be transferred for fulfillment of SUA graduation requirements. As long as you complete the required number of credits abroad (12 to 16) with the appropriate courses, you are given SUA credit for Study Abroad, but not for specific coursework in particular concentrations. Students must make the Pass/Non Pass declaration before going on study abroad. They must declare which course(s) they wish to take Pass/Non Pass as they complete the Approval Form for Courses Abroad. If a student changes course(s) during study abroad, he or she must re-make the Pass/Non Pass declaration via e-mail within the first 14 days of on-site course registration. Students are not allowed to make this declaration retroactively. If the student fails to communicate with us a change of Pass/Non Pass course(s) status within the above timeframe, we will consider that there is no change from the Pass/Non Pass course(s) declared before study abroad. To make such changes, the student must contact the Director of the SAll Office.

Some programs offer a pre-semester course(s) that requires all participants to attend. Students should note that pre-semester courses will also count toward 12 credits and be graded unless students declare no credit transfer or Pass/Non Pass for that course before the pre-semester begins.

Course credit abroad varies from program to program. Students must be aware of the following course credit conversion for Pass/Non Pass Units:

Course Credit	Equivalent Pass/Non Pass Unit
9-12	3

Students run the risk of not being in good standing academically if they fail to complete at least 12 credits either by not enrolling in the appropriate number of courses or by receiving a grade of F or NP, or D for a declared P/NP course. This failure could result in the loss of a student's scholarships or other financial support. In addition, taking fewer than the required minimum number of credits will, in most cases, lead to the student's not graduating at the end of his or her fourth year of study.

Students who fail to complete at least 12 credits in the target language on study abroad must take a language class(es) in the same language upon return to SUA to make up the number of credits not completed. Language class(es) taken before Study Abroad cannot be counted to make up the required 12 credits.

Each study abroad program has its own grading system, following the grading systems of their respective host universities and intuitions abroad. SUA respects the grading systems used at each site. Students' credit transfer will be based on official transcripts issued for us by the host programs. (However, since SUA has neither D+ nor D- in its grading system, students who earn such grades will receive a grade of D.)

All courses taken during a student's Study Abroad, whether they have been approved to be transferred or not, will be noted on the SUA official transcript. Only courses/units approved by the Study Abroad Committee will be successfully applied to degree requirements and GPA calculations. All courses or units that have not been approved by the Study Abroad Committee will have a "No Credit" indication.

Failure to Complete Full Class Load

Students run the risk of not being in good standing academically if they fail to complete at least 12 credits, either by not enrolling in the appropriate number of courses, or by receiving a grade of F or NP, or D for a declared Pass/Non Pass course.

This failure could result in the loss of scholarships or other financial support. In addition, taking fewer than the required minimum number of credits may lead to the student's not graduating at the end of her or his fourth year of study at SUA. With failure to complete full class load, international students risk losing eligibility or legal status for staying in the US upon return from their Study Abroad semester.

Students who fail to complete at least 12 credits must take a language class(es) in the same language upon return to SUA to make up the number of credits not completed. The language class(es) taken before Study Abroad will not be counted towards making up the required 12 credits.

Withdrawal From Program

On or after the program starting date, if a student chooses to withdraw from his or her program, or to interrupt his or her participation in certain stages of the program, regardless of the type of program, for any reason whatsoever, the student must submit written notification of withdrawal, which must be reviewed by both SUA and the Program Provider, and then submit an SUA withdrawal form to the Office of the Registrar. In such cases, the student would not be permitted to register at SUA during the same semester in which he or she started a Study Abroad program. The earliest that such a student would be allowed to register at SUA is the following semester.

If a student were to withdraw prior to the study abroad program starting date, the student would be permitted to register at SUA for the same semester as that of the planned Study Abroad, on condition that he or she register before the end of add/drop period.

Policy on Coming Back Temporarily to SUA

It is strongly advised that students studying abroad not travel back to SUA for any reason before their program ends. Study Abroad is part of SUA's required curriculum, and students are obligated to complete all coursework, which includes class attendance. This principle applies to students studying abroad in both fall and spring semesters.

If a situation arises in which a student deems it necessary to leave the Study Abroad program site temporarily, he or she must first notify the On-site Residential Director and Director of the SALL Office, who will consult with the Dean of Faculty about the particular case. Absences due to accidents or severe illness as well as those related to family problems will be handled on a case-by-case basis and should not be confused with voluntary absences for non-emergency reasons.

Re-entry

Students must return to campus after study abroad to attend re-entry orientation, complete the online program evaluation, and take the Post-Study Abroad STAMP Test. Those who fail to meet these requirements in time may not be able to register for courses in the following semester.

Housing For Study Abroad Students

Students participating in the Fall Study Abroad program may reside in the residence halls during the summer following the previous academic year by purchasing summer housing from the University. Fall Study Abroad students residing in the halls during the summer are required to check out during the designated checkout period that is prior to the beginning of the fall session.

Students participating in the Spring Study Abroad program may reside in the residence halls over the winter period during the academic year. Spring Study Abroad students residing in the halls are required to check out during the designated checkout period that is prior to the beginning of the spring session.

Fees for Study Abroad

The cost of Study Abroad has been built into the tuition structure at SUA. SUA's total fees for the semester (tuition, room/board & medical insurance) will cover the study abroad program fees including tuition, room/board, SUA medical insurance, airfare, application, and visas. Students are responsible for other costs such as non-SUA medical insurance, postage and all other personal and miscellaneous expenses. Please note that students who live off campus are required to pay SUA room and board charges during their study abroad semester.

LEARNING CLUSTERS

The Learning Cluster is a research seminar designed to bridge theory and practice in the investigation of a specific question, and to elicit in the way of a specific product an educated outcome or response. Students work collaboratively in teams with a Learning Cluster instructor to propose, research, and model constructive approaches to local, regional, and/or global issues. The course is designed to help students learn to apply a range of investigative and analytical tools in the discovery and presentation of trends and ideas, including policy recommendations that bear upon the quality of the human condition. Learning Clusters are 3.5 weeks in length and take place during the Winter Block, allowing students to take full advantage of opportunities, where appropriate, for field and service learning.

The Learning Cluster experience is intended to:

1. Develop in students habits of independent inquiry and study.
2. Engender analytical and investigative skills and the ability to apply them to a specific problem or question.
3. Enhance the ability to work collaboratively with other students and their instructor toward the completion of a common project.

4. Foster a contributive ethic by working on issues that have a larger social significance or meaning.
5. Prepare students for their role as engaged global citizens and leaders.

Students are able to choose a Learning Cluster in one of two ways. Working with an instructor, they can develop and submit a proposal for a Learning Cluster where there is an interest in the topic and no more than twelve students in a section. The proposal should clearly state the nature and purpose of the Learning Cluster and conform to the goals and objectives of the Learning Cluster in general. Alternatively, students may at registration time select their Learning Cluster from a list of offerings first initiated and developed by an instructor.

All Clusters receive support from the university in the form of course development funds that can be used to purchase materials, provide honoraria for guest speakers, and for off campus field trips. A limited number of grants are also available to support fieldwork (maximum twelve days) outside of southern California. Such grants require a detailed application and are awarded on a competitive basis.

Students will take the following Learning Cluster course:

WELLNESS

Soka University is committed to developing well-rounded students, and hence offers a selection of courses designed to develop the body in addition to the mind and spirit.

The emphasis of all Wellness classes is to help students develop the knowledge and specific skill sets to aid in developing a life committed to maintaining their health and fitness, and to develop an enjoyment of physical activity.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

OTHER GENERAL EDUCATION ELECTIVES

COURSE DESCRIPTION

LDRSHIP 100 Leadership 1 unit

This one-credit course is designed to provide students selected for the Student Orientation Leader (SOL) Program with keys to effective leadership. While the emphasis is on experiential learning, students also examine in an academic context various leadership styles, learning to identify and/or develop their own. The course will emphasize ethical leadership, personal responsibility, and community service. While taking this course, students will be engaged in various on-campus orientation activities, including trust building, goal setting, time management, team building, communication, and group process, that utilize their leadership role as an SOL. The course includes journal writing, readings, and group presentations. This course is not required but is open to students who qualify. Prerequisite: Instructor Consent Required. Designated PINP.

DIST 290, 390, 490 Distinguished Topics 1-4 units

Occasionally, SUA will host a distinguished visiting scholar who will live on campus for a brief or extended period of time. He or she may choose to offer a course, based on his or her expertise/experience/interest, to SUA students at a particular level for a particular number of credits. Enrollment may be selective and may require an application process. Prerequisites may require instructor consent or may vary depending on the visiting scholar.

UNIVERSITY WRITING PROGRAM

In keeping with the mission of the university, communication is highly valued at SUA. The University Writing Program introduces students to the principles of effective written and oral communication that will allow them to excel as writers, readers, listeners, and speakers. The courses challenge students to understand the complex rhetorical relationships among audience, purpose, and text. The courses also introduce students to the collaborative and social aspects of the writing process. The program aims to cultivate lifelong learning in written and oral communication by encouraging students to develop their capacity to reflect on events and information, to reason critically and thoughtfully, and to develop a commitment to the ethical uses of language.

The University Writing Program focuses on writing in particular and communication in general as vehicles for learning. It does so through rhetoric and communication skills courses that are based on the Writing Across the Curriculum (WAC) model, a model that emphasizes written and oral communication throughout the university's curriculum.

The Writing Program makes several assumptions about students. First, we believe that students are capable, intelligent people who have been writing for years. They need challenging projects to strengthen the abilities they already have developed and to build new ones.

Second, we regard our communications skills courses as important parts of students' college education. Our communication skills courses enable students to participate in new academic discourse communities and to practice the habits of mind and writing and speaking strategies demanded by writing at the university level in a variety of disciplines.

Finally, we assume that writing with meaningful feedback teaches writing. The subject matter of our courses is an action, one that is best taught not by talking about it but rather by showing students how to do it and then letting them practice, with appropriate guidance. The primary focus is on students and verbs that characterize what writers do: reading, thinking, planning, drafting, talking, and revising. Communication skills courses lose their focus and sense of purpose when they deal primarily with "things," with the nouns that characterize bodies of knowledge: essays, textbooks, rules of grammar, "great ideas." Students need frequent, even daily, practice with writing so that they have ample opportunities to learn by doing.

WRIT 101 (Communication Skills) provides incoming students with opportunities to practice a range of conventions, standards of proof, and ways of knowing that characterize language in the concentration areas that make up the SUA liberal arts education: the humanities, environmental studies, social and behavioral sciences, and international studies.

WRIT 301 and 305 (Advanced Communications Skills). To satisfy the upper division writing requirement, students may select any WRIT 301 or WRIT 305 course that corresponds with their areas of interest. Although specific readings and writing projects vary by professor, all sections of WRIT 301 and WRIT 305 share learning outcomes and general course goals.

Writing 301 and 305 are advanced courses provide students with opportunities to practice the kind of writing, research, and oral presentation skills that characterize topics and discourses related to particular concentration areas as preparation for graduate and/or professional work. Students develop a professional voice in writing and speaking while examining topical issues representative of the concentration areas at SUA. In addition, they use solutions to problems and new perspectives in concentration areas. Writing 301 courses are paired with a particular concentration, whereas Writing 305 courses are organized around broad, often cross-disciplinary topics. Prerequisites: WRIT 101, with a grade of C- or better.

In keeping with the WAC model, in addition to these required courses, Core, general education, and many concentration courses are designated as "writing and communication intensive." These courses engage students in a variety of language activities to help them grow as writers and communicators. Students write papers, give presentations, and participate in small group discussions as part of their regular work.

UNIVERSITY WRITING CENTER

The University Writing Center, staffed by professionals with graduate degrees and teaching experience, provides a range of services to students, from workshops on thesis statements and sentence structure, personal statement workshops and grant-writing workshops, to individualized tutoring. The Center also offers appointments for faculty members working on their writing projects. Students may drop in for tutoring, or they may schedule an appointment with one of the writing specialists using the online appointment system. Faculty members should contact the Center's Director or the Director's Assistant to make appointments. Workshops are announced in advance, and students may sign up on a first-come, first-served basis. Specialized tutoring for Capstone writing projects is also offered in the Writing Center.

Writing Program and university policy require all faculty to put their writing assignments in written form. Center policy requires that students bring a copy of the writing assignment along with a draft of their paper for all tutoring sessions. During the session, a writing specialist will go over the assignment, look at the draft, and help the student by offering suggestions for revision. Note that writing specialists do not edit or correct student papers. Instead, they ask questions that help students discover on their own how to make a paper better, or they point out common mistakes that need to be corrected.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

WRIT 101 Communication Skills 3 units

This course provides students with opportunities to practice a range of conventions, standards of proof, and ways of knowing that characterize language in the concentration areas that make up the SUA liberal arts education: the humanities, environmental studies, social and behavioral sciences, and international studies. Students examine facts and issues in an effort to interpret them in ways that help them construct their own representations of reality while giving them insight into how interpretations and related representations vary from discipline to discipline. In the process, students develop critical reading and thinking skills as well as competence in written and oral English so as to produce coherent, interesting, thoughtful, and largely error-free papers that are congruent with appropriate standards of academic discourse.

WRIT 301 and 305 (Advanced Communications Skills) 3 units

To satisfy the upper division writing requirement, students may select any WRIT 301 or WRIT 305 course that corresponds with their areas of interest. Although specific readings and writing projects vary by professor, all sections of WRIT 301 and WRIT 305 share learning outcomes and general course goals.

Writing 301 and 305 courses provide students with opportunities to practice the kind of writing, research, and oral presentation skills that characterize topics and discourses related to particular concentration areas as preparation for graduate and/or professional work. Students develop a professional voice in writing and speaking while examining topical issues representative of the concentration areas at SUA. In addition, they use solutions to problems and new perspectives in concentration areas. Writing 301 courses are paired with a particular concentration, whereas Writing 305 courses are organized around broad, often cross-disciplinary topics. Prerequisites: WRIT 101, with a grade of C- or better.

WRIT 313 Experimental Critical Writing 3 units

Experimental critical writing is a slippery genre that challenges and breaks down traditional genre distinctions, sidestepping and/or transforming conventional expository protocols. A hybrid form, experimental critical writing challenges disciplinary boundaries and borrows, as it pleases, from various genres—personal essay, historical writing, memoir, non-fiction, drama, diary, autobiography, fiction, reportage, poetry, rant, and manifesto. Exceeding genre and discipline boundaries, experimental critical writing produces new epistemologies not possible within forms bound by conventional constraints. This course will uncover some of the rhetorical possibilities traveling under the name “experimental critical writing.” Prerequisite: WRIT 101. Same as HUM 301.

WRIT314 Writing for New Media 3 units

What does it mean to be “literate” today? How are new communication technologies impacting what it means to be literate? What cultural competencies and literacy skills are required to fully participate in the digital present? This course will involve exploring forms and examples of new media and the theories that underlie and emerge from these forms in addition to engaging and creating new media texts enabled by networked, digital environments that push the limits of writing/composing. New media includes, but is not limited to, blogs, wikis, websites, social networking sites, audio, video, gaming, digital photography and other converged/hybrid media such as performance art and museum installations.

WRIT 315 Introduction to Creative Writing 3 units

This course will explore topics in the field of creative writing, focusing specifically on the genres of fiction, literary nonfiction, and poetry. In this course, students will be asked to think of writing as a process. They will attend to and observe the world around them, invent new work, elaborate on and revise that work, and then reflect back on their own writerly development. Moreover, students will study the work of contemporary writers from a craft and technique perspective, learning how these writers manipulate narrative, subtext, point-of-view, description, metaphor, lineation, and syntax in their work. Finally, students will have their own texts evaluated during in-class workshops, and they will compile their work toward an end-of-semester portfolio. Prerequisite: WRIT 101.

WRIT 335 Writing about Film 3 units

Visual rhetoric can be understood as visual argument (or an argument using images). This course encourages students to explore and write about non-traditional forms of rhetoric drawing from a wealth of topics related to film genres, ancient rhetorical genres, and film studies. This is not a film appreciation course but rather a writing and rhetoric course that encourages students to engage with the way in which visual culture communicates and makes arguments. Each week, students will explore and write about a different film genre and its particular concerns. They might, for example, explore arguments about gender and sexuality in the post-war genre of Film Noir. In this case, we students would combine psychological theory with gender studies in their written analyses of films like Double Indemnity or Gilda.

Alternately, by exploring the early documentaries of Robert Flaherty and Dziga Vertov, students might ask how do we understand “realism” and, in the process, how do we understand what is included and what is left out of their versions of reality? Early social documentaries like these, with their combined qualities of spectacle and an emphasis on the active role of the spectator, resonate with the most ancient forms of rhetoric performed in Greek dramatic festivals and in the law courts. Analyses of movies in this course will turn on the fundamental examination of how meaning is created through the power of artistic vision and visual technology. Prerequisite: WRIT 101, Same as HUM 335.

WRIT350 Introduction to Classical Rhetoric 3 units

Introduction to Classical Rhetoric takes a chronological approach to classical rhetoric and introduces students to some of the more important rhetorical figures from the Greek and Roman periods. Rhetorical works are linked to historical, social, economic, and intellectual influences of their respective periods. Classical rhetoric established the foundation for much of what became Western civilization, so the course is closely aligned with the tradition of liberal arts education. The class is organized as a seminar, which means that students will be responsible for sharing their knowledge and understanding of the topics under discussion at each class session. Selected readings will be assigned to students who will then facilitate exploration of the text and its significance.

CREATIVE ARTS PROGRAM

OVERVIEW

The Creative Arts Program at SUA is linked and contributes to the mission of the university in two specific ways:

1. Through the “hands-on” making of art, students experience the artistic process and the discovery of new expressive possibilities first-hand, something which human beings everywhere and throughout time have engaged in, and so can take a step in developing the empathy necessary for global citizenship.
2. Creativity and imagination are essential qualities for solving the problems of today and tomorrow around the world, and these qualities are the focus of each of the courses in our program.

The courses in the Creative Arts Program are designed to foster the development of craft and expressive skills in an artistic medium in the context of these holistic goals.

Students can fulfill the Creative Arts requirement by taking the 1-credit Creativity Forum (see pg. 63) and choosing one 3-credit course in any of the following areas: Ceramics, Computer Music, Dance, Drawing, Music Composition, Painting, Photography, Sculpture or Songwriting. Additional courses from any of these areas can be taken as electives, and some intermediate and advanced level courses are also offered, giving more opportunities to students who wish to further pursue artistic endeavor.

All of the introductory 100-LEVEL courses are open to all students, regardless of their level of prior experience.

A range of Music Ensemble courses are also available at various levels for students who wish to learn music performance, but these do not satisfy the Creative Arts requirement. Please see below for more detailed information.

Creativity Forum

CF 100 Creativity Forum 1 Unit

The ability to think creatively is vital to creating value and living contributive lives, and is one of the significant learning outcomes at SUA. The fundamental assumptions underlying this course are 1) that creativity is not limited to any one discipline or subject and 2) that the capacity to think creatively is inherent in everyone, and can be fostered and brought out. This course will examine both the theory and practice of creativity, at both the individual and team or group level, looking at application of creative thinking processes in a range of fields of endeavor.

Music Ensembles

The Creative Arts Area also offers a wide range of Music Ensemble courses (MUSICENS in the catalog and schedule.) Music ensemble courses at SUA provide instruction and performance opportunities for student musicians, ranging from chamber groups to jazz groups to larger instrumental or vocal ensembles. ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES CONCENTRATION

OVERVIEW

The Environmental Studies (ENVSTD) concentration fulfills one of Soka University of America's founding principles: to "foster leaders for the creative coexistence of nature and humanity." The complex problem of how humans can sustainably live on the planet requires a broad, multidisciplinary approach, one that a liberal arts background is well suited to deliver. Our concentration will provide students a foundation in the scientific understanding of human/environment relations, as well as an understanding of the philosophical, social, economic and organizational forces that shape those relations.

Students concentrating in Environmental Studies will have an opportunity to integrate both scientific and environmental management approaches to studying the environment. They will be prepared to address the full range of environmental issues – scientific, political, social, and cultural – through a coherent study of environmental problems and solutions. To achieve this breadth, students may take appropriate courses from other concentrations that have been cross-listed with ENVSTD. Students who select Environmental Studies will be able to fulfill their concentration requirements by focusing on one discipline (such as environmental science or policy), or through taking a variety of courses from the many disciplines within Environmental Studies. To fulfill the concentration requirements, students must take five concentration courses, three of which must be at the 300 or 400 level.

Our goal is to present students with a positive learning environment that encourages the creative, responsible, interdisciplinary and independent thinking necessary for understanding and effectively responding to local, regional, and global environmental challenges. The ENVSTD concentration at SUA can be an effective preparation for graduate school and environmental careers in government, advocacy organizations, and in business. With further preparation, students may progress to careers in environmental law, medicine, and economics, as well as environmental research, urban and regional planning, and resource management.

Students in the Environmental Studies concentration will learn to:

1. Demonstrate and articulate an understanding of, and critically evaluate environmental studies approaches to viewing interactions between humans and the natural environment, including scientific and environmental design perspectives as well as those of social and organizational studies.
2. Formulate original questions and apply theoretical and methodological tools to critically investigate and explain the biological, geological, chemical, social, and organizational processes that support and affect human and other life on Earth.
3. Communicate effectively their understanding of and prescriptions for human-environment interaction developed through application of the interdisciplinary approaches of environmental studies.
4. Engage with emerging environmental challenges and opportunities and be prepared to act professionally and personally to secure a sustainable future for humanity.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Ecology

ECOL 211 SustainableAquaculture 3 units

This class will provide you with an introduction to the science of aquaculture: historically known as fish farming. Although we will be spending the majority of time talking about fishes, aquaculture also includes the farming of invertebrates, as well as plants. During the semester, we will be discussing all aspects of aquaculture including economics, diseases, nutritional requirements, and rearing techniques for various aquatic species.

ECOL 222 Wildlife Conservation and Management 4 units

Emphasis on form and function, ecology, behavior, sensory modes, fishery management, global crises in fisheries, and marine protected areas. Laboratories include identification of major groups of fishes, methodology and experimental approaches to the study of fishes. Prerequisite: Any BIO, ECOL, EOS, or CHEM course, or consent of instructor.

ECOL 360 Environmental Microbiology 4 units

The rainforest may be called “the lungs of the planet,” but the job of regulating the atmosphere and the water falls largely to microscopic organisms. Deep in the ocean or under the soil, they continue their strange and alien forms of metabolism, a two-billion-year-old legacy from the days before plants transformed the Earth’s atmosphere. In this field- and laboratory-based course, students will explore the world of microbes in the environment through structured approaches to fundamental concepts, as well as through observation and experimentation.

ECOL 370 Terrestrial Plant Ecology 4 units

Terrestrial plants have been present on this planet for 440 million years and play a critical role as the basis of the terrestrial food chain. This course introduces students to the diversity of plant life and how plants have evolved and adapted to their respective environments. Topics include plant structure and growth, species interaction, community ecology, and succession.

ECOL 402 Aquatic Conservation 3 units

This course examines the problem of maintaining biological diversity in a human dominated world within the aquatic ecosystems. Emphasis is on the biological concepts involved in population biology, genetics and community ecology, and their use in conservation and management of biodiversity. We will investigate the impacts of human-induced climate change, pollution, introduction of exotic species, over fishing, and endangered species conservation. Prerequisite: Any BIO, ECOL, EOS, or CHEM course, or consent of instructor.

The ecological, genetic, and evolutionary impacts of the invasions will be explored. Additionally, the management and control of exotic species will be discussed. Prerequisite: Any BIO, ECOL, EOS, or CHEM course, or consent of instructor.

Environmental Management and Policy
EMP 248 Environmental Design 3 units

Environmental design takes the natural environment into account in all aspects of industrial and urban development and policy. Environmental design is integrated into the natural environment because it is designed both to utilize and respond to natural, renewable sources of energy and materials. This integration makes it both more efficient and less disruptive to the natural environment. In this course, students will explore environmental design through readings, discussions, and team problem-solving exercises, focusing on real-world design problems of current interest.

EMP 300 Sustainable California 3 units

This course is a practice- and practitioner-oriented course that advances students' understanding of the specific settings and organizations involved in sustainability planning and practice across (mainly Southern) California. A series of local field trips and guest speakers expose students to the wide range of stakeholders involved in promoting environmental planning and policy efforts across the state, showcasing local sustainability plans as well as complex regional and state-wide planning challenges such as water conservation, reduced fossil fuel use, and future plans for high-speed rail.

EMP 320 Environmental Planning and Practice 3 units

This course covers the fundamentals of environmental planning and practice, including water supply, air quality, waste treatment, recycling, the protection of farmland, open spaces, wetlands and sensitive coastal habitats as well as best practices in transportation, energy, urban planning and design. How does land use planning work? Who plans? Why, when and how are environmental impact assessments and environmental reviews performed and by whom? How do public authorities, planners, developers, and concerned citizens negotiate intricate land use conflicts, especially in the case of major new infrastructures such as rail corridors, freeways, (air)port expansions or larger, master planned communities?

EMP 330 Sustainable Cities 3 units

More than half of the world's 7 billion people live in cities. Urban societies need to find ways to reduce their negative environmental impacts on the Earth's eco-system. This course focuses on the analysis of urban development patterns in North America and Europe. Students will learn how to create and plan for human settlements that are less carbon-intensive, more ecologically responsible, and more socially sound. Via a variety of case studies, students will be introduced to sustainability concepts such as ecological urbanism, green building certification (LEED), smart growth, transit-oriented development and suburban retrofitting.

EMP 335 Cities and the Environment in the Global South 3 units

Between 2000 and 2030, the urban populations of the developing regions in the Global South will double from 2 to 4 billion people, accounting for the vast majority of urban growth on this planet. Taking a comparative view of urbanization and development, this course focuses on a select number of mega-cities in the Global South where millions of urban dwellers lack adequate shelter and access to clean water, sanitation and other basic infrastructure. What are the causes and environmental consequences of rapid urbanization and urban expansion in cities as diverse as Rio de Janeiro, Nairobi, Lagos, Mumbai or Chongqing? What strategies, programs and policies exist that can steer future urban development in a more environmentally sustainable direction?

EMP 340 Environmental Movements 3 units

This course examines the role of environmental movements in the development of policies for environmental protection and on the role of nongovernmental organizations in environmental politics and policy more generally.

EMP 350 Environmental Policy 3 units

Environmental policies are social actions designed to protect the environment. This course examines the processes and consequences of policies for environmental protection. This course also examines the roles of leadership, laws, and organizations in environmental protection.

EMP 380 Environmental Law 3 units

This course provides a general introduction to the role of laws and legal processes in environmental protection.

EMP 400 Environmental Management 3 units

This course focuses on case studies of the development and management of policies for environmental protection. These case studies allow a detailed examination of the practical challenges facing environmental managers and leaders today, and an examination of the possibilities for new approaches to environmental management and policy in the future.

ENVIRONMENTAL STUDIES

EMP 410 International and Comparative Environmental Policy 3 units

This course examines the processes and consequences of policies for environmental protection in an international and comparative context. The course focuses on the role of institutional processes, government organizations, and nongovernmental organizations in environmental politics and policy across the world.

EMP 430 Urban Planning and the Built Environment 3 units

A full and deep understanding of our complex relationships with the natural environment also requires sophisticated and advanced knowledge of the different and specific ways in which our human settlements evolved over the course of history. This course provides a critical introduction to the interdisciplinary world of urban planning. Most of the cities, towns or neighborhoods we encounter did not simply “happen” – they were formally founded and planned by someone. Many of the world’s most famous cities were carefully laid out in relationship to their natural surroundings. And even haphazardly placed self-built homes still require access to public infrastructures and social institutions such as water, sewer and power lines, roads, schools or hospitals. We will start off learning about the history and theory of planning as it was and is practiced in the United States but we will then soon expand our perspective to look at urban planning and built environment issues through a global lens. Which cities were or are global leaders in the world of city building and urban design? What are the most important issues and topics for planning practitioners right now? What do planners do when they “plan”? How do we justify planning? How do we define the public interest the profession purports to serve? What are the key conflicts and ethical dilemmas? How does the global threat of climate change and sea level rise change the way we plan and manage cities? Instructor Consent Required.

Earth and Ocean SciencesEOS 280 Sustainable Agriculture and Gardening 3 units

Although humans can obtain the air and (and to a lesser extent) the water they need freely, we must work to provide our bodies with food. Before the industrial era, hunting, gathering, and farming were the primary human activities. Technology and industrialization have greatly reduced the human labor required to produce food, and farming has become the specialized occupation of the few. However, in the process, modern industrialized agriculture has developed into a system with many negative externalities (costs not accounted for in the price of food), such as water pollution, greenhouse gas production, and the health consequences of highly processed diets. These high costs of industrialized agriculture make it unsuitable to meet global human needs as population increases, water resources become scarce, and global warming makes the intensive use of fossil fuels undesirable. In this course, we will examine what a more sustainable mode of food production might look like through class work as well as hands-on work in the Soka Instructional Garden.

EOS 302 Introduction to Climate Change 3 units

The Earth’s climate is changing because human activity is increasing the levels of greenhouse gases such as carbon dioxide and methane in the atmosphere. You will learn what causes climate change, as well as its present and future effects on both the Earth and society. You will also learn about the responses society and individuals can make to prevent and adapt to climate change. In the laboratory portion of this class, you will learn how to plan and perform a scientific experiment measuring greenhouse gases.

EOS 322 Water Resources 4 units

The struggle to manage water resources has shaped societies in the past and continues to do so today. Human use of water for drinking, sanitation, and agriculture is controlled by natural processes, by engineering, and by the institutions that manage water for the benefit of societies. In this course students will study how these processes control the availability and quality of water. Students will explore water resources in the local area through field visits to both natural and engineered sites and will learn to apply some of the techniques of water resource managers.

EOS 446 Biogeochemistry 3 units

Biogeochemistry is the study of the flows of the basic elements required for life through the Earth's environmental systems. Biogeochemistry ties together processes occurring in the water, atmosphere, soils and in living organisms, tracing the transformation of essential elements from one form to another in their cyclic journeys on the Earth's surface. Students will use advanced laboratory and field techniques to study biogeochemical transformations in the environment, learn to read and interpret scientific literature, and write a scientific paper.

HUMANITIES CONCENTRATION

Comprised of the fields of Art History, History, Literature, Music History, Philosophy, and Religion, the Humanities concentration offers students the chance to pursue essential questions about what it means to be human, to become familiar with perspectives from around the globe, to develop informed and humanistic goals and concerns, and to sharpen analytical, critical thinking and research skills.

Since the underlying focus of SUA's education is toward deepening an understanding of both Eastern and Western cultures, students are encouraged to develop a balanced perspective encompassing East and West within their course selection plan. In this way, each student, whether she/he chooses to advance within one major discipline or seeks to develop a broader foundation encompassing several or all Humanities disciplines, will have a common bond and direction in which to organize her/his program.

The Humanities both prepares students for graduate and professional school and offers to all students a broad-based background in a number of disciplines that are at the basis of a liberal arts education. Three upper level Humanities courses (300 and up) are required to complete the Humanities concentration requirement.

The student learning outcomes for the Humanities concentration are:

1. Demonstrate an understanding of and apply theoretical and methodological insights into one or more of the above disciplines
2. Demonstrate a coherent and integrated understanding of the central issues and questions for investigation in the disciplines
3. Demonstrate the capacity for original and rigorous research and inquiry
4. Communicate ideas effectively in a manner appropriate to work in their field
5. Demonstrate and articulate an understanding of how individuals and societies are interconnected within social, historical, political, cultural environments, and the human condition
6. Exhibit imagination and curiosity in the study of the full range of human artifacts

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Art History

ARTHIST 104 Introduction to Visual Culture 3 units

The course explores the relation between the two terms 'visual' and 'culture' as constructions, examining visual forms of expressions, such as painting, photography, advertisement, comics and digital imagery. The course revolves around some of the following questions: What is the difference between the terms art and visual? What are the diverse forms of the visual? How has the visual impacted us today? How does culture determine visual form? With an emphasis on the determining role of visual culture in the wider culture to which it belongs, it draws on images from both western and non-western worlds to be analyzed and placed in their cultural context.

ARTHIST 105 Introduction to Art History 3 units

analyzing the visual characteristics of works of art and placing them in their historical and cultural context. It covers sculpture, painting, architecture, print, ceramics, and photography from ancient to modern cultures from east and west. The course seeks to provide the beginning art history student with a range of conceptual, visual and verbal skills essential to the description and analysis of visual forms.

ARTHIST 310 Art and Architecture of Asia 3 units

The course traces the development of architecture, painting, and sculpture of China, Japan, India, and Tibet for a selective understanding of its visual culture from the earliest times to 12th C CE. It is a comparative study of the cross-cultural influences and encounters via the silk and spices routes with a focus on ancient civilizations, philosophy, and religious institutions particularly the traditions of Confucianism, Taoism, Shintoism, Buddhism, and Hinduism. The goal is to understand the traditional Arts of Asia by examining the process of artistic and cultural assimilation that occurred along with movement of people, goods, and images between major cultural regions and substantiated in built environment, city planning, painting and sculpture.

ARTHIST 315 Contemporary Visual Culture 3 units

HIST 315 Ideas of East and West 3 units

Some scholars have suggested that the whole idea of Asia is an invention, since geographically speaking the separation of Asia from “Europe” (or West, in a strict sense) makes little sense. This is the point of departure for this course, which will examine constructions and representations of East (Asia) and West, as ideas, in significant scholarly and literary works and films, both Euro-American and Asian. The course examines each work in its relation to its historical circumstances to convey a sense of changes historically in such representations and constructions. Prerequisite: Any 100 level history course, or sophomore standing. Same as: INTS 316.

HIST 326 Women in East Asia 3 units

This course introduces historical complexities and issues, and various constraints that have shaped the lives and struggles of East Asian women from the “pre-modern period” to the present, in their dealings with the questions of their own culture and, later, modernity. Literary works and films will be widely used. Prerequisite: Sophomore standing or INTS 215. Same as INTS 326.

HIST 330 Modern China in Literature and Film 3 units

Same as INTS 371.

HIST 380 Cultures of Learning 3 units

In this course we examine “education” by looking beyond the typical setting of the school. Instead, we will consider education in the context of learning and culture. As scholars in history and anthropology have shown in recent decades, learning can be found in classrooms, families, churches, and public places. It can be thought of broadly as the process by which people acquire knowledge, attitudes, values, and skills. We will study the past as a deeply constitutive force in the present. Historians call this approach cultural history, anthropologists call it historical ethnography. Specific topics will include prominent and influential theories of pedagogy and learning as well as the historical and cultural dynamics of race and ethnicity in learning. Throughout we will keep the long history of education reform in mind—including contemporary initiatives. The course is a reading and writing intensive seminar, with students expected to complete an original research paper testing or applying principles discussed in class. Same as: ANTH 380.

HIST 384 Indigenous NorthAmerica*3 units

The Americas were populated for millennia before European colonization transformed the hemisphere and the lives of its indigenous inhabitants. The descendants of these people live in many parts of North America – including Orange County, California. This seminar explores the histories and cultures of selected Native American peoples from Canada, Mexico, and the United States during selected eras from before colonization to the contemporary period. Reading current and classic scholarship on Native Americans and writing a research essay on a topic of the students' choosing, students will acquire an understanding of the historical and cultural processes that have defined Native American lives. Same as: ANTH 284.

HIST 489 Culture and Imperialism3 units

The United States of America originated as colonies within the British Empire, and the early founders of the republic openly celebrated the expected emergence of an American empire after the American Revolution. In what ways can the history of the United States be understood through this lens of emerging empire? Might that lens obscure as much as it reveals? What is imperialism, how is it different from colonialism, and what relationship to American cultural development has it had? To explore answers to these and other questions, students will focus on the US experience of empire and compare it to the history of imperialism and colonialism in India, Africa, and elsewhere. Students will read classic and contemporary works in Colonial Studies, Postcolonial Studies, and American Cultural History in preparation for group discussions, seminar papers, and independent research. Same as: INTS 489.

The course examines the historical development of educational thought and practice in the West from the early Greeks to the present, focusing on the theme of humanism – its interpretation by the early Greeks, its reformulation in the Christian era, its eclipse and later revival during the Renaissance and its tenuous existence in the age of the modern and pre-modern state (1600-1900). Students will read from the works of such writers as Plato, Dante, Pico Della Mirandola, Erasmus, Vico, Comenius, Pestalozzi, Montessori, and Rousseau.

HUM 270 Theater and Performance

This course will examine three central questions of the stage: What are the literary and cultural origins of the theater? How does an actor relate to the written word? How can the actor influence the audience? To investigate these questions, the course will provide basic training in theater exercises for motion, speech, and concentration, in-class discussion and performance of plays, and analysis of both Eastern and Western philosophical ideas of the theater.

HUM 310 Early Modern EuropeanLiterature*3 units

The goal of this course is to introduce students to some of the great – popular and classical works – written in Western Europe during the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. Readings include the bawdy tales of Chaucer, Boccaccio, Rabelais, and Cervantes; Dante's great epic poem, Inferno (from "The Divine Comedy,") Erasmus' Praise of Folly, More's Utopia, and Montaigne's Essays. These timeless pieces have shaped and continue to shape the Western imagination from Shakespeare to James Joyce and Thomas Pynchon. Attention is paid to the historical contexts although emphasis will be on genres and forms.

HUM 313 Experimental CriticalWriting*3 units

Experimental critical writing is a slippery genre that challenges and breaks down traditional genre distinctions, sidestepping and/or transforming conventional expository protocols. A hybrid form, experimental critical writing challenges disciplinary boundaries and borrows, as it pleases, from various genres – personal essay, historical writing, memoir, non-fiction, drama, diary, autobiography, fiction, reportage, poetry, rant, and manifesto. Exceeding genre and discipline boundaries, experimental critical writing produces new epistemologies not possible within forms bound by conventional constraints. This course will uncover some of the rhetorical possibilities traveling under the name “experimental critical writing;” explore emergent “alternative” theoretical and methodological frameworks related to the production of knowledge; blur the boundaries between disciplines, genres, the academic and non-academic; and consider what it means to produce new knowledge as a socially and ethically responsible global citizen. Prerequisite: WRIT 101. Same as: WRIT 313.

HUMANITIES

HUM 333 Film History and Cinematic Art 4 units

This is an intensive upper-division course designed for Humanities majors and non-majors who seek to prepare themselves to engage issues of graphic literacy in an increasingly visual global and professional culture. This course will pursue landmarks in the history of cinema and establish analytic vocabularies for interpreting film masterpieces as well as emerging visual technologies. Our curricular emphasis will be upon “film texts” of the highest artistic status. Our analytic emphasis will focus on (i) critical approaches to those texts and (ii) interpretive disputes carried out across the last century’s divergent critical viewpoints, now under siege by aesthetic and conceptual norms that seek consensus (hegemonic unity) in a world only recently opened to multiple cultural perspectives. Prerequisite: Literature 140 or another Humanities course.

HUM 335 Writing about Film 3 units

Visual rhetoric can be understood as visual argument (or an argument using images). This course encourages students to explore and write about non-traditional forms of rhetoric drawing from a wealth of topics related to film genres, ancient rhetorical genres and film studies. This is not a film appreciation course but rather, a writing and rhetoric course, which encourages students to engage with the way in which visual culture communicates and makes arguments. Each week, we will explore and write about a different film genre and its particular concerns. Our analyses of movies in this course will turn on the fundamental examination of how meaning is created through the power of artistic vision and visual technology. Prerequisite: WRIT 101. Same as: WRIT 335.

HUM 425 The Rhetoric of Creativity 3 units

The goal of this course is twofold: to examine the evolution of Greek philosophy from the earliest known stages and explore the way in which philosophical and literary issues permeated and continues to permeate the work of contemporary thinkers and writers; and to provide a take on the antique world.

Literature

LIT 140 Introduction to Literary Studies 3 units

This is an introduction to literary genres and to the art of critical reading. The course will survey important examples of lyric poetry, short narratives, essays, novels, and drama. The main objective is to help students gain confidence and insight as they read difficult literary masterpieces, such as Shakespeare’s Hamlet, as well as help in grappling with the intense poetic strategies of poets such as John Keats and W. B. Yeats. The course will survey a variety of critical approaches to literary texts and it will also focus on the student’s growth as a critical writer. Lit 140 serves as a prerequisite for higher courses in literature.

LIT 155 Critical Reading and Writing 3 units

This introductory course offers a rigorous initiation to the “close reading” of literary texts and critical essays as well as to in depth interpretive activity. While it serves as a prerequisite for advanced courses in literature and humanities, it serves no less as preparation for critical reading in all intellectual disciplines in which difficult texts, complex writing and both research and scholarly rigor are in play. Lit 155 serves as a prerequisite for higher courses in literature.

LIT 205 19th Century American Literature
3 units

This course explores powerful and complex major work from the remarkable period of North American literary maturity, an era often called the "American Renaissance:" Melville's Moby Dick; Twain's Huckleberry Finn; Whitman's Leaves of Grass; Emerson's Essays; Henry Adams' Education; Thoreau's Walden; and Emily Dickinson's elegant poetry, and other texts. Prerequisite: LIT 140 or instructor's consent.

LIT 210 20th Century American Literature
3 units

This course examines major texts of literature in North America's 20th century cultural upheaval: the poetry of William Carlos Williams, Ezra Pound, Hart Crane and Wallace Stevens; novels by Fitzgerald, Hemingway, Faulkner and Joseph Heller; dramatic texts by Eugene O'Neil alongside studies in the relationship between art and the rise of cinema with its competing but often derivative narrative and imagistic techniques. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or instructor's consent.

LIT 211 Classical Asian Literature
3 units

This course will survey the major works, genres, and themes of Chinese and Japanese pre-modern literature, focusing on literature of the Tang/Song dynasties and the Nara/Heian eras (c. 700-1200 AD). Students will study the works of individual poets and essayists, their contributions to the classic anthologies, and excerpts from the major novels and prose narratives of the premodern age. The course will also examine foundational critical theories within Asian literature, such as the genesis of poetry, the relationship between images and ideographic meaning, and the roles of fiction and diaries within society. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or sophomore standing.

LIT 212 Medieval Asian Literature
3 units

This course will survey the principal works, authors, and themes of Chinese and Japanese medieval literature, focusing on literature of the Song, Yuan, and Ming dynasties and the Kamakura, Muromachi and Edo eras (~1100-1800CE.) The course will look at the three dominant genres of poetic anthology, personal narrative and staged drama, with particular attention paid to the conflicts between elegance and earthiness, worldliness and reclusiveness, and the changing perspectives towards gender and personal identity. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or sophomore standing.

LIT 213 Modern Asian Literature
3 units

Students taking this course will read and discuss texts from various Asian countries but will focus primarily on works from China and Japan. The literature dealt with in class will be drawn from various periods, nations, and genres in the 19th and 20th centuries. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or sophomore standing.

LIT 215 Latin American Literature
3 units

This course explores various aspects of the literatures that have developed in Latin America. The works read in class may be drawn from indigenous sources as well as from the Spanish and Portuguese traditions. All works are read in translation. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or sophomore standing.

LIT 225 The Art of the Essay
3 units

We distinguish the essay for its exceptional capacity to convey the movement of experience. What is the source of his power? What is the art of the essay? To begin answering this question, we will place the essay side-by-side with what it opposes – the treatise. This clash between the pathos of self reflection and the rigidity of the method emerges with full clarity in Descartes, whose writings will serve as our starting point. We will then see how similar conflicts take place in the works by the Stoics, Montaigne, Rousseau, Nietzsche, Chesterton, Rilke, Borges, Susan Sontag, Orwell and Joseph Brodsky. We will also look at the essayistic practice in cinema (Orson Welles, Guy Debord) and photography (Lee Friedlander, Walker Evans).

LIT 230 Thinking Through Nature
3 units

From Heraclitus on, the concept of nature has proven to be unique in its ability to expand imagination, stimulate thought, and articulate disagreement. This class will place major texts in the traditions of natural philosophy, pastoral, and cultural critique alongside contemporary interventions, including arguments for the ecology without nature. Our goal is to rethink nature in response to the technological mastery of all life made possible by the advancement of science. The texts to be studied include Aristotle, Pliny the Elder, Lucretius, Virgil, Rousseau, Diderot, Thoreau, Darwin, Dennett and Will Self. Prerequisite: LIT 140, or sophomore standing. Same as ENVST 230.

HUMANITIES

LIT 250 Forms of Comedy 3 units

An examination of the genres and styles of comedy from Aristophanes to Samuel Beckett and contemporary stand-up. We begin by clarifying distinctions fundamental to comic representation of action (such as invective, humor, grotesque, wit mock, irony, sarcasm, deadpan, etc.) Then we undertake a journey through different worlds of comedy (the comedy of errors, satire, nonsense, and black humor). Throughout our readings, we will consider the following alternatives: Does comedy reinforce or subvert the existing social norms? Does it exacerbate or mask social antagonisms? Is laughter a servant of hegemony or an agent of emancipation? In each of our readings, we will work to identify the potential of comedy to serve as a framework for sociological commentary, metaphysics of the self and political praxis. Primary texts will be supplemented by reading in the theory of comedy (Hegel, Baudelaire, Bergson, Freud).

LIT 301 Studies in Ancient Literature 3 units

This course introduces students to the ancient literatures of Mesopotamia, Greece and Rome, primarily poetry and drama, from Gilgamesh through Virgil. The course is designed to give students a broad understanding of the major literary works of this period and their historical significance.

LIT 302 Shakespeare 3 units

Shakespeare is the greatest dramatist of all times. Most recently the sixteenth-century bard has been a great scriptwriter for Kenneth Branagh and Hollywood. This course focuses on a close reading of selected tragedies and comedies. Attention will be paid to the specificity of the English language of the period in order to facilitate reading. Due attention will also be paid to action, character as well as to the heft and swing of the meter and rhyme. The goal of the course is to help students understand the reasons for Shakespeare's unparalleled success by locating the remarkable achievement of his literary career in the context of the theatrical, literary, social, and political world in which he worked.

LIT 305 Studies in Contemporary Literature 3 units

This course examines recent trends in literature and/or criticism across cultures from a comparative point of view. The primary emphasis is on examining the way in which both literary texts and critical methods respond to changing points of view about the individual, culture, and history. The works examined in this class changes from year to year, but normally includes major works of drama and fiction.

LIT 317 Murasaki Shikibu 3 units

This course will examine the life, work and influence of Murasaki Shikibu, author of the Tale of Genji (c. 1005-10015 CE), taking into consideration the intellectual and aesthetic heritage of the Heian era as a whole. Students will also investigate the arts and culture of her age, her concept of Yamato-damashii, or "essential Japan-ness," and her vision of the role of the author within the "floating world" of human actions. Prerequisite: Instructor consent.

LIT 321 Literature of Dissent 3 units

This class examines the evolution and disintegration of literary dissent in the twentieth-century Europe. We begin by surveying the three forces responsible for the emergence of dissent: the ideology of communism; totalitarianism as the governmental form; and socialist realism as the literary canon. The conceptual backbone of the class is the contrast between individual acts of dissent and the dissident movement. While the individual acts of dissent proceed from rejection or disagreement with the regime, the dissident movement was born out of seduction and subsequent disillusionment in the very idea of the communist state. In the final segment of the class, the students will inquire into the legacy of dissident thought through class presentation and discussion. Readings include texts by H. Arendt, K. Marx, F. Furet, C. Lefort, M. Bulgakov, A. Platonov, Abram Tertz-A. Syniavsky, Solzhenitsyn, Milosz, Havel and others. We will also study films by Alexander Medvedkin, Chris Marker, and Sergei Eisenstein.

LIT 341 The Novel 3 units

In the 21st century the novel continues to thrive as a literary genre nourished by a long and rich history with sustained cross-cultural significance. What factors contribute to the resilience of this literary form? How has the novel become synonymous with modernity itself? What, if any inter-textual dialogue among writers and books may be discerned? This course examines the phenomenon of the novel by evoking these trajectories: its emergence, its ongoing diversification and its global dispersion and reinventions. From year to year the course will stress readings drawn from Anglo-American, European, Post-Colonial and/or Asian spheres. Traditional categories (realism, modernism, postmodernism) will be supplemented by local variations and re-orientations. Alongside such authors as Dickens, Sterne, Austen, Stendhal, Dostoevsky, Flaubert, Conrad, Joyce, Nabokov, Beckett, Pynchon, Cormac McCarthy, Natsume Soseki, Mo Yan, and others, theoretical texts will frame the novel's significance in the context of cultural production and the formation as well as erosion of historical consciousness: George Lukacs, Bakhtin, Auerbach, Ian Watt, Raymond Williams, Edward Said, Fredric Jameson, Eto Jun et al.

LIT 342 French Colonialism and Insubordination 3 units

The purpose of this course is to explore through literary, historical, and political documents the unique way in which French intellectuals were affected by, reacted to, and in some instances voiced their outrage about colonialism and to examine the role some French intellectuals played in the resolution of these conflicts.

LIT 480 Critical Theory 3 units

This course begins with a brief survey of the history of the main theories of reading as they emerged in the West with Plato and Aristotle. The goal of the course is to help students understand and familiarize themselves with a body of texts written about the role and function of literature within the disciplines. The course includes an examination of the relationship between primary and critical texts in light of movements that took shape in the twentieth century such as Formalism, Structuralism, Post-Structuralism, and Cultural Studies. The aim of the course is to equip students with the necessary tools to become sophisticated and demanding readers and to sharpen their critical judgment whether or not they intend to pursue graduate studies in the Humanities.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES CONCENTRATION

OVERVIEW

The International Studies Concentration (INTS) at SUA offers students the opportunity to better understand global challenges including conflict, injustice, racism and poverty. Rooted in the belief that understanding multi-faceted global issues demands a variety of disciplinary lenses, international studies offers a range of interdisciplinary and multidisciplinary courses from a faculty trained in anthropology, economics, history, international relations, political science and sociology. The International Studies Concentration provides students with the analytical tools necessary for a critical appreciation and contextualized understanding of the diverse forces that shape the contemporary world and prepares students to meet the challenges of global citizenship in the twenty-first century.

Concentration courses are clustered around two geographic themes and three topical themes:

Geographic Themes

- Asia Pacific
- Latin America

Topical Themes

- Global and Thematic Issues
- International Economics, Trade and Development
- International Relations, Peace and Conflict Resolution

Students are strongly encouraged to take at least one class from a geographic theme and one class from a topical theme. INTS Concentrators must take at least five INTS courses, three of which must be at the 300 or 400 level. In addition, the research topic for the Capstone Experience must be related to the following concentration learning objectives.

By the time they graduate, students in International Studies are able to:

1. utilize a multidisciplinary framework to identify and explain the processes by which individuals, societies and regions are interconnected.
2. formulate questions and apply appropriate analytic tools to investigate regional and/or global issues.
3. effectively communicate their understanding of regional and global issues.

4. generate a theoretically and historically informed analysis of social phenomena within a national, regional, or international context.
5. articulate an appreciation of the diversity and continuities that exist within and between societies and cultures.
6. apply their knowledge and skills to formulate practical and/or ethical responses to regional and global issues.

The International Studies Concentration prepares students for both graduate school and careers in government, international organizations, business, and the non-profit sectors.

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Asia Pacific

INTS 120 East Asia: A Historical Survey 3 units

This course is a survey of East Asian history from the earliest time to the present. The course is restricted to those aspects of East Asian history that enable us to understand the complexities and diversities in the historical experience of three East Asian countries: China, Japan, and Korea. This course concentrates on how three East Asian societies have achieved their own economic, political, social, and cultural developments, sometimes by way of mutual inspiration, influence or actual interaction with each other; and, later, with a broader world. Same as: HIST 140.

INTS 150 Introduction to Southeast Asian Studies 3 units

This course explores the geography, history, culture, society, government and economies of Southeast Asia. INTS 262 China's Economic Development & Economic Reform 3 units

See International Economics, Trade and Development for course description.

INTS 316 Ideas of East and West 3 units

Many scholars have argued that the whole idea of Asia is an invention, since geographically speaking the separation of Asia from "Europe" (or West, in a strict sense) makes little sense. This is the point of departure for this course, which will examine constructions and representations of East (Asia) and West, as ideas, in significant scholarly and literary works, and films, both Euro-American and Asian. The course examines each work in its relationship to its historical circumstances in order to convey a sense of changes historically in such constructions and representations.

Prerequisite: Any 100-level International Studies or History course, or Sophomore Standing. Same as: HIST 315.

INTS 321 Economic Development in Pacific Asia 3 units

See International Economics, Trade and Development for course description.

INTS 326 Women in East Asia 3 units

This course introduces historical complexities and issues, and various constraints that have shaped the lives and struggles of East Asian women from the "pre-modern period" to the present, in their dealings with the questions of their own culture and, later, modernity. Literary works and films will be widely used. Prerequisite: Sophomore Standing or INTS 215. Same as: HIST 326.

INTS 330 Modern China in Literature and Film 3 units

This course examines historical issues and problems of family, women and revolution in modern Chinese history through their representations in literature and films, both Chinese and foreign, with the emphasis on the analysis of the Chinese revolution through family and women narratives. Same as HIST 335.*

INTS 342 Asian America in Comparative Perspective 3 units

This is a multidisciplinary course designed to generate a critical and comparative understanding of both the history and contemporary state of Asian America. Particular emphasis is placed upon issues of globalization, labor and refugee migrations, racial discrimination and nativism in U.S. society, and Asian American challenges to structural forms of exclusion.

INTS 345 Media and Society in the Asia Pacific 3 units

This course is designed to provide an understanding of key contemporary social and cultural issues as expressed in popular culture (mainly film, but also including television and the print media) in the Asia Pacific Region. We will also consider representations of Asia and Asians in mainstream and independent films. The course explores different approaches to questions such as; what do we mean by media power and media effects? How do we make sense of and understand the connotations inherent in the ways current events and history are presented? In what sense are cultures shaped by unconscious desires, fantasies and identifications? What is the relationship between media representations of gender, ethnicity, and identity and reality? Prerequisite: PACBASIN 100 or Instructor Consent.

INTS 371 The Emergence of Modern Japan 3 units

This course is a survey of modern Japan from the mid-19th century to the present, with emphasis on historical issues that have led to diverse understandings and interpretations. The course focuses on the development of modern ideology, social relationships, and economic and political institutions in a global context. The course takes the development of Japanese capitalism in the global economic system as the central event of modern Japanese history and of Japan's changing place in the world during the 20th century. Same as: HIST 371.

INTS 380 People, Culture and Globalization in Oceania 3 units

This course engages students in an examination of how indigenous peoples of Oceania have been deeply engaged in global cultural, political, and economic processes since the time of their earliest encounters with representatives of the West. This class incorporates classic and contemporary studies from Anthropology and Pacific History together with the voices and views from islander writers and artists. Social Science perspectives are helpful for understanding natural and cultural environments, cultural history and change, language issues, and current socioeconomic and educational issues facing the Islands today. Writers and artists can show the world what it means to be an islander; how islanders view themselves, and how they view other places and times. By combining these two points of view, the class will examine the tensions between cultural traditions and globalization and how we, as outsiders and as islanders, come to know and empathize with the peoples of Oceania. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100 or ANTH 150. Same as: ANTH 330.

INTS 381 Political Islam 3 units

See the Global and Thematic Issues for course description.

INTS 405 War and Memory in the Asia Pacific 3 units

This course sets out to analyze the historiography of the Pacific War with particular reference to problems of memory, interpretation, authentication, and politicization of history. During the course of the semester students are introduced to a wide range of primary and secondary materials drawn from both national and sub-national sources. These are supplemented by cinematic representations of the Pacific War that have become an important channel for the preservation of historical memories.

INTS 406 Human Rights and Civil Society in East Asia 3 units

See International Relations, Peace and Conflict Resolution for course description.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

INTS 450 Armed Conflict in Southeast Asia 3 units

This course provides a multidisciplinary glimpse into a great range of violent wars – past and present – in one of the world's most diverse and exciting regions. It is divided into three parts: historical conflicts, post-independence conflicts, and sources of peace. The course will emphasize how different forms of conflict have distinct causes and how different forms of conflict resolution must be tailored to fit each war. Students will consider how cultural factors condition conflict as well as conflict resolution, how the state provides and undermines security, how civilians experience different wars, and the possibilities and limitations of peace negotiations. Prerequisite: Sophomore Standing or INTS 150 or Instructor Consent.

Latin AmericaINTS 130 Introduction to Latin American Studies 3 units

This is an exploration and celebration of Latin America, the richly diverse and fascinating area of the world that includes Mesoamerica, South America and the Caribbean. We will use multiple perspectives that focus on race, gender, and class to understand the experiences and processes that have shaped the region. Students will reflect on identity, revolutions, social movements, nation-state formation, and modernization based on analysis of primary sources within cinema, music, literature, and historical documents along with many rich secondary sources. This class is a gateway into the study of Latin America at SUA and fulfills an enrollment prerequisite for several other courses. It is also highly recommended for students interested in traveling to Latin America for study abroad.

INTS 210 US-Latin American Relations 3 units

This class begins when the Spanish colonies were much richer and more powerful than the British or Portuguese. Considering American ascendancy after independence, students will explore the reasons for uneven hemispheric development in institutions, governance, and patterns of colonialism. Students will look closely at the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, when the US often pursued its interests at the expense of its southern neighbors. Case studies of overt and covert operations include Mexico (1848), Nicaragua (1856), Cuba (1898), Guatemala (1956), Chile (1973), and Panama (1989). Despite the fact that the United States has also supplied billions of dollars in humanitarian aid to the region and remains its largest trading partner and important ally, Latin Americans retain a highly ambivalent attitude toward its northern neighbor. Many are attracted to American popular culture and goods, but are deeply distrustful of American political intent and economic power. Students who have completed Introduction to International Relations are encouraged to enroll.

INTS 303 Brazil and Mexico in Global Context 3 units

This class begins with a question: What do the two largest and, arguably, most powerful nations in Latin America have in common? Brazil and Mexico are postcolonial societies of fallen Iberian empires. They are also regionally commanding, exceedingly diverse, devoutly Catholic, socially unequal and traditionally exploitative of their poor and weak (especially the indigenous peoples of Mexico or descendants of African slaves of Brazil). These countries also attract thousands of foreign visitors who marvel at their natural beauty and celebrate their rich multicultural traditions. Through history, politics, culture and current events, this class will compare and contrast these two diverse nations. Text, film, music and images will be used in a classroom environment that stresses multiple pedagogical styles. This class may be of special interest to students who wish to study abroad in Latin America. Prerequisite: INTS 130 or INTS 210 or Instructor Consent.

INTS 313 Latin American Migration to the US 3 units

This course is about the way that Latin American immigration to the US, and often their return back to Latin America, affects the communities, families, racial identities, and even sex lives of both immigrants and the people they leave behind. The course will draw on readings primarily from Anthropologists and Sociologists who see immigration, not as a linear process of arrival and eventual integration, but as a transnational process of the movement of people, money, culture, and politics back and forth across borders in complex ways that affect both the US and Latin America. Thus, while the course will cover the overall historical trends of Latino immigration to the US, changing demographics, the effects of US immigration laws on immigrants and their families, and the overall economic and political trends in Latin America that explain why people migrate, the real focus of the course is on the effects of these overall trends on communities and families in both the US and Latin America as illustrated through ethnographically rich case studies based on participant observation with migrants, return migrants, and members of the sending communities. Recommended prerequisite INTS 130 or INTS 210. Same as: ANTH 313.

INTS 323 Political Economy of Latin America 3 units
See International Economics, Trade and Development for course description.

INTS 325 Inequalities, Repression, and Resistance in Central America 3 units
Central America is often known as a region of rich cultural heritage but also a legacy of vast inequalities and forms of violent repression and rebellion. The purpose of this course is to understand the cultural, political, and economic factors that have led to this particular situation. We begin by looking at the process of conquest and colonization in shaping new societies and social structures, then explore the socio-economic processes that set the stage for many of the conflicts and problems that Central America faces today, and finally we explore the current situation in Central America as it relates to changing ideas about gender and the role of women, racism and race mixing, immigration and exile, and forms of violence caused by over 30 years of civil war and economic upheaval. Prerequisite: INTS 130 or ANTH 100. Same as: ANTH 325.

INTS 335 Indigenous Peoples of Latin America 3 units
This course introduces students to the basic histories, social structures, cultures, and current issues facing indigenous peoples in Central and South America. It attempts to understand how indigenous communities and identities have been formed from the conquest through today through such processes as colonialism, integration into the global economy, racism and racial hierarchies, civil war, indigenous social movements, and migration and exile. It also examines the responses of indigenous peoples to those processes through retreat, revolution, and political activism. The goal of the course is to understand indigenous peoples, not as social isolates, but rather as the products of complex processes through which communities, identities and inequalities are produced. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100 or INTS 130. Same as: ANTH 320.

INTS 404 Violence and Oppression in Latin America 3 units

The goal of this class is to understand the particular forms of violence that exist in Latin America, the causes of these forms of violence, and how they are connected to particular local and national histories, cultural ideologies, and social structures. It is also the goal of this class to understand the meaning of violence: that is, how do people in Latin America make sense of the violence around them? How do they justify and/or condemn it? How is violence sometimes used as a way to make meaning, to protest inequality and impunity, and to assert subjectivity? The course will be based primarily on ethnographic case studies of different forms of violence (structural, institutional, state-sponsored, intra-familial, vigilante, armed resistance, etc.) that look at its socio-economic-political context but also its cultural meaning to the perpetrators, victims, and bystanders. The rationale of the course is that it is by understanding the meaning of violence, the context within which it is carried out, and its cultural logic, that we are best equipped to begin to address it. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or INTS 130 or INTS 210 or Instructor Consent. Same as: ANTH 404.

Global and Thematic Issues

INTS 215 Introduction to Women's Studies 3 units

The course is a historical and cross-cultural examination of women's issues. The approach is multidisciplinary and draws on the humanities, social sciences, life/physical sciences, and other fields of study. The course is based on research that views women from their own perspectives rather than from the points of view of what men have traditionally studied, claimed, or written about women. The course examines historical and intellectual roots in worldwide movements for social change and equality. The course also offers a holistic approach to the study of fundamental issues of sex and gender-how they have been reflected in culture and history, how they shape social, political, economic and institutional organization as well as personal experience and perception, and how they interact with issues of race, ethnicity, and class. Same as: SBS 215.

INTS 283 The Third World and the West 3 units

This course examines the emergence of the Third World in modern history, the response to and reformation of the question of modernity among Third World peoples and intellectuals, and the formation of modern global relations, beginning sometime around 1450 to the present, in which Euro-Americans played a central part. This course also explores recent changes in the status and the meaning of the Third World and lays out numerous historical problems that still remain in this increasingly globalizing and interactive world. Same as: HIST 234.

INTS 305 Democracy and Democratization 3 units

What is democracy? Who benefits from it? Is democracy better suited to some peoples than others? What causes democracy--does it come from within a country or from international factors? (Why) is democracy desirable? This course addresses these and other questions in a comparative context, looking at established democracies, emerging democracy, and recalcitrant authoritarian regimes from around the world. Students are expected to leave the course with a critical, nuanced view of democracy, an appreciation of various electoral systems, and in-depth knowledge of both a democratic and non-democratic country of their choice. Same as: POLISCI 305.

INTS 316 Ideas of East and West 3 units
See Asia Pacific for course description.

INTS 348 Gender and Sexuality in Cross-Cultural Perspective 3 units

This course uses ethnographic case studies to understand how sex, gender, and sexuality are socially constructed in different societies around the world and how these social constructions generate different identities, social categories, and relations of power. The course uses analytical tools of Anthropology to understand the cultural logic behind practices and beliefs that are informed by culturally specific sex/gender/sexuality systems; how those cultural logics and practices are related to relations of power between individuals; how they become embedded in institutions of the state that affect the way rights are distributed and often violated; and what happens when they come into contact through various types of transnational movements of people and ideas. The course will also expose students to debates about how we use these understandings of the cultural logics of gendered practices and ideologies in order to address specific examples of gender/sexuality discrimination, gender violence, and international human rights discourse and policies. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100. Same as: ANTH 348.

INTS 365 State-Society Relations in Comparative Context 3 units

What is the state? How is the state organized? From where does it gain the right to rule? How do different countries select leaders, where is power located, who rules, and who is excluded? INTS 365, State-Society Relations in Comparative Context, provides students with a conceptual understanding of the state and its composition in diverse global contexts. Special attention will be paid to various electoral systems and decentralization. Students will also learn how the state interacts with societal forces, namely in terms of co-optation or repression, as well as how society can at times resist the state. Same as: POLISCI 365.

INTS 381 Political Islam 3 units

The course provides a multidisciplinary glimpse into the various ways that Islam manifests itself politically around the world. Part One looks to the faith – the scripture and organization of Islam. Part Two looks to the rise of Islamic politics in the post-colonial world. Then, the course will shift to discuss five manifestations which speak to the Janus-faced, conservative and progressive nature of Political Islam: violence, simmering wars, Sharia Law, social justice, and human rights. The course concludes by considering democracy in the ongoing evolution of Political Islam. The primary objective of this course is to help students understand the fragmented, even contradictory nature of Political Islam. Even terms such as jihad or sharia contain diverse messages, from demanding violence or promoting education. Students are expected to overcome images of Islam as monolithic, and instead to look to Islam as a living religion, one struggling with the same social issues facing all other world faiths.

Prerequisite: Sophomore Standing or Instructor Consent.

INTS 385 Race and Ethnicity 3 units

This course examines anthropological and sociological perspectives on race and ethnicity. Drawing on studies from many different parts of the world, the course explores the nature of ethnic identity, the cultural construction and social meaning of race, the dynamics of race relations and ethnic stratification, and current theories of ethnic conflict and minority rights. The aim of this course is to develop the theoretical tools for comparing the politics of identity and cultural and racial difference cross-culturally and to be able to think critically about our own common sense understandings of race and ethnic relations.

Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100. Same as: ANSO 385.

INTS 410 Plagues and Peoples 3 units

Through lectures, discussion, student presentations, and other pedagogies, this class aims to achieve four primary objectives: 1) To explore the role that disease and medicine played in important historical events; 2) to study the social, institutional and cultural dimensions of disease, ailments and medicine in today's global societies; 3) to become familiar with some of the basic mechanics of epidemic diseases, such as smallpox, influenza, yellow fever, cholera, bubonic plague, syphilis and AIDS; 4) and to understand how some of the most important policy debates in international studies take (or should take) infectious diseases into consideration. Western (bio)medicine is emphasized, but Eastern traditions and alternative medicine are not excluded. Students interested in careers in medicine, public health, and global health policy may consider this class. Prerequisite: Sophomore Standing.

INTS 489 Culture and Imperialism 3 units

The United States of America originated as colonies within the British Empire, and the early founders of the republic openly celebrated the expected emergence of an American empire after the American Revolution. In what ways can the history of the United States be understood through this lens of emerging empire? Might that lens obscure as much as it reveals? What is imperialism, how is it different from colonialism, and what relationship to American cultural development has it had? To explore answers to these and other questions, students will focus on the US experience of empire and compare it to the history of imperialism and colonialism in India, Africa, and elsewhere. Students will read classic and contemporary works in Colonial Studies, Postcolonial Studies, and American Cultural History in preparation for group discussions, seminar papers, and independent research. Same as: HIST 489.

International Relations, Peace and Conflict Resolution

INTS 111 Introduction to International Relations 3 units

This course introduces students to the core concepts, processes and issues of international relations. The goal of this course is to help students develop the intellectual tools to understand the complex international system in which we live. The first segment of this course introduces students to key concepts and theories used in the study of international relations allowing students to better understand the causes of international conflict and challenges to international cooperation. The rest of the term is spent applying these concepts in the context of substantive areas such as security, economics, the environment and human rights.

INTS 114 Introduction to Peace Studies 3 units

This course begins with a focus on the historical causes of war and conflict (including economic, national/ethnic identity, religious, ideological, technological, environmental and other aspects), arms control and disarmament, and the threat of nuclear war; and it continues with a post-Cold War emphasis on the possibilities for nonviolent ways of dealing with conflict and for lasting peace in the future. It examines the internal/personal and interpersonal sources of conflict in daily life and introduces such topics as "cultures of peace." Topics explored include grassroots peace movements, nonviolence, international law and NGOs, peacekeeping and peacemaking, the role of individual peacemakers in their local communities, and current research in the field of peace studies.

INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

INTS 205 Introduction to HumanRights*3 units

The purpose of this course is to introduce students to the major themes and concepts of international human rights. Ideas supportive of contemporary international human rights norms can be found in a number of religious and philosophical traditions. This course exposes students to those traditions as well as to the development of movements that aspire to enshrine a growing list of rights into legal, social and political institutions and practices.

INTS 240 Peace and Conflict in the Middle East3 units

This course briefly reviews the complex history, politics, economics, and international relations of West Asia, aka the Middle East. The term "Middle East" was probably first coined by Captain Alfred Thayer Mahan in his 1890 book, The Influence of Sea Power upon History, 1660-1783. Because of its strategic significance, the term has found currency. But it is alien to the heterogeneous peoples and cultures of the region. The region's unique historical circumstances (ecological, religious, and oil) have given it the appearance of a culture-area.

INTS 304 The United Nations and World Politics3 units

This course offers students the opportunity to study the work and processes of the United Nations system. The goal of this course is to build on previous knowledge in pursuing a more advanced understanding of what, how and why the United Nations system does what it does. Special focus is given to the work of the United Nations in the areas of: International Peace and Security, Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs, and Development. Prerequisite: INTS 111 or INTS 114. Same as: POLISCI 350.

INTS 310 Peace and Conflict Resolution3 units

This course provides an overview of the major issues in international and intra-state conflict resolution, transformation and peace building. Using case studies and simulations, students will examine the causes of violent conflict, the conditions for peace and the ways in which negotiation, mediation and peace building strategies can facilitate the transformation from violent political conflict to sustainable peace.

Prerequisite: INTS 111 or INTS 114.

INTS 322 International Law3 units

This course introduces students to the study of public international law. Through the examination of historic and contemporary developments in international law, students will better understand how international law shapes the contemporary world as well as its role in managing and resolving international conflict. Students will use case studies to explore a number of substantive fields including: the use of force, the environment, human rights, economics, and international conflict and conflict resolution. Students will develop a basic understanding of how international law is created, the role legal norms play in the governance of the contemporary international system. Special attention will be given to recent innovations in international law including the creation of international war crimes tribunals and the International Criminal Court. Prerequisite: INTS 111 or INTS 114.

INTS 406 Human Rights and Civil Society in East Asia3 units

This course approaches the study of human rights regimes in contemporary East Asia from a comparative perspective and within a global framework. Among the topics covered will be: (1) the relationship between state and international organizations in shaping human rights regimes; (2) the activities of sub-national agencies and citizen-based advocacy groups; and (3) case studies in human rights as reflected in, for example, the emergence of social welfare provision, and the rights of patients, indigenous and national minorities. Prerequisite: INTS 205 or Instructor Consent.

INTS 450 Armed Conflict in Southeast Asia3 units

See Asia Pacific for course description.

International Economics, Trade and DevelopmentINTS 100 Principles of Economics 3 units

This course provides a survey of economic principles in both microeconomics and macroeconomics. It introduces students to the basic economic concepts fundamental to understanding daily life economic observations, such as supply, demand, price, market equilibrium, national income, unemployment, inflation, economic growth, international trade, and so on. Through discussions of contemporary economic issues and policies, students learn how households and firms make decisions under certain economic systems, how individual markets and the national and international economy operate, and how government policies affect economic outcomes. Same as: ECON 100.

INTS 262 China's Economic Development & Economic Reform 3 units

A survey of China's economic development under the centrally planned socialist system since 1949, and the on-going economic reform since 1978. Also addresses China's role in regional economic growth, and its economic relationship with the world economy. Same as: ECON 262.

INTS 321 Economic Development in Pacific Asia 3 units

This course investigates the economic performance and development of the economies of Pacific Asia, covering Japan, Asian NIEs (Hong Kong, Taiwan, South Korea, and Singapore), ASEAN-4 (Malaysia, Thailand, Indonesia, and the Philippines), China and Vietnam. Through this class students will gain factual knowledge about the economic characteristics of and policies on these economies' structural change, economic growth, and development; and the economic relationship among these economies and between this region and the world economy in the era of globalization. The emphasis is on the application of proper economic analytical tools to examine the effectiveness of various development strategies and policies on each economy's development process. The applicability of the development experiences of these economies to other developing countries will also be briefly discussed. Prerequisite: ECON 100. Same as: ECON 321.

INTS 323 Political Economy of Latin America 3 units

How does equitable growth occur, especially in a region where sustained growth and equality have long been elusive goals? In the last two decades, millions of Latin Americans have risen out of dire poverty, much of the region has democratized, and Latin American commodities have expanded into vast new markets, such as China. Nonetheless, poverty and inequality in the region (and its violent effects) remain pervasive and nearly intractable problems. Besides poverty and inequality, other course themes include liberalism, neoliberalism, structuralism, institutions and norms, civil society, foreign investment, globalization, and regional integration. The imposition of policies and "structural adjustment" by outsiders will be considered, as is the capacity of this region to generate new political and economic paradigms or policies, such as dependency theory and conditional cash transfers. Since "development" is a particular kind of utopia, cultural studies and anthropology are not excluded, but most material comes from economics and political science. Prerequisite: INTS 100/ECON 100, INTS 130 or Instructor Consent. Same as: SBS 323.

INTS 360 American Trade Politics and Policy 3 units

The study of American trade politics occupies a special place in the history of political science and policy studies. It has contributed to new insights into the role of economic groups in American politics, the creative and often independent role of the state and public officials in the national policy process and the impact of international structures and processes on domestic politics and policymaking. This course examines the formation of American trade policy since World War II, when the United States assumed the mantle of global leadership and embarked on a world historic project designed to create an open international trading system. Organized around an exploration of state-society relationships at the intersection of the international and domestic economies, the course seeks to answer an interrelated set of questions: who defines America's national trade interest; under what conditions do they define it; and where does their power come from? Same as: POLISCI 360.

INTS 361 Economic Development 3 units

This course introduces students to one of the major issues of the world economy: the process of economic development. It provides an understanding of the causes and consequences of underdevelopment and poverty in developing economies and explores possible means to overcome the obstacles to development. Topics covered include: economic growth, sources of growth (capital formation, population and human

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES CONCENTRATION

OVERVIEW

SUA's concentration in social and behavioral sciences strives to understand human lives, behaviors, and institutions in their social, historical, and cultural environments. The concentration embraces an interdisciplinary approach to examining the human condition, incorporating perspectives from anthropology, economics, political science, psychology, and sociology. Our courses provide students with theoretical and methodological tools to examine and address social issues and concerns from multiple comparative perspectives. Overall, our goal is to empower students to become actively engaged and knowledgeable participants in their local and global communities.

Students who select the social and behavioral sciences concentration must take five courses in the area, three of which must be upper-division courses (i.e., 300-level or above). One of the following research methods courses must also be taken as a part of their five concentration course requirements: ECON 350, PSYCH 310, or SBS 310. In addition, they are strongly encouraged to use Learning Clusters to deepen their knowledge of social and behavioral sciences. Students may opt to focus on one of the disciplines represented in the concentration or take a broader array of social and behavioral sciences courses.

Student learning outcomes for the Social and Behavioral Sciences concentration are:

1. Articulate an understanding of social scientists' theories, concepts, and views.
2. Critically evaluate social scientists' theories and perspectives.
3. Formulate insightful questions and apply social scientists' theories and methods to investigate various aspects of the social world.
4. Communicate effectively, both orally and in writing, in a manner appropriate to the social sciences.
5. Share their work with others in a manner that reflects an active engagement in their local and global communities.

CAPSTONE EXPERIENCE

1 unit

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Anthropology

ANTH 100 Introduction to Socio-Cultural Anthropology

3 units

This course is an introduction to the sub-discipline of socio-cultural anthropology, which is the study of contemporary human cultures and societies. The course introduces the basic terminology and theoretical perspectives anthropologists use to understand the ways that humans organize themselves and the cultural logic through which they think about the world and their social relations. Course material covers a wide variety of cultural contexts, both familiar and unfamiliar, to help students understand the cultural logic of the beliefs and social practices of others and critically examine the cultural logics and assumptions of their own culture.

ANTH 150 Human Origins

3 units

This course introduces students to biological anthropology and anthropological archaeology – those portions of the discipline concerned with human prehistory and continuing human development. The course examines reconstructions of the human record based on fossil and artifact-based evidence of human biological and cultural change over time. It considers various theories of human biological evolution and the emergence of culture – humanity's unique ecological niche. The course examines the origins and development of world civilizations, and takes a critical look at theories that try to explain the development of social complexity.

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

ANTH 313 Latin American Migration to the US 3 units

This course is about the way that Latin American immigration to the US, and often their return back to Latin America, affects the communities, families, racial identities, and even sex lives of both immigrants and the people they leave behind. The course will draw on readings primarily from Anthropologists and Sociologists who see immigration, not as a linear process of arrival and eventual integration, but as a transnational process of the movement of people, money, culture, and politics back and forth across borders in complex ways that affect both the US and Latin America. Thus, while the course will cover the overall historical trends of Latino immigration to the US, changing demographics, the effects of US immigration laws on immigrants and their families, and the overall economic and political trends in Latin America that explain why people migrate, the real focus of the course is on the effects of these overall trends on communities and families in both the US and Latin America as illustrated through ethnographically rich case studies based on participant observation with migrants, return migrants, and members of the sending communities. Recommended prerequisite: INTS 130 or INTS 210. Same as INTS 313.

ANTH 315 Urban Anthropology 3 units

Cultural anthropology is the comparative study of society, culture, and human diversity. The discipline focuses on the various ways in which social relations, history, politics, and cultural products, like the media, shape peoples' everyday lives. This course examines ethnographic studies that document the strategies people use to cope with the demands posed by modern urban environments. It also examines some common social problems encountered in urban contexts, such as those involving the historical origins of urban settings, social class and inequality, urban youth subcultures, migration and economic globalization, and public health.

ANTH 320 Indigenous Peoples of Latin America 3 units

This course introduces students to the basic histories, social structures, cultures, and current issues facing indigenous peoples in Central and South America. It explores how indigenous communities and identities have been formed, from the conquest and through today, examining a range of processes and events, such as colonialism, integration into the global economy, racism and racial hierarchies, civil wars, indigenous social movements, and migration and exile. It also examines the responses of indigenous peoples to these processes and events, looking specifically at topics such as retreat, revolution, and political activism. The goal of the course is to understand indigenous peoples as products of complex processes through which communities, identities and inequalities are produced, not as social isolates. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100 or INTS 130. Same as: INTS 335.

ANTH 325 Inequality, Repression, and Resistance in Central America 3 units

Central America is often known as a region of rich cultural heritage but also carries a legacy of vast inequalities and forms of violent repression and rebellion. The purpose of this course is to understand the cultural, political, and economic factors that have led to this particular situation. We begin by looking at the process of conquest and colonization in shaping new societies and social structures, then explore the socio-economic processes that set the stage for many of the conflicts and problems that Central America faces today, and finally, we explore the current situation in Central America as it relates to changing ideas about gender and the role of women, racism and race mixing, immigration and exile, and forms of violence caused by more than 30 years of civil war and economic upheaval. Prerequisite: INTS 130 or ANTH 100. Same as: INTS 325.

ANTH 330 People, Culture, and Globalization in Oceania 3 units

This course engages students in an examination of how indigenous peoples of Oceania have been deeply engaged in global, cultural, political, and economic processes since the time of their earliest encounters with representatives of the West. This class incorporates classic and contemporary studies from anthropology and Pacific history, together with the voices and views of islander writers and artists. Social science perspectives are helpful for understanding natural and cultural environments, cultural history and change, language issues, and current socioeconomic and educational issues the Islands face today. Writers and artists can show how islanders are actively shaping their views of themselves and the larger political-economic processes in which they participate. By combining these two points of view, the class will examine the tensions between cultural traditions and globalization and how we, as outsiders and as islanders, come to know and empathize with the peoples of Oceania. Prerequisite: ANTH100 or SOC100. Same as: INTS 380.

ANTH 348 Gender and Sexuality in Cross-Cultural Perspective 3 units

This course uses ethnographic case studies to understand how sex, gender, and sexuality are socially constructed in different societies around the world and how these social constructions generate different identities, social categories, and relations of power. The course uses analytical tools of Anthropology to understand the cultural logic behind practices and beliefs that are informed by culturally specific sex/gender/sexuality systems; how those cultural logics and practices are related to relations of power between individuals; how they become embedded in institutions of the state that affect the way rights are distributed and often violated; and what happens when they come into contact through various types of transnational movements of people and ideas. The course will also expose students to debates about how we use these understandings of the cultural logics of gendered practices and ideologies in order to address specific examples of gender/sexuality discrimination, gender violence, and international human rights discourse and policies. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or SOC 100. Same as: INTS 348.

ANTH 380 Cultures of Learning 3 units

In this course we examine “education” by looking beyond the typical setting of the school. Instead, we will consider education in the context of learning and culture. As scholars in history and anthropology have shown during recent decades, learning can be found in classrooms, families, churches, and public places. Learning can be thought of broadly as the process by which people acquire knowledge, attitudes, values, and skills. We will study the past as a deeply constitutive force in the present. Historians call this approach cultural history, anthropologists call it historical ethnography. Specific topics will include prominent and influential theories of pedagogy and learning, as well as the historical and cultural dynamics of race and ethnicity in learning. Throughout the course, we will keep the long history of education reform in mind – including contemporary initiatives. The course is modeled as an intensive reading and writing seminar in which students will be expected to complete an original research paper testing or applying principles discussed in class. Same as: HIST 380.

ANTH 384 Indigenous North America 3 units

The Americas were populated for millennia before European colonization transformed the hemisphere and the lives of its first inhabitants. Descendants of these first inhabitants live in many parts of North America – including Orange County, California. This seminar explores the histories and cultures of select Native American peoples from Canada, Mexico, and the United States during selected eras, from before colonization and into the contemporary period. Through reading current and classic scholarship on Native Americans, along with writing a research essay on a topic of the students’ choosing, students will acquire an understanding of the historical and cultural processes that have defined Native American lives. Same as: HIST 384.

ANTH 401 Poverty, Power, and Urban Life 3 units

This course engages students in a critical examination of contemporary urban experiences with a focus on peoples living in the margins of large, dense urban communities, both inside and outside of North America. The course will address questions surrounding how the articulation of global and local markets affects the expression of traditional and modern identities, how underground or informal economies shape the creation of urban street life, and how children and adults actively pursue meaningful family life in contexts of extreme poverty. Readings will focus on cities in the Pacific basin. Prerequisite: ANTH100 or ANTH 150 or SOC100, or Junior standing.

ANTH 404 Violence and Oppression in Latin America 3 units

The goal of this class is to understand the particular forms of violence that exist in Latin

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

America, the causes of these forms of violence, and how they are connected to particular local and national histories, cultural ideologies, and social structures. It is also the goal of this class to understand the meaning of violence: that is, how do people in Latin America make sense of the violence around them? How do they justify and/or condemn it? How is violence sometimes used as a way to make meaning, to protest inequality and impunity, and to assert subjectivity? The course will be based primarily on ethnographic case studies of different forms of violence (structural, institutional, state-sponsored, intra-familial, vigilante, armed resistance, etc.) that look at its socio-economic-political context but also its cultural meaning to the perpetrators, victims, and bystanders. The rationale of the course is that it is by understanding the meaning of violence, the context within which it is carried out, and its cultural logic, that we are best equipped to begin to address it. Prerequisite: ANTH 100 or INTS 130 or INTS 210 or instructor consent. Same as INTS 404.

Political Science

POLISCI 110 Foundations of American Government and Politics 3 units

This course explores the organization and operation of national state power in the United States. It begins with a "textbook" account of American government and politics, focused on the formal institutional arrangements of the U.S. national state (viz., the constitution, separation of powers, federalism, congress, president, and Supreme Court) as well as the formal mechanisms through which the state is linked to American citizens (esp., public opinion, elections, political parties, and interest groups). Armed with this formalist view, we turn to an examination of the "real world" of American democracy. Here we engage in a close and careful reading of a handful of empirical studies on the actual workings of the U.S. political system with a focus on citizen-state relationships, the constitutional and institutional organization of the U.S. national state, and the relationship between this state and the nation's corporate capitalist economy.

POLISCI 150 American Political Thought 3 units

This course examines the foundations of American political thought through a close and careful reading of key texts written by the Founding Fathers (most significantly, the Federalist Papers); an analysis of the political thought of thinkers who most influenced the founders (including Aristotle, Machiavelli, Grotius, Hobbes, Locke, and Montesquieu); and an examination of classic commentaries on American political thought, especially Tocqueville's Democracy in America. The main theme throughout the course is the tension in American political thought between democracy and liberty; how the Founders viewed this tension (and why); and how this tension was incorporated into the nation's founding documents (the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution) as well as how it has been differentially reflected in key Supreme Court decisions ever since the famous Marbury v. Madison case in 1803.

POLISCI 305 Democracy and Democratization 3 units

What is democracy? Who benefits from it? Is democracy better suited to some peoples than to others? What causes democracy – does it come from within a country or is it caused by international factors? (Why) is democracy desirable? This course addresses these and other questions in a comparative context, looking at established democracies, emerging democracies, and recalcitrant authoritarian regimes from around the world. Students are expected to leave the course with a critical, nuanced view of democracy, an appreciation of various electoral systems, and in-depth knowledge of both a democratic and non-democratic country of their choice. Prerequisite: previous course in International Studies or Political Science, or instructor consent. Same as: INTS 305.

POLISCI 320 Public Policy 3 units

In PUBLIC POLICY, students will learn what public policy is and who makes it. The course focuses upon the policy process, structure, and context of policy-making. Special attention is paid to the institutional and non-institutional actors who make policy and the rules, strategies, culture, and resources that affect the making of policy. The course culminates in the writing of a policy brief that affects problems in the local area. The policy brief allows the students to understand the practical side of public policy-making.

POLISCI 335 Urban Politics 3 units

For the first time in history, more people live in cities than in rural areas. Cities are the epicenter of many great things, such as entertainment, the arts, parks and recreation, museums, medical care, and employment. They also have more than their fair share of problems, such as crime, poverty, racism, and homelessness. This course examines theories about who governs cities and why and how cities are governed. The course focuses upon the policies that address urban problems. It pays special attention to political institutions, machine politics, informal actors who influence politics, the role of the national and state governments in city politics, and the politics of racial and ethnic minorities in cities. Power, race, and participation are three dominant themes that run throughout this class. Through this course, students will also better understand how culture, demographics, and politics affect California cities. They will devise solutions to major problems in one of the state's urban areas. Even though this course focuses upon American cities, the lessons learned in it allow students to understand and examine cities throughout the world.

POLISCI 340 American Ideologies: Power & Choice 3 units

If there is a central organizing concept in political science, it is power. One of the fundamental issues in the study of power is choice: who gets what, when, and why? This course examines the relationship between power and choice. It focuses on the wide variety of ways political analysts have conceptualized power and politics in the United States. Through a close and careful reading of a select number of representative texts, the course examines the theoretical underpinnings, ideological content, and political implications of eight major paradigms of American politics: liberalism, conservatism, Marxism, elite theory, pluralism, race, feminism, and neo-conservatism. Lectures will provide students with the necessary background to situate each paradigm within its proper historical, intellectual and analytical context.

POLISCI 350 The United Nations and World Politics 3 units

This course offers an opportunity to study the work and processes of the United Nations system. The goal of this course is to build on previous knowledge and thereby develop in students advanced understanding of what, how, and why the United Nations system functions the way it does. Special focus is given to the United Nations' work in the areas of: international peace and security, human rights and humanitarian affairs, and development. Prerequisite: INTS 111 or INTS 114. Same as: INTS 304.

POLISCI 360 - American Trade Politics and Policy 3 units

The study of American trade politics occupies a special place in the history of political science and policy studies. It has contributed to new insights into the role of economic groups in American politics, the creative and often independent role of state and public officials in the national policy process and the impact of international structures and processes on domestic politics and policymaking. This course examines the formation of American trade policy since World War II, when the United States assumed the mantle of global leadership and embarked on a world historic project designed to create an open international trading system. Organized around an exploration of state-society relationships at the intersection of international and domestic economies, the course seeks to answer an interrelated set of questions: who defines America's national trade interest; under what conditions do they define it; and where does their power come from? Same as: INTS 360.

POLISCI 365 State-Society Relations in Comparative Context 3 units

What is the state? How is the state organized? From where does it gain the right to rule? How do different countries select leaders, where is power located, who rules, and who is excluded? This course provides students with a conceptual understanding of the state and its composition in diverse global contexts. Special attention will be paid to various electoral systems and decentralization. Students will also learn how the state interacts with societal forces, namely in terms of co-optation or repression, as well as how society can at times resist the state. Same as: INTS 365.

POLISCI 380 American State Formation: From Colonies to Superpower 3 units

This course examines the path of development of the American national state, from its roots during the Colonial Period, when the thirteen colonies existed on the periphery of the European state system and world market economy, through the emergence of the United States as a global military and economic superpower during the Post-World War II period. Taking its analytical cue from Alex de Tocqueville, the course places a consideration of the constitutional organization of the American national state and changes in the balance of power between the President and Congress, and the national government and state governments, in global perspective: America's two century move from the periphery of the European-centered international state system and world market economy to its current position of supremacy within it.

PSYCH 310 Research Methods in Psychology 3 units

This course is an overview of the fundamentals of psychological research methods. The course provides the tools for students to understand both experimental and non-experimental research designs and the accompanying descriptive and inferential statistics used to evaluate the data obtained from those designs (which may include correlation, regression, t-tests, and analysis of variance). Students will gain experience in designing or conducting experiments, analyzing data, interpreting results, and writing research reports. Prerequisite: PSYCH 100.

They also learn to apply theories and concepts to real-world situations as appropriate. Prerequisite: PSYCH 100.

PSYCH 330 Psychological Disorders 3 units

This course provides an introduction to a wide variety of psychological disorders and their treatments. Definitions of "abnormality" and methods of disorder assessment are examined. How does equitable growth occur, especially in a region where sustained growth and equality have long been elusive goals? In the last two decades, millions of Latin Americans have risen out of dire poverty, much of the region has democratized, and

SOCIAL AND BEHAVIORAL SCIENCES

Latin American commodities have expanded into vast new markets such as China. Nonetheless, poverty and inequality in the region (and its violent effects) remain pervasive and nearly intractable problems. Besides poverty and inequality, other course themes include liberalism, neoliberalism, structuralism, institutions and norms, civil society, foreign investment, globalization, and regional integration. The imposition of policies and “structural adjustment” by outsiders will be considered, as is the capacity of this region to generate new political and economic paradigms or policies, such as dependency theory and conditional cash transfers. Since “development” is a particular kind of utopia, cultural studies and anthropology are not excluded, but most material comes from economics and political science. Prerequisite, ECON/INTS 100, INTS 130, or Instructor Consent. Same as INTS 323.

THE APPLICATION PROCESS

Since its inception in 1987, Soka University of America (SUA) has been committed to promoting equity, access, and integrity through administering a holistic admissions process. SUA currently uses an online application process and encourages prospective students to complete the application requirements before the posted deadlines.

ADMISSION DEADLINES & TIMELINES

Soka University conducts both Early Action and Regular Admission periods. The application and document deadline for Early Action is November 1st and January 15th for Regular Admission.

SUA provides an Early Action process by which students can receive early notification of acceptance. Early Action is non-binding at SUA. Most applicants choosing the Early Action route have high academic qualifications.

Domestic applicants do not have to wait for first semester senior grades before applying.

Early Action decision letters are mailed on or before December 1st. Applicants who are not admitted in the Early Action period may be rolled over to the Regular Admission process for the term in which they applied. At the discretion of the Admission Committee, applicants may be re-assessed with the applicant pool for Regular Admission. Students who are denied admission for Early Action may not re-apply for Regular Admission for the same term. Should an applicant require more time to apply, it is recommended that they apply for Regular Admission. The Regular Admission decision letters are mailed on or before March 1st.

All admitted students who wish to enroll at SUA must submit a non-refundable US $400 tuition deposit, on or before May 1st to guarantee their place in the entering class.

APPLICATION REQUIREMENTS

Soka University of America seeks students of intelligence and commitment who will provide leadership in the promotion of peace and human rights. The university serves highly motivated students of all backgrounds and beliefs who have excelled in a range of academic courses.

Admission to SUA is competitive and selective. Although all successful applicants may have strong academic records, good grades and test scores are not enough by themselves for an applicant to be accepted. The Admission Committee carefully considers a number of criteria without a rigid emphasis on any one factor. Applicants may apply online by visiting SUA's admissions website or by visiting the Common Application website. Faxed, scanned, emailed and late application materials will not be accepted.

Applicants must fulfill the following application requirements to be considered for admission:

- Completed application form, signed and dated by the applicant. Online applications may be printed out or completed online and are available at www.soka.edu/apply or www.commonapp.org.
- Official high school or secondary transcripts showing all academic coursework completed. All coursework completed outside of the U.S. must be sent to IERF (www.ierf.org) for conversion to U.S. equivalents.
- If necessary, General Equivalency Diploma (GED) or High School Equivalency (HSE). Applicants must submit official score reports from the GED or HSE test and also submit a copy of the GED or HSE certificate.
- Official transcripts for all college-level coursework completed. All coursework completed outside of the U.S. must be sent to IERF (www.ierf.org) for conversion to U.S. equivalents.
- Two written academic recommendations from your principal, counselor or teacher. Please ask recommenders to use the official form provided in the Soka application or the Common Application
- Official results of the SAT with Essay or the ACT with Writing should be sent directly to Soka University by the testing agency. Scores received from the applicant or high school are not considered official.

ADMISSION POLICY & ENTRANCE REQUIREMENTS

- Two mandatory essays that answer the questions put forth in the application.
- A list of extracurricular activities or talents demonstrating outside interests and leadership experience. The activities section of the Soka online application and Common Application fulfills this requirement when filled out fully.
- A $45 nonrefundable application fee (paid by check or money order only) must be submitted with the paper application. If you submit your application online your fee will be reduced to $30. SUA accepts College Board, NACAC, and Common Application fee waivers. Applicants are responsible for ensuring that a fee waiver and/or payment are sent to the Admission Office. Without the receipt of payment or fee waiver an applicant will be considered incomplete.

Documents not in English will require English translations. Applicants must provide the English translation as well as the original document. All translations must be complete and literal with no attempts to interpret or evaluate the document, prepared in the same format as the original document and signed by a translator attesting to the familiarity with the foreign language. Translations may not be provided by the student or members of his/her family.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

SUA will only accept applications for entrance as a first year student. SUA does not have a separate transfer admission process. If you are currently a college student, you may apply, but you will not be eligible to transfer college credits. Applicants with college experience are required to submit college transcripts to be used as a part of the assessment process should they choose to apply for admission to SUA.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

SUA's student body is currently composed of about 40% international students. International applicants complete the same application and are evaluated by the same criteria provided above for all first year applicants. All instruction at SUA is given in English.

SUA provides verification of student status, I-20 forms, and other documents needed to obtain an F-1 student visa. Should an international student misplace his or her original I-20 form while outside the U.S., a replacement I-20 form can be reissued by the International Student Services Office but the international shipping fee (this fee will be quoted upon request) will be the responsibility of the student. Soka University of America assumes no responsibility for the adverse consequences regarding an applicant's U.S. immigration status that may result from fulfillment of our Study Abroad requirement. Please review the Internship/Study Abroad section of this catalog.

VISITING THE CAMPUS

The University invites all prospective and accepted students to visit our campus and to speak with our faculty, staff and students. Such visits provide firsthand experience of student life and the ambiance of collegiality on campus. Although visits can be arranged at any time through a phone call or online tour request prior to arrival on campus, SUA also hosts Lions Roar days in late October and in mid-November each year. Lions Roar provides opportunities to visit with students, faculty and staff from Recruitment, Admission and Financial Aid offices.

FINANCIAL AID

FINANCIAL AID

Meeting the costs of an undergraduate education represents a significant investment for most students and families. At Soka University of America (SUA) we are committed to providing comprehensive merit and need-based financial aid to admitted students that adhere to specific requirements and deadlines. It is the sincere objective of the Office of Financial Aid (OFA) to provide fair access to aid across all student populations.

SUA admits students without consideration of their abilities to meet the cost of attendance. Our “need-blind” admission policy means that a student’s financial aid status will not affect his or her possible admission to the university.

COMMUNICATION POLICY

Email is the standard and preferred method of communication. The OFA will use the email address noted on the admissions application for all communication with new applicants. Once a SUA email address is assigned to a student, the OFA will use this as the primary communication method and cease to use other email addresses. In addition, students are encouraged to access their Learn Student Portal to review important financial aid “to do” list items or for information on their aid award, student account and enrollment information.

- Student's and Parents' income/tax documentations

All information must:

- Be officially translated into English and signed/stamped by the official translator.
- Be converted into US Dollars using the currency conversion rate table provided or the rate the bank provided on the statement.
- Show the rate of conversion used on the translated document.
- Always submit the original foreign document with the officially translated document.

TYPES OF FINANCIAL AID FOR DOMESTIC AND INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS

1. Federal (provided by the U.S. government and available only to domestic students)

2. State (provided by the state of California and available only to domestic students from California)
3. Institutional (provided by SUA and available for all students)
4. Outside Scholarships (provided by outside agencies and available for all students)
5. Private Loans (private lenders)

Federal Aid

To apply for federal aid, students must complete the FAFSA.

Federal aid is only available to domestic students and is categorized as:

1. Grants (money that does not need to be repaid)
2. Work study (paycheck from a job)
3. Loans (must be repaid)

Federal Grants Programs

Federal Pell Grant – provides need-based grants to low-income, undergraduate students. Eligibility is based on financial need which is evaluated by the information on the FAFSA.

Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (FSEOG) – is a need-based grant that is awarded to low-income undergraduate students.

Federal Work Study Program

Federal Work Study (FWS) – is a program funded by a combination of federal and institutional funds. It allows students to earn money to help pay for educational expenses while he/she is in school. It encourages community service work. Awards are limited and vary depending on need. To be eligible, an applicant must have demonstrated financial need through completing a FAFSA and indicate that they are "Interested in Work-study" on the FAFSA.

Federal Loans

Federal Direct Loans (Stafford) – are part of the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan program, in which domestic student borrowers obtain loan funds directly from the U.S. Department of

FINANCIAL AID

Education. These loans are more commonly referred to as Stafford Loans and are available as Subsidized and Unsubsidized Loans. Stafford Loans have both annual and yearly limits.

Subsidized Loans – are based on financial need. Interest accrued while the student is in school is paid by the federal government and therefore an interest free loan until the student graduates.

Interest begins to accrue after a grace period of six months from the time of graduation, or last day of attendance. The interest rate will change yearly based on the 10-year treasury note index.

Unsubsidized Loans – are available to domestic students regardless of financial need and there is no interest subsidy. Interest will accrue from the time of disbursement.

Repayment of Federal Direct Student Loans begins six months after a student graduates, withdraws, or enrolls below half-time (6 units is half-time).

Federal Direct Parent Loans for Undergraduate Students (PLUS) – is a federal loan that parents of domestic dependent undergraduate students can use to help pay education expenses. The U.S.

Department of Education is the lender. The maximum loan amount is the student's cost of attendance minus any other financial aid received. There is no interest subsidy for this loan.

Repayment begins within sixty days after the loan has been fully disbursed (usually after the second disbursement during the spring term). The borrower must not have an adverse credit history. If a parent borrower is unable to secure a PLUS loan, the undergraduate dependent student may be eligible for additional unsubsidized loans to help pay for his or her education. The dependent student should contact the Office of Financial Aid for more information.

More information regarding federal loans can be found online at: studentaid.ed.gov.

Veteran Benefits

The Bachelor of Arts in Liberal Arts program at Soka University of America is approved for veterans by the Bureau for Postsecondary and Vocational Education. These benefits are available for veterans and children or spouses of certain deceased or disabled veterans. Application for benefits may be made through any Department of Veterans Affairs regional office, online at www.gibill.va.gov. Students are encouraged to notify the Office of Financial Aid that they are participating in a VA program during the admissions process to ensure timely processing before the student arrives for classes.

State Aid

Cal Grants (for California residents only)

All students who are California residents should apply for the Cal Grant award from the California Student Aid Commission (CSAC) if they are not already a Cal Grant recipient. To apply for a Cal Grant award, the FAFSA must be submitted by March 2nd. Additionally, students must submit the Cal Grant GPA Verification Form to CSAC by March 2nd. The Cal Grant GPA Verification Form is available on CSAC's Web site at www.csac.ca.gov. Most high schools and colleges automatically file their students' GPAs with the Commission. Students should confirm whether their school will file their GPA for them. If not, they must obtain a GPA Verification Form, get it certified by a school official, and mail it themselves. Continuing SUA students' GPAs will be automatically submitted by the university.

Cal Grant A – is a grant applied to tuition and fees only. Its awards assist low- and middle-income students with tuition and fee costs.

Cal Grant B – is a grant applied toward tuition and fees only. Its awards are intended to assist low-income and disadvantaged students.

Cal Grant B Stipend (Access) can be applied to educational costs other than tuition and fees. Qualifying costs would include, but are not limited to, books, supplies, transportation, and room & board.

If the student is eligible for both the Cal Grant A and B, he/she must make a decision to select which Cal Grant program he/she would like to participate in before he/she receive their first disbursement. It is important to note that if a student receives Cal Grant A funds for the first year of study, he/she is no longer eligible to receive Cal Grant B funds. Students must opt into the Cal Grant B program from the beginning of study. This means that the student will have to notify CSAC of their selection. Though the total amount awarded by the Cal Grant B can be lower over four years, B stipend can be applied to other costs aside from tuition and fees. Awards are prorated for students enrolled less than full-time.

Cal Grant can be renewed up to 4 years as long as the student has financial need. More information about the Cal Grant can be found online at: www.csac.ca.gov.

Institutional Aid

Institutional aid is categorized as:

1. Loans (must be repaid)
2. Scholarships and Grants (money that does not need to be repaid)

Institutional Loans

Soka Loan – is available for international students. International students interested in applying for the Soka Loan will be required to annually submit the International Students Financial Aid Application. Soka Loan will not exceed the cost of attendance minus other financial aid received. Repayment of Soka Loans begins six months after student graduates, withdraws, or enrolls below half-time (6 units is half-time).

Institutional Scholarships (All students are eligible to apply):

All institutional scholarships and grants have a life of 8 terms of enrollment for one program. They are subjected to the SAP policy of a 2.0 cumulative GPA.

Soka Opportunity Scholarship (SOS) – All students admitted to the BA in Liberal Arts program whose annual earned family income is $60,000 or less,* and who have neither graduated from college nor completed more than 3/4 of their required coursework towards their first under degree (e.g., BA/BS) at the time of application to SUA, will be awarded SOS to cover their full tuition. Students whose families earn more than $60,000 combined income may be considered for a prorated SOS award. The application for this award is through the completion of a FAFSA (domestic students) or through the completion of the Institutional Student Financial Aid Application (international students). *Income includes wages, interest, dividends, capital gain, etc. SUA provides prorated awards for students who come from families with higher income levels and/or have significant assets.

Ikeda Scholarship – The Ikeda Scholarship is the most prestigious scholarship program at Soka University of America. The scholarship covers the entire “Cost of Attendance” which includes not only the direct costs to the university such as tuition, room and board, but also the indirect costs like travel, personal expenses, books and supplies. The Ikeda Scholarship is awarded annually in May to one student going into the sophomore class, the junior class and the senior class for a total of three scholarships per year. Eligibility is determined on merit alone; primarily academic accomplishment with experiences in leadership and service also taken into account. The selection committee (Dean of Faculty and Dean of Students) makes final recommendations to the University President. This scholarship is announced in the spring of each academic year.

Global Merit Scholarships – SUA offers a select number of full ride scholarships to the top students of each entering class. The scholarship covers the entire “Cost of Attendance” which includes not only the direct costs to the university such as tuition, room and board, but also the indirect costs like travel, personal expenses, books and supplies. Eligibility is determined by the information from the admissions application. All admitted students are given equal and automatic consideration for this award.

Makiguchi Scholarship for Global Citizens – Each year, a SUA Makiguchi Scholarship for Global Citizens award will be given to one person, who has graduated from a high school in an African nation and is extremely outstanding both in character and academic standing but has difficulty studying at SUA due to financial situations. The scholarship covers the entire “Cost of Attendance” which includes not only the direct costs to the university such as tuition, room and board, but also the indirect costs like travel, personal expenses, books and supplies. Eligibility for this award is determined by information submitted on the admissions and financial aid application. Part of the scholarship covers one roundtrip airfare – one way ticket to SUA, the first year, one way ticket home, and last year of study.

Soka Merit Scholarships – Highly qualified applicants will be considered for the Merit Scholarship. There is no application for this scholarship. This scholarship is awarded each year based on merit as determined during the admissions process. The top ranking applicant(s) who accepts the admission offer will receive the scholarship award. Scholarship awards are renewable annually and subject to the student's continued Satisfactory Academic Progress.

Soka Academic Merit Scholarship – Each year, the Scholarship Committee selects the top five academic students from SUA's 1st year, 2nd year, and 3rd year classes to receive the academic merit scholarships for the following academic year. The awardees receive a $10,000 scholarship each. The scholarships are not based upon financial need. Although the Soka Academic Merit Scholarship are given only for a single year, awardees can be selected again in subsequent years. Selection is based on outstanding academic performance for that year and not on cumulative performance. A selection committee is formed each year making final recommendations to the University President who announces the recipients of the Academic Merit scholarships in the fall of each academic year.

Athletic Scholarships – Gifted student athletes participating in one or more of the below sports may be offered an athletic scholarship in conjunction with other institutional, state or federal aid.

- Men's and Women's Soccer
- Men's and Women's Cross Country
- Men's and Women's Swimming and Diving
- Men's and Women's Track and Field

Awards are offered and renewed at the discretion of the Director of Athletics and the coaches of each sport. It is not determined by financial need or academic merit. The terms and conditions of the award follow the policy outlined in the individual letter of intent. Students wishing to inquire about an athletic scholarship should contact the coach of the sport he/she is interested in.

John D. Montgomery – This scholarship is named in honor of the late John D. Montgomery, for his many years of service and dedication as a founding member of Soka University of America's Board of Trustees, as well as the founding director of the SUA's Pacific Basin Research Center, a research institute dedicated to the study of social and economic development that reinforces the humanistic aims of the university and its mission of service to others. The recipient of this $20,000 scholarship is chosen on the basis of academic merit and his or her record of service that best exemplifies the humanitarian goals and objectives of the University.

Soka Named and Private Scholarships – The SUA Foundation offers Named Scholarships and the financial aid website list many private scholarship applications and websites for students to pursue additional scholarship funding resources. Visit the website at www.soka.edu

Resident Assistant Program (RA) – is coordinated through the housing department. This program is considered an award and is included as part of the financial aid package which cannot exceed the Cost of Attendance (COA). If a student is already receiving financial aid to partially or fully cover the cost of housing, financial aid will be adjusted so that it does not exceed the COA.

Private Loans

Private loans are available to students who have received the maximum award amounts under the Direct Loan Program and require additional funding. These loans are sponsored by banks and private lending institutions. Interest rates and repayment schedules vary. These loans must be certified by the Office of Financial Aid before funds can be disbursed.

RIGHTS AND RESPONSIBILITIES OF STUDENTS PARTICIPATING IN THE FINANCIAL AID PROGRAMS

As a recipient of financial aid, there are certain rights and responsibilities of which students should be aware.

The rights and responsibilities of students on financial aid are listed in the following documents:

1. Soka Loan – Master Promissory Note (MPN) for International students.
2. Federal Direct Loan – Master Promissory Note (MPN) for Domestic students.

Students have the right to know about the:

1. Financial aid programs available at SUA.
2. Application process to be considered for aid.
3. Criteria used to calculate need.
4. SUA refund and repayment policy.
5. Policies surrounding satisfactory academic progress.
6. The rights and responsibilities of individual programs.

Students are responsible for:

1. Submitting accurate information and forms by the deadlines to the OFA.
2. Keeping the OFA and loan servicers informed of any changes in name, address, marital status, financial situation, etc.
3. Reporting to the OFA any additional assistance from outside sources such as scholarships, loans, and educational benefits.
4. Notifying the OFA of any enrollment status changes.
5. Maintaining satisfactory academic progress.
6. Re-applying for financial aid by March 2nd of each year.

ENTRANCE AND EXIT COUNSELING

Entrance Counseling – First-time Federal Direct Student Loan borrowers must complete the entrance counseling online at studentloans.gov.

First-time Soka Loan borrowers must complete the entrance counseling.

Exit Counseling – Prior to graduation or ending enrollment at Soka University of America, borrowers must complete an exit loan counseling.

REFUNDS AND REPAYMENTS

Federal aid recipients that withdraw from school may be expected to repay a portion of their financial aid back called a “Return of Title IV Refund.” According to a formula prescribed, any refundable amount used to pay tuition and fees is returned to the appropriate financial aid sources including the Federal student aid programs and/or the Cal Grant Program for California residents. Students may also be required to pay the unearned portion of assistance that was directly disbursed to them. For more information on the “Return of Title IV Refunds” please visit the Office of Financial Aid or our website at: http://www.soka.edu/admission_aid/Financial_Aid/withdrawal-policy.aspx#31#31

STUDENT LOAN DEFAULT

A hold will be placed on any delinquent or defaulted student loan accounts. A hold will prevent the student from registering and receiving services from SUA including release of transcript, grades and alumni services. Account balance and hold information is available through the borrower’s loan servicers.

Delinquent/defaulted loans will include past due accounts placed with a collection agency. Delinquent loans will be reported to credit bureaus, and borrowers will be responsible for any collection costs including but not limited to agency fees, attorney’s fees, court costs, and other fees related to the collection of the loan.

The SUA Office of Financial Aid is committed to counseling students regarding borrowed loans after graduation. Students should contact the OFA regarding the many loan repayment options available to include deferment and forbearance.

DISBURSEMENT AND PAYMENT OF FINANCIAL AID FUNDS

The Office of Financial aid authorizes aid to disburse after the last day to add or drop a class for each semester.

The Office of Student Accounts (OSA) is responsible for all financial aid disbursements. After applying tuition, room & board, and other appropriate outstanding charges, the OSA releases the remaining credit balance to the student within fourteen days after the credit balance occurs.

If a student is receiving a paper check, OSA notifies the student when the check is ready to be picked up. If the funds are sent via Electronic Fund Transfer (EFT), OSA notifies the student that the fund has been transferred into their bank account.

FINANCIAL AID

Soka University does not apply any credit balance to prior year's charges. All students must have a zero balance at the end of each academic year.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS (SAP) POLICY

The Office of Financial Aid uses the SAP Policy to determine continued eligibility for its financial aid programs. The SAP Policy is comprised of two parts, a qualitative and a quantitative component.

Students must be in good academic standing and uphold the minimum requirements for both the qualitative (grade-based) and quantitative (time-based) requirements of the SAP policy to maintain eligibility to receive financial aid. In compliance with federal regulations, Soka University of America (SUA) has established guidelines that are designed to ensure that students successfully complete courses and to promote timely advancement toward degree objectives. These requirements also serve as a standard against which to evaluate student's progress, grade point averages (GPA) and the overall time frame in which students complete their under program. SAP is evaluated at the end of each term at SUA.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) applies to the following programs:

Federal: Pell Grant, SEOG, Work Study, Direct Loans

State: California Grant

Institutional: Soka Scholarships, Grants, Loans

SAP policy is a complement to the Academic Probation policy but is a separate policy governing only financial aid eligibility. Students must be aware that it is possible to avoid academic probation or suspension, yet fail to meet SAP for financial aid.

The Office of Financial Aid will notify students of failure to meet SAP; the Office of the Registrar will notify students of academic probation or suspension.

The following minimum academic standards must be met:

1. Qualitative Measure:

Students must maintain a minimum cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of at least 2.0 in order to be eligible for Federal, State, and Institution financial aid.

2. Quantitative Measure:

The second component used to measure SAP is the maximum time a student may take to complete a program. Students must complete their program within 180 credits (150% of 120 credits). To measure this, a student must successfully complete 66% of credits attempted.

A student must be enrolled at least half-time (6 units) to be eligible to receive all or part of his/her financial aid. Financial aid may be prorated for students who are considered less than full-time.

Students must achieve both the qualitative and quantitative requirements of SAP to remain in good financial aid standing.

Institutional aid has a lifespan of 8 terms. Institutional scholarships and grants will not be awarded beyond 8 terms.

Failure to meet SAP Requirements

The U.S. Department of Education (ED) has mandated that universal terms (warning, suspension, and probation) be implemented to describe failure to meet SAP across all colleges. These terms were first implemented in the 2012-2013 school year.

SAP Warning

Failure to meet SAP after one term will result in a placement on "SAP Warning" status. Student will have one term of financial aid eligibility to correct their SAP deficiencies. Students will be notified that he/she is on "SAP Warning." SAP Warning is not given to students who have reached their maximum time frame or students who have failed to meet SAP for 2 consecutive terms.

Academic counseling should be sought to ensure the student satisfies all deficiencies during this period.

If the student meets SAP within the warning period (of one term), he/she will be automatically placed back in good standing for financial aid.

SAP Suspension

After one term of warning and continued failure to meet SAP, all of the student's financial aid will be suspended/cancelled and that student will be placed on "SAP Suspension."

Students will be notified in the event that he/she is on "SAP Suspension." Failure to receive notification from the Office of Financial Aid is not terms for an appeal approval. It is the student's responsibility to understand the Financial Aid SAP policies and adhere to them.

Regaining Eligibility

Students on "SAP Suspension" can earn units and raise their cumulative GPA the next academic term; however they are ineligible to receive financial aid during that period of suspension. Once the SAP requirements have been met, students are eligible to apply for financial aid for the upcoming term.

It is the student's responsibility to notify the Office of Financial Aid when he/she regains eligibility for reinstatement of funds.

Appeals and Extenuating Circumstances

Students may appeal for reinstatement of financial aid via a written request if they have an extenuating circumstance that has prevented the student from meeting SAP for institutional scholarships. Such situation must be exceptional and nonrecurring in nature. Some examples are death in the family, illness, or car accident. The appeal must explain the cause of academic difficulty and how the situation has been resolved.

The appeal must be submitted within 20 days of notification of financial aid ineligibility. The student must meet with the Dean of Students to create an academic plan that will ensure success in completion of their program. The academic plan must be submitted with the SAP appeal.

Students must submit the "SAP Appeal" in-person to the OFA. Students may request that the form be date marked for when it has been received.

Students can expect to have a decision within two weeks of submitting an appeal form. The OFA may need to request documentation from the student which could extend this period. In addition, if the appeal is sent to committee, the period of time needed to convene a committee could also extend the time required to make a decision. If this is the case, students will be notified that there will be a delay.

If the SAP appeal is approved, the student will be placed on "SAP Probation" and will regain eligibility for financial aid for one or more terms based on the academic plan submitted.

If the SAP appeal is denied, students are entitled to an explanation. Once an appeal has been denied, students may not make an identical appeal because he/she did not agree with the outcome. The appeal will be considered officially denied.

A student may not appeal after the enrollment period for the academic year or once graduated.

Grades, Repeated Courses, Transfer Credits

Grades that meet SAP completion standards are grades for which credit is awarded: A, B, C, D and P. F, NP, Withdrawals (W), and Incompletes (I) are not passing grades.

If a student repeats a failed or a previous passed class (D or F), it will replace the highest grade to recalculate into the new cumulative GPA. Credits attempted in repeated classes will be included in the cumulative credits attempted in addition to the original credits. Students who passed a class and chooses to repeat for a higher grade may receive financial aid only once for that repeated class. Students may receive financial aid for a failed class that they repeat until they pass.

Transfer credits that have been officially accepted will count toward quantitative measures but will not compute into the GPA.

Study Abroad

SAP is calculated at the end of each term after the regular period for posting grades has ended and grades are posted. Students returning from study abroad may experience a delay in the posting of grades earned while abroad. Courses may show as incomplete during this time and will be treated as attempted credits for which no credit has been earned. The incomplete incurred from study abroad will not have an impact on the GPA calculation for SAP.

Once study abroad grades and credits arrive, they will be calculated in the same manner as regular courses are calculated for SAP.

If the study abroad grades are not posted by the time of disbursement, students may be placed on SAP Warning. However, for students who are already on SAP Warning prior to their study abroad program, their financial aid will not be disbursed until grades and credits arrive. If SAP Suspension occurs as a result of study abroad grades or delay, the student will have 20 business days to appeal after having been notified of the SAP Suspension.

8. Students must ensure that all financial obligations to the university have been met.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

Meeting and engaging in dialogue regularly with the academic advisor is an integral part of the Soka experience. New students will be assigned a preliminary academic advisor. When a student declares a concentration, he or she should choose an academic advisor in an appropriate academic area. Students may change advisors at any time. The academic year calendar will provide specific dates for academic advising during which the student should consult with his or her advisor prior to registration for the subsequent session. All students are required to meet with their advisors prior to enrollment in classes. In addition, juniors are required to have declared a concentration. Failure to meet these requirements will result in an “advisor hold” on the student’s academic record preventing them from registering for classes.

ACADEMIC CREDIT

Each credit awarded is equivalent to 15 contact hours or 750 contact minutes.

ACADEMIC STANDING

Good Standing

A student is considered to be in good standing if he or she has a cumulative 2.0 (C average) grade point average, and at least a 2.0 GPA for the most recently completed session.

Probationary Standing

A student who, at the end of any Fall or Spring session, fails to maintain Good Standing is considered to have Probationary Standing (see above). A student on probation is not allowed to take more than 4 courses in a semester and may be ineligible for certain extracurricular activities and programs. Academic Coaching through the Student Affairs office is required until a student is no longer on probation.

Academic Dismissal

Academic dismissal means termination of a student’s relationship with the university for unsatisfactory academic performance. The Dean of Faculty will notify the student in writing.

While a student is on probation, that student is subject to dismissal:

1. if he or she fails to achieve a session GPA of at least 2.0 while remaining enrolled in at least 12 units throughout the session, or
2. if he or she fails to achieve a cumulative GPA of at least 2.0 by the end of the second session after being placed on probation.

A dismissed student may, within two weeks of notification of dismissal, file a petition with the Academic Standards Committee for a hearing to reverse dismissal and extend probationary status. A dismissed student may not register in courses and is denied all privileges of student status.

A dismissed student who wishes to return to the university must file an application for readmission with the Office of the Registrar. In addition, an application for readmission must give appropriate reasons for reapplication consideration. A dismissed student who has been readmitted is on probation and has to meet specific conditions set by the Academic Standards Committee at the time of readmission. A readmitted student who fails to meet these conditions will be immediately dismissed and may not reapply.

AP AND PRIOR COLLEGE COURSEWORK

Soka University of America participates in the Advanced Placement (AP) program offered by the College Board to provide greater quality and opportunity for high school students to proceed with their education. Students must submit to the Office of the Registrar official transcripts or reports from the College Board no later than the end of the Sophomore year at SUA for scores to be considered. AP credits are not awarded; however, academic programs and areas may grant placement based on AP results. An on-going policy review takes place annually; therefore, placement based on AP tests and scores is subject to change without notice. Similarly, academic programs and areas may grant placement for college courses taken elsewhere.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Newly matriculated students should notify the Office of the Registrar immediately of any change in their addresses or those of their parents or guardians. Current students who need to change their permanent address can do so through the online student information system. The university assumes no responsibility for materials sent through the mail not received.

CLASS LEVEL DEFINITION

Class level is defined in terms of completed credit hours as follows:

0-29.99	=	First Year
30-59.99	=	Sophomore
60-89.99	=	Junior
> 90	=	Senior

PART-TIME STUDENTS

Part-time status (11 units or less in a session) is granted only by permission through both the Office of the Dean of Students and the Office of the Dean of Faculty.

Where withdrawal from a course will jeopardize a student's full-time status at the University, an undergraduate student may, under special circumstances, petition for part-time status, first by obtaining permission from his or her academic advisor and then by gaining approval of the Dean of Faculty and Dean of Students. Because transitioning from full-time status (12 units or more) to part-time status could impact a student's financial aid, students are held responsible for notifying their parents or legal guardian of any changes in their status at the University and of any potential balance due.

This policy does not apply to international students who in order to maintain their visa status must be enrolled with a full time course load (12 units or more).

COURSE LOAD

The normal course load in a session for a first-year student is 5 courses. For all upper classmen, the normal course load for the fall session is 4 courses, and spring session is 5 courses. A full-time student must carry at least 12 units in the session. (A session consists of a block and a semester.) Course withdrawals resulting in a load of 11 units or less in a session require a petition to be reclassified as a part-time student (see above). In the case where a petition is not filed or not approved, the student must either withdraw from the university or take a long-term leave of absence. Students ordinarily register for no more than 4 units in a block and 15 units in a semester. Students whose cumulative grade point average is at least a B (3.00) or better at the end of the preceding session may petition their advisor for overload units in a semester. Overload units may be added only during the established deadlines for add/drop period.

COURSE NUMBERING

Levels of courses at Soka University of America are designated as follows:

- 100 = Basic or introductory courses.
- 200 = Intermediate level courses.
- 300, 400 = Advanced courses.

DECLARATION OF CONCENTRATION

All students must declare an area of concentration, with the approval of an academic advisor, by the end of their sophomore year.

DIPLOMAS

Diplomas will be mailed to the permanent address on record after final degree audits have been completed. Only one original diploma is issued per student. A duplicate diploma may be issued in case of the loss or destruction of the original. Each replacement diploma bears a notation at the bottom stating that the diploma is a replacement of the original and listing the date of its issue. If you wish to request a replacement diploma, students will be required to complete the Request for Duplicate Diploma form accompanied by payment of $30.00 to Soka University of America. If a financial obligation is owed to the university, the replacement diploma will not be released until the account balance is settled.

DOUBLE CONCENTRATION

Students who wish to complete a Double Concentration must satisfy the conditions and requirements listed below in place of the Concentration requirements detailed in part (3) under "ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE BACHELOR OF ARTS DEGREE."

Declaration of a Double Concentration cannot be submitted until after the successful completion of at least two academic years of instruction (4 academic sessions), with a minimum cumulative GPA of 3.8. Double Concentration must be declared no later than the beginning of the student's last session of attendance.

In order to have the transcript and diploma reflect the Double Concentration, all requirements must be completed in four years (8 academic sessions).

A student who fails to complete the requirement for a double concentration reverts to a single concentration.

For a double concentration in declared concentrations A and B, a student will need to complete 51 units with the following distribution (where C and D designate the two undeclared concentrations):

- I. Capstone project in one of the declared concentrations (9 Units)

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

2. Five courses in concentration A (15 Units)
 - a. 3 must be upper division (300/400 level)
3. Five courses in concentration B (15 Units)
 - a. 3 must be upper division (300/400 level)
4. One course in concentration C (3 Units)
5. One course in concentration D (3 Units)
6. Two concentration electives in any concentration(s) (6 Units)

ENROLLMENT VERIFICATION

Students needing a letter verifying their enrollment at SUA should make their request at the Office of the Registrar. For enrollment verification purposes, the following categories are used for students during the fall and spring sessions:

12.0 units or more	Full-time
6.0 to 11.99 units	Part-time
5.99 or less	Less than half-time

Categories are based on the number of units in which the student is enrolled on the date the verification letter is prepared.

FINAL EXAMINATION

The instructor may not administer the final exam early or shorten the block or semester in any way. Any student who wishes to change the examination time or who fails to appear for the final exam at the scheduled time must petition for approval by the Dean of Faculty, such petition elaborating the extenuating circumstances prior to scheduling an alternate exam time.

GRADE CHANGES

Once grades have been submitted to the Office of the Registrar, they become final and may be changed only in case of error. An instructor desiring a change of grade must present a written request to the Dean of Faculty. The change will become effective only if the change of grade form has been approved by the Dean of Faculty and filed with the Office of the Registrar by the end of the following session.

Students wishing to appeal a specific grade assigned by the instructor may do so under SUA's Grade Grievance Policy. No grade changes are permitted after a degree is awarded.

GRADE GRIEVANCE

Students should contact faculty members when there are questions concerning the final course evaluations. The student and the instructor who gave the final course evaluation should resolve disputes, and a satisfactory resolution should be reached through meaningful and respectful dialogue. However, in cases in which satisfactory resolution cannot be achieved, a formal appeal can be filed through the Academic Standards Committee. The student must submit the appeal by the end of the following session.

GRADING SYSTEM

Grades are reported to students in the following terms:

- A Excellent
- B Good
- C Satisfactory
- D Poor
- F Failure

The grades of A, B, and C may be modified by (+) or (-). In addition, the following notations are used:

- P Pass (see pass/no pass grade on page 51). The units will be counted toward the total units required for graduation, but not in computing the grade point average.

NP No-pass (see pass/no pass grade on page 51). The units will affect the grade point average.

- I "Incomplete" is a notation of incomplete work, which has been postponed for serious reason after consultation with the instructor.

W "Withdrawal" is a notation used when a student drops a course before the withdrawal deadline. The "W" grade will not calculate in the GPA.

GRADE POINTS

A+/A	4.0 Points
A-	3.7 Points
B+	3.3 Points
B	3.0 Points
B-	2.7 Points
C+	2.3 Points

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

C	2.0 Points
C-	1.7 Points
D	1.0 Points
F, NP	0.0 Points

P, I, and W are not calculated in the GPA.

GRADE POINT AVERAGE

Grades are averaged on the basis of their unit value to determine a grade point average. Grades of "F" are considered in determining the grade point average. The session grade point average is calculated by dividing the total number of grade points earned in a session by the total number of units attempted in letter graded courses for that session. The cumulative grade point average is calculated by dividing the total number of grade points earned by the total number of units attempted in letter graded courses. Courses in which NP has been earned also count toward the total number of units attempted.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE POLICIES

All students must complete four semesters of foreign language courses in the Language and Culture Program (LCP), and go on a semester of study abroad, in order to graduate. For purposes of this policy, English is not considered a foreign language at SUA.

A student may choose any language offered that does not fall into one or more of the following categories:

1. A language that is native to the student, defined as the language of his or her country of origin.
2. A language in which the student has completed high school level coursework in a country where said language is spoken.

These same restrictions apply to students' choice of study abroad destination.

Placement testing: Students entering SUA wishing to begin language study with a language that they have had any exposure to are required to take a language placement exam, and will enroll in the appropriate level of their chosen foreign language based on the results of this test, an interview with an instructor of the language, and consultation with the LCP Director. Students who place in the 400-level must choose a different foreign language to fulfill SUA's foreign language requirement.

Students deemed "heritage learners," but who do not meet either of the two criteria above, may choose to pursue more advanced study in their heritage language to fulfill the foreign language requirement.

In those individual cases where this policy does not account for a student's linguistic or cultural situation, the LCP may review his or her language choice.

Students are free to study more than one language at SUA before their study abroad semester, as long as they complete the 202-level or above in the target language with a grade of B or better, and as long as they are beyond their first semester at SUA, before they begin another language. In addition, students may enroll in upper-division LCP courses taught in any language in which they have demonstrated proficiency.

Foreign language courses that are required for eligibility in the study abroad program may not be taken on a Pass/No Pass basis. Foreign language courses that are not required for study abroad (LCP courses taken as electives, as a concentration requirement, or after returning from study abroad) may be taken on a P/NP basis.

HONORS AND AWARDS

Dean's List

Dean's List honors are awarded to students achieving high scholarship and a notation is placed on their official transcripts at the end of each session. To be eligible for the Dean's List in a session a student:

1. Must achieve a 3.7 or higher grade point average for that session.
2. Must have completed 12 letter graded units or more.
3. Must have no I, NP, or F grades.
4. Must have had no academic disciplinary action taken against him or her.

Graduation with Honors

A student with outstanding academic achievement throughout his or her university career may be graduated with university honors. To be eligible for honors, the student must have an outstanding cumulative GPA for all work leading to graduation. Categories of honors are: cum laude

(3.5 GPA); magna cum laude (3.7 GPA) and summa cum laude (3.9 GPA).

The Ikeda Scholarship

The Ikeda Scholarship is the most prestigious scholarship program at Soka University of America, Aliso Viejo. This scholarship provides students with all expenses paid, including tuition, room and board, books, and incidental expenses for the academic year. It is based on merit alone, primarily academic accomplishment with experiences in leadership and service also taken into account.

Ikeda Scholarships are awarded annually in September to a student in the Sophomore class, the Junior class and the Senior class for a total of three scholarships per year.

A committee consisting of SUA's Dean of Faculty and Dean of Students acts as the selection committee, making final recommendations to the University President who announces the recipients in the Fall of each academic year.

Annual Awards of Excellence

Excellence in Academics: The committee will review grades, narrative evaluations, papers and projects.

Excellence in Community Service: The committee will review student essays and letters of recommendation.

Excellence in Creative Arts: The committee will review art, literature, music, performance, in any form. May be awarded to an individual or to a group.

Excellence in Research: The committee will review papers or projects. May be awarded to an individual or to a group.

Excellence in Academic Mentoring: The committee will review essays and letters of recommendation.

INCOMPLETE COURSE WORK

Students who have fully participated in a course during a particular block or semester and whose current work is of non-failing quality, may petition their instructor to assign an incomplete grade if for substantial reason they cannot complete required course work. A letter of explanation, a plan for completing the course requirements, and any other supporting materials must be submitted at the time of requesting for an incomplete grade.

Normally the student obtains from the Office of the Registrar a "Request to Receive a Grade of Incomplete" form. The form is filled out by the student and given to the instructor, who then completes the form by assigning a default grade that is entered on the student record if the student does not complete the coursework by the deadline. The incomplete form must also be approved by the Dean of Faculty. An incomplete grade not removed by the deadline will result in the assignment of the default grade as submitted by the instructor. The maximum time allowed for an incomplete to be resolved is the beginning of the corresponding session of the following academic year. (Students who received an "I" in Fall session must complete their work before the beginning of the Fall Block of the following academic year; student who received an "I" in the Spring session must complete their work before the beginning of the Winter Block of the following academic year.)

If a student requires an extension to the deadline, the student must petition, in writing, to obtain an extension to the deadline for removal of the incomplete. The petition, approved by the instructor and the Dean of Faculty, must be submitted to the Registrar's Office for an extension to be granted.

Students whose incomplete grades turn into a poor or failing grade must understand that the retroactive impact of their GPA may affect their academic standing.

INDEPENDENT AND SPECIAL STUDY

Student communication and interaction in the classroom are highly valued at SUA. A situation may arise, however, in which a student explores subject matter that is not included in the university curriculum, or in which the university's schedule has not permitted a student to take a needed class. In such cases, a student may request and register for an independent study or a special study course. An independent study course should be requested when a student wishes to study topic not currently offered by the university.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

A special study course allows a student with suitable background to satisfy a graduation requirement by taking a course offered by the university, but is not offered in the current schedule of courses. In either case, the student must arrange to take this course with a full-time faculty member who will assist the student in developing an appropriate plan of study.

The following regulations govern independent study and special study courses:

1. Students of at least sophomore standing whose cumulative grade point average is 3.0 or better may petition for independent study or special study courses. In addition, permission for special study must be obtained from the appropriate academic programs or areas.
2. No more than four independent study courses can be used to satisfy graduation requirements.
3. No more than one independent study or special study course per session may be taken.
4. Independent or special study courses are restricted in satisfying concentration requirements (see elective requirements of the chosen concentration on page 134).

To register for an independent study or special study course, students must submit an approved independent study/special study form to the Office of the Registrar by the add/drop deadline.

LOW GRADE NOTICES

Instructors are required to provide low grade notices to all students whose cumulative work in a course is at level of C- or below at the midpoint of the block or the semester. Failure to receive a low grade notice does not preclude the possibility that the student may fail the course.

Copies of low grade notices are sent to the student's academic advisor, Dean of Faculty and Dean of Students. Students are encouraged to discuss their academic performance with their advisors and instructors.

PASS/NO PASS GRADE OPTION

Students may elect to take up to 4 courses on a Pass/No Pass grading basis. Students may receive Pass/No Pass grades in courses designated by the University or a specific faculty member. In no case may the total number of regular academic courses in which a student receives a Pass/No Pass exceed four. Grades are then reported in terms of a P (Pass) or NP (No Pass). A student's work of C- or better is required for a passing grade. Course credit is awarded for a "Pass" and the student's grade point average is not affected. "No Pass" (NP), however, affects the grade point average.

The following general regulations apply:

1. The Pass/No Pass option applies to at most four courses.
2. Music Ensemble courses will not count toward the four-course limit.
3. Capstone 390 will not count toward the four-course limit.
4. The Pass/No Pass option must be exercised by the last day to Add/Drop, (see Academic Calendar).
5. Once chosen, the Pass/No Pass option is not reversible after the add/drop period.
6. A grade of "NP" is equivalent to an "F" in GPA calculations and in awarding of units.

REPEATING COURSES

For courses where a grade of D or F is received, the student may repeat the course; however, credit will be given only once (except for courses designated as "may be repeated for credit"). The grade assigned for each enrollment shall be permanently recorded on the student's transcript. A course originally taken for a letter grade may not be repeated on a Pass/No Pass basis. In computing the GPA, the highest earned grade will be used.

REGISTRATION

Registration is the procedure whereby a student enrolls for specific classes. Tuition payments or arrangements are required prior to registration. Students must complete both processes to be officially enrolled in classes.

New students register for courses during the fall block after having had an introduction to SUA's curriculum, degree requirements, and registration procedures. Currently enrolled students register for fall classes in April and for spring classes in November.

Students should consult the Catalog as they begin to plan their schedule. During the week before registration, students must consult with their advisor, complete their registration form, and secure their advisor's signature before their enrollment appointment times arrive.

The schedule of classes is made available to all students and describes course offerings for every session. In addition, the Office of the Registrar publishes registration policies and procedures and a calendar of important dates.

Students should plan two or three alternate courses in case their first choice of courses is not available. Size limits are imposed on classes; therefore, classes will be closed to further enrollment immediately upon reaching the specified maximum.

Late Registration

Late registration begins after the registration period for each session. A late fee of $60 will be charged. Registration after the first week of instruction is not allowed.

READMISSION

Students who wish to be considered for readmission to SUA after an absence of three sessions or less must contact the Registrar's Office to request an Application for Readmission. A readmission fee of $25 and other supporting documents are required with an application. International students must submit their readmission application no later than the end of April if they are looking to be readmitted for the fall, or no later than the end of September if looking to be readmitted for the spring. Domestic students must submit their readmission application no later than the end of June or the end of November for fall or spring readmission respectively. The Academic Standards Committee reviews all readmission applications. In addition, the Committee may require a medical report and a personal interview.

Students must complete the following steps:

1. Write a personal letter and include in this letter: 1) a summary of activities since leaving the institution, including employment; 2) reasons for wanting to return; 3) academic goals; and 4) and any other information which may assist the committee in making a decision.
2. Furnish official transcripts of courses taken since leaving SUA.
3. Be in good financial status with the university.

Students who arrive at registration time expecting to be readmitted without following the readmission procedure should expect to wait until after registration to have their application considered.

Students wishing to return to SUA after three sessions of absence for any reason, including dismissal, must submit their requests to the Office of Admissions and Financial Aid and follow the required admission process. These students will be subject to current degree requirements.

SCHEDULE CHANGES

Students are allowed to change their schedule in accordance with the established deadlines for the add/drop period for each block or semester. During a block, the deadline of add/drop period is at the end of the second day of class. During a semester, the deadline of add/drop is at the end of the first week of classes.

SHORT-TERM LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Students may be granted a leave of absence for personal and/or family emergencies. A leave of absence is a short-term period of leave that will not adversely affect a student's academic progress and that constitutes less than 10 days of absence. Such assessments will be made by the Dean of Students and the Dean of Faculty.

Students who wish to request a leave of absence should:

1. Consult with their faculty advisor and the Dean of Students.
2. Submit written notification to the Dean of Faculty.

An approved leave does not require application for readmission. Students should advise the Dean of Students and the Dean of Faculty when they plan to return to the university.

STUDENT IDENTIFICATION NUMBER

The student ID number is a number assigned to your academic record and is required for any inquiries you make. The ID number is printed on your study list, your official transcript, and all enrollment/grading related documents distributed by the Registrar's Office. Your ID number is unique and considered confidential.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

STUDY ABROAD EXPERIENCE

Students will spend either the fall semester or the spring semester of their junior year completing a study abroad experience. This experience is directly linked to the language the student has chosen to fulfill the foreign language requirement. Students on academic probation must clear probation before going on study abroad.

TRANSCRIPTS

Official transcripts of courses taken at SUA are issued only with the written permission of the student. Requests for transcripts to show end of current session's work are held until all grades are recorded.

Students should make their requests through the Office of Student Accounts or order online through National Student Clearinghouse by going to www.getmytranscript.com. Regular service requests are generally processed within 3-5 working days after receipt of request. The fee for regular service is specified on the Official Transcript Request form. Rush service is available for an additional fee of $10. These will be processed within 1-2 working days after receipt of request. There is no additional fee for mailing your transcripts via US first class mail. You may have your transcript sent via express delivery to any valid domestic address or international address for an additional cost as specified on the Official Transcript Request form. Express delivery rates may change in accordance to current express delivery costs. Transcripts will not be issued when a student has outstanding financial obligations to the university. In this case, the student will be notified by the Students Accounts Office.

Transcripts from other institutions that have been presented for admission become part of the student's permanent academic file and are not returned or copied for distribution. Students desiring transcripts covering work attempted elsewhere should request them from the appropriate institutions.

TRANSFER CREDIT POLICY

Juniors and seniors who, in order to graduate, are for substantial reasons unable to take needed courses at SUA, may petition the Dean of Faculty for permission to take such courses elsewhere, to be transferred in. The Dean of Faculty will make his/her decision in consultation with the program/area director/coordinator, and the Registrar, and may impose conditions, including but not limited to when and where the course is to be taken. The Academic Standards Committee will handle appeals of the Dean's decision.

These transferred courses will not compute into the GPA, but will appear on the student's transcript. This policy may be applied toward no more than 2 courses and no more than 8 units per student. Although a higher requirement may be set as a condition by the program/area, no courses will be accepted as meeting SUA graduation requirements, nor will they have credit transferred, if the grade received is less than C-.

WITHDRAWAL POLICIES

Dropping a course

During a block, a student can drop a course with no record of enrollment by the end of the second day of classes. During a semester, a student can drop a course without a record of enrollment by the end of the first week of classes.

Non-attendance does not constitute a drop from the course. If a student does not formally drop a course by the required deadline, the student will be responsible for the course, financially and academically.

Withdrawal from a course

Between the 2nd and the 8th week of a semester, a student may, with the permission of his/her advisor, withdraw from a course. A record of enrollment signified by a grade of "W" (withdraw) is recorded on that student's official transcript.

Course withdrawals during a Block constitute a Leave of Absence. Course withdrawals resulting in a load of 11 units or less in a session require a petition to be reclassified as a part time student (see pg. 130).

Non-attendance does not constitute a withdrawal from a course. Students who do not formally withdraw from a course by the required deadline will be responsible for the course, both financially and academically.

Withdrawal from the University

Students wishing to withdraw from the university, must formally withdraw by completing a withdrawal form available at the Office of the Registrar or the Dean of Students Office, and must obtain the signatures specified on the withdrawal form. In cases of withdrawal for personal reasons, students must make an appointment with their academic advisor and notify the Dean of Students in writing prior to initiating a withdrawal procedure. A student is considered to be in attendance until such notice has been received by the Dean of Students.

A student who simply leaves the university without filing the required paperwork for a withdrawal is considered to have terminated his/her enrollment with the university as of the last class attended or the last evidence of academic participation in courses in which he/she was enrolled. The grade posted will be "W" if enrollment is terminated prior to the withdrawal deadline; otherwise an "F" will be posted.

STUDENT AFFAIRS

Student Affairs recognizes that students learn as much outside the classroom as they do in the classroom. With this awareness in mind, Student Affairs is dedicated to creating a student-centered environment on campus that will provide the best possible living experience and learning opportunity for students. Working effectively with faculty and staff, Student Affairs supports the university's mission to foster a steady stream of global citizens committed to living a contributive life.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Students at SUA have the unique opportunity to play active roles in all aspects of university life. Students will find a variety of activities to get involved in, such as student clubs and organizations, participation in the Soka Student Union and organizing local community activities. In addition, there will be other leadership-building opportunities provided by Student Affairs where students can interact with each other and with faculty and staff. Through these activities, students will be able to foster friendships as well as learn many important skills, such as teamwork, communication, and leadership.

RESIDENTIAL LIFE

SUA is a residential campus. All students are required to live on-campus in the residence halls and therefore have the opportunity to get to know one another well. Residents will come in contact with many different languages and cultures from around the world. Such a living environment encourages students to develop a global perspective and awareness.

The residence halls are designed to stimulate group interactions through providing spaces such as an exercise room, living room and multi-faith room. Residential Life staff work closely with students to assist in providing the best living experience.

ATHLETICS AND RECREATIONAL SPORTS

SUA has been a member of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletes (NAIA) since September of 2007. SUA student athletes compete in Men's and Women's Swimming, Track and Field, Cross Country and Soccer. As a member of NAIA, student athletes can compete for national championships in these sport categories.

In addition to these sport programs, SUA students participate in various recreational and athletic programs that enhance their overall wellness. Many of these programs are accommodated in our state-of-the-art recreation facilities, which include an Olympic-size swimming pool; a complete recreation center for basketball, volleyball, racquetball, and exercise and weight training; six tennis courts; a soccer field; and a track-and-field facility. Recognizing that recreation and leisure are an important part of a well-balanced lifestyle and are integral to the complete collegiate experience, SUA's Athletics strives to offer a wide variety of recreational and leisure opportunities.

SOKA STUDENT UNION

The Soka Student Union (SSU) is the student body of Soka University. Every student at the university is a member of SSU. As a governing body, SSU is composed of voting members and is led by SSU officers who make up Soka Leader's Assembly (SLA).

As the SSU's administrative body, SLA provides the student body with activities and forums to discuss school/class issues. SLA is made up of Executive Council, Class Senate and Club Senate.

SSU and SLA is led by an Executive Council which is made up of President, Vice President, Secretary, Treasurer and Attorney General. The Executive Council coordinates elections, manages the budget for student organizations, and represents the student body on university committees. Class Senate consists of three representatives (President, Treasurer and Secretary) from each Class except for the Junior Class. Junior class is represented by three different representatives in the Fall and three in the Spring due to the study abroad. Class Senate will be responsible for holding Class Forums, representing the voices of their class at SLA and vote on any decisions brought to the SLA.

STUDENT AFFAIRS

Club Senate consists of President, Treasurer and Secretary. Club Senate provides support to all official student clubs on campus to achieve their goals by fostering communication, collaboration and providing appropriate resources.

CAREER SERVICES

SUA is committed to support students in their career exploration and preparation to succeed after college. It offers help with career planning, job/graduate school search, cover letter and resume writing, interviewing and follow-up, negotiation, on-campus interviews, and various workshops and seminars.

COMMUNITY SERVICES/INTERNSHIP

For those students interested in giving back to the community through volunteer activities or gaining experiences through internships, SUA's Community Services/Internship is committed to creating opportunities for students to actively engage in society through a variety of venues. Through a flexible and individualized approach, the office strives to provide services that will meet specific needs of students and help them to expand their interests beyond classrooms.

COUNSELING

Some students may experience adjustment problems or personal crisis during their four years at SUA. To assist students in coping with various problems, the counselor provides direct personal and group counseling on many important issues, such as establishing and maintaining relationships, coping with anxiety and depression, working on changing relationships with parents and other family members, dealing with losses, and handling new academic demands. In addition, international students are able to find that the counselor can also help them in adjusting to life in the U.S.

MASTER OF ARTS IN EDUCATIONAL LEADERSHIP AND SOCIETAL CHANGE

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

The MA Program in Educational Leadership and Societal Change answers the need for global leaders with the practical skills and experience, foundational knowledge, and ethical commitments necessary to achieve lasting and effective societal change within the field of education, including but not limited to the classroom learning environment. Education takes place across a multiplicity of institutions – social, cultural, political, and economic – all of which have a profound bearing on our schools and the type of future citizens they produce.

The program takes an ecological approach to education, one that, as Lawrence Cremin (1976) wrote over thirty years ago, “views educational institutions and configurations in relation to one another and to the larger society that sustains them and is in turn affected by them.” As such, the MA program, like its home institution, Soka University of America, recognizes the symbiotic relationship between formal learning and the surrounding world in which we live.

Students study and conduct research into the historical roots of educational policies and problems as well as on the relationship between educational philosophies and practices. They do so in the context of contemporary social, political, economic and cultural currents that may or may not work for or against specific curricular trends, but that nevertheless provide critical background knowledge for educational leaders. Related areas of study include comparative and international education, multicultural education, educational psychology, gender and education, school administration policy and practice, and educational law.

The two-year program includes a subsidized summer fieldwork option (see SUMMER RESEARCH PROGRAM below), providing hands-on opportunities to shadow administrators, analyze organizational dynamics, and evaluate curriculum. Projects that entail human subjects research go through the University’s Institutional Review Board (IRB). Under the supervision of a principal faculty advisor, students integrate their fieldwork and educational research to produce a master’s thesis for graduation.

The program is designed to prepare students for advanced degrees (e.g., Ph.D. or Ed.D.) and for leadership roles in public and private schooling, governmental and non-governmental organizations, and in the entrepreneurial sector, particularly in the growing area of educational publishing and other media. Graduates are in excellent positions to initiate leadership in K-12 classroom settings, pursue supplementary state credentialing requirements for managerial positions as principals and vice principals or as administrators at the district-level, and work in public policy institutions around the world.

Please note: This program is not a credential program. It does not qualify students for the State of California Teaching Credential or for the State of California Administrative Services Credential.

MISSION AND LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The SUA Graduate School strives to provide an academic setting that nurtures men and women from a variety of cultures and national backgrounds, who seek to learn from shared experiences. The Graduate School also strives to develop critical thinking and learning and to foster a commitment to lifelong learning. To this end, the Graduate School emphasizes small class sizes that cultivate close and informal relationship between teachers and students, rigorous academic endeavors, free and open dialogue, and an appreciation for human diversity.

The mission of Soka University of America’s Master of Arts in Educational Leadership and Societal Change program is to provide graduate-level students with the broad interdisciplinary knowledge, research skills, and practical experience for cutting-edge leadership in the all-inclusive-world of education, locally, nationally, and internationally.

Upon completion of the MA in Educational Leadership and Societal Change program, students are expected to be able to:

1. Assess and manage barriers to school change – including de jure and de facto legal policies, curricular practices, traditional learning theories, relations between teachers and administrators, parents and schools, schools and

EDUCATIONAL LEADERSHIP AND SOCIETAL CHANGE

- society – and develop strategies to overcome them, including case methods of societal change that are sensitive to wide variations in local needs and concerns, actors and agents;
2. Take demonstrable leadership, informed by an understanding of the historic relations between school and society, for the improvement of education and educational systems in an increasingly global, interdependent world.
 3. Be grounded in the social and psychological relations of education broadly construed, assuming leadership around shared learning, teaching, and administrative goals and objectives;
 4. Assess and measure the relative strengths and weaknesses of alternate models of school administration and leadership past and present;
 5. - Analyze past and present models of administrative leadership for their effectiveness in promoting equality of educational opportunity and greater workplace democracy;
- Learn to promote meaningful collaboration among and between parents and school administrators; and
- Develop and demonstrate the knowledge, skills, and dispositions necessary to create and maintain learning environments that value diversity, critical inquiry, curiosity and imagination, instructional leadership, innovative and ethical decision-making, reflective practice, and the successful achievement of all school-aged youth.

PEDAGOGICAL METHODS

are taught in a more-or-less traditional graduate seminar format in which students read and discuss both common and individual readings, pursue a research project under the direction of a professor/mentor, and provide regular progress-reports to the class as a whole for commentary and input.

EDU 501 Educational Leadership and Societal Change: A Comparative Perspective and EDU 502 Ethnographies of School Administration are both taught in a three-week block period. Students take these courses exclusively; meeting for a required three hours per day in what is essentially a workshop/colloquium consisting of lecture, student presentation, writing-intensive group discussion, and case study development.

EDU 512 Leadership and Societal Change: Invited Speakers Series also takes place in the block and is designed to expose students to former and current senior teachers, administrators, research scientists, and other individuals with a proven record of leadership in the reform of schools and society. Students work with a master change agent to develop their own reform models, testing these models against real problems and controversies in the world of education, especially as they affect the larger society.

EDU 520 MA Thesis – independent research combined with library and field research.

GENERAL INFORMATION

This is a full-time program – i.e., students are enrolled on a full-time basis (9 or more credits per semester). It will take 2 years to complete this program, which requires 41 semester credits to graduate.

The courses in the program are offered in a traditional semester system (fall and spring) as well as in a unique block system – i.e., semester-based credit courses in 15-week-semester and 3-week-block sessions.

Please note: This program is not a credential program. It does not qualify students for the State of California Teaching Credential or for the State of California Administrative Services Credential. Those students seeking teacher and/or administrative credentialing in California or elsewhere may consult the Program Director.

EDUCATIONAL LEADERSHIP AND SOCIETAL CHANGE

COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

Note: These course descriptions are intended neither to be exhaustive nor all-inclusive. For a more specific guide to course content, goals and objectives, please refer to the actual syllabus for the course.

EDU 501 Educational Leadership and Societal Change: A Comparative Perspective

EDU 501 introduces first-year students to the main themes of the MA program, beginning with a critical inquiry into the dialectical relations of school and society. It examines social forces of change and persistence as the structural constraints, as well as the opportunities (for innovation and creativity, for example), within which schools, teachers, and administrators operate. Conversely, students study the generative results of school reform nationally and cross-nationally for the organization of society around the goals of education in general. Social structures – family, home, church, and community – educate no less than the school classroom and teacher. Through intensive readings and discussion, small-group projects, and weekly essays, the course, which takes place during the first Fall Block, asks students to reflect on ways in which the educational functions of school and society complement and oppose one another, foster needed changes, both in our schools and in the larger society, and impede them, protect valued traditions and act to destroy them. The need for leadership at all levels forces an examination as well of the types of leaders who in different societies and at different times have successfully brokered relations between schooling and societal change.

EDU 503 History and Philosophy of Education

EDU 503 examines the social, historical, and philosophical foundations of contemporary schooling. The course explores the metaphysical, epistemological, moral, and political problems that educational philosophers have grappled with for centuries in their efforts to answer the question: What knowledge is most worth having? Beginning with the classical texts of Socrates and Confucius and concluding with such modern theorists of education as John Dewey, Paulo Freire, Jean Piaget, and the Japanese educator, Tsunesaburo Makiguchi, the course traces the changing relations of theory and practice, philosophy and rhetoric, speculative thought and applied knowledge in the historical evolution of education worldwide. Systems of thought variously described as positivistic, naturalistic, holistic, historicist, humanist, constructivist, empirical, relativistic and pragmatic have provided the basis for extensive argument and discussion in the social sciences, humanities, and more recently education. The course makes a thorough study of these and other ideas in the early development and contemporary expression of the history and philosophy of education.

EDU 505 Leadership: Theory and Practice

EDU 505 explores the theory and practice of leadership across a variety of cultures, genre, perspectives, and individual cases, where the kind and degree of leadership is essential for achieving educational objectives that promote peaceful human development. The history of modern thought about leadership is one of debate about the most effective ways of influencing behavior, whether for the sake of individual happiness or to bring about beneficial societal change. Nowhere is this problem felt perhaps more acutely than in schools and other educational institutions, where students, educators and, administrators form the nucleus of a socialization process the outcome of which affects all of us. As aspiring educational leaders and administrators, students conduct research on the most challenging and controversial issues within school systems, familiarize themselves with research-supported best practices in school leadership, and become intelligent consumers of research as it impacts the theory and practice of leadership generally. Course topics include Leadership Development; Effective School Leadership; School Reform and Restructuring; Organizational Development; Curricular Administration and Student Achievement; Resource Management; Preparing to be a School Leader; and Effective Professional Development.

EDU 507 Law and Policy in Education

EDU 507 examines key legal issues that govern daily and long-range decisions of educational leaders. The course focuses on understanding state and federal codes, case law, policies, and significant precedent and will emphasize analysis of key legal concepts and application of law to major areas including finance, personnel, risk management, curriculum, student services, teacher rights, torts, students' rights, and access. Students will examine trends in law and the initiation and influence of educational law to positively influence educational institutions. The course will explore in a general way the field of education law and, particularly, how the law – constitutional, statutory, regulatory and case law – can be used as a tool for policy-making, advocacy and system development in the field of education. For the transformational educational leader, law is a policy tool. It is important for students of educational leadership to learn how to use the law as a resource for transformational policy, and how to understand the ways in which policy has been expressed through statutory, regulatory and case law, including ways in which “immutable” legal principles have changed with time. Students will be expected to analyze and consider the options on tough and nettlesome policy issues using the statutes, cases, regulations and legislative history as their tools.

EDU 502 Ethnographies of School Administration

EDU 502 approaches school administration not so much as a science of good governance as the facilitation of a complex web of interconnections in which students, teachers, and administrators as well as parents and the surrounding society form a single ethnographic space for the production and contestation of meaning. Students study and analyze case studies of school administration that inform and reflect a variety of school cultures. No two schools are exactly alike. Each school, no matter how standard in a formal, institutional sense, has its own culture, its own unique norms and assumptions, historical evolution and guiding myths. The course utilizes firsthand accounts of the administrative experience in an effort to understand the world of administration from the point of the administrator and not simply of the outside observer. Taking place over the first Winter Block, the course provides opportunities for field-based learning and investigation.

EDU 504 International and Comparative Education

EDU 504 introduces students to the theoretical, conceptual, and methodological questions and concerns that have animated scholarship and practice in the field of comparative and international education from its mid-twentieth century beginnings. While students consider the history of borrowing and lending educational ideas and best practices, the primary focus of the course is contemporary. What are the chief characteristics of the exchange of educational discourses, ideas, purposes, curricula, organizational structures, and financing schemes? What defines the limits and extent of those exchanges? How do the concepts of internationalization, globalization, development, competition, national self-determination, innovation, sustainability, colonialism, neo-colonialism, neo-liberalism, student-centeredness, themselves all significant borrowing and lending discourses, provide useful springboards for answering those questions? Course topics include the internationalization of higher education; international testing regimes; neoliberalism and its varied reform motivations, meanings, and structures; and a constellation of counter-discourse developments attached to education for sustainable development and educational wholeness. These themes provide the opportunity to pursue fundamental questions of purpose, theory, method, and various empirical logics in international and cross-national inquiry in educational policy studies.

EDU 506 Democratic Theory and Organizational Change

EDU 506 examines movements of democratic change, historical as well as contemporary, that have resulted over time in new institutional and organizational forms that in turn contribute to shaping the educational process. Political democracy describes a tension between individual rights and community responsibilities, between freedom and equality – and the resolution of those tensions through peaceful, democratic means. Students study the process of organizational change under conditions of democratic rule, in which in theory decision-making is a transaction among and between competing group, institutional, and individual interests. The course introduces students to the work of such democratic theorists as John Dewey, Lester Ward, Robert Dahl, Chantal Mouffe, Jurgen Habermas, John Rawls, and Sidney Verba. Course topics include the role and function of teacher unions; setting academic standards in a democracy; the limits and possibilities of classroom and workplace democracy; excellence and inclusion; school choice; problems of democratic elitism; and building a democratic movement culture in our schools. During the course of the seminar, each student will select a policy, social or organizational problem, and supported by peer review and consultation, create a written proposal outlining strategies and solutions for a fair and democratic resolution.

EDU 508 Educational Research Methods I

EDU 508 is a first-year graduate-level survey of research methods with an emphasis on comprehension of the educational research literature. Course includes scientific method, locating and summarizing published research, sampling, measurement, statistics, research design, and critique of published research. The general content base of this course is twofold: 1) reading and evaluating published research reports, and 2) designing research studies with particular emphasis on action research and evaluating studies conducted by school-based practitioners. Students gain a mastery of basic descriptive statistics including measures of central tendency, dispersion, and relationships; basic measurement concepts including validity and reliability and the role of measurement in inquiry; common and differentiating features of basic, applied, and evaluation research; common and differentiating features of typical research designs (e.g., quantitative vs. qualitative, experimental vs. non-experimental, group vs. single-case); quality indicators in published research; and ethical, legal, and diversity considerations in research studies.

EDU 511 Educational Research Methods II

EDU 511 builds on the knowledge base acquired in EDU 508 to equip students with the research skills they will need to complete their MA Thesis. Work includes evaluating the quality of published research; discussing the implications of various studies in view of the strengths and weaknesses of the research; using library-based secondary and primary sources in addition to Internet/WWW as tools for conducting and/or evaluating research studies; and designing school-based research studies. Particular attention is paid to the critical reading of research and exploration of research design possibilities in order to help students articulate an MA Thesis topic and a defensible research proposal and plan.

EDU 513 Curriculum: Status, Issues, and Trends

EDU 513 examines the issues and trends surrounding what schools teach and why, tracing the struggle for control over the modern curriculum from the late nineteenth century to the present. That struggle brought into play social, political, and religious forces with often sharply divergent views of what an educated citizen should look like, what a general education is for, and what kind of education is most worth having. The course explores in detail the dynamics of the curriculum-making process – who or what decides which courses will be taught, selects the material to be taught, and arranges the order, sequence, and academic level of the subject matter. Inasmuch as these are political questions, the course provides an in-depth analysis of problems of access to the curriculum, issues governed by considerations of class, race, and gender. Student research projects draw upon common themes of the course: the professionalization of teaching and the teacher-proofing of the curriculum; the dual curriculum, college-bound and non-college bound; the culture wars and the meaning of literacy; the specialization and fragmentation of knowledge; standardized learning for standardized testing; textbooks and the consumption model of education. Qualitative research that asks how young people at various levels of schooling experience the curriculum, how it shapes their expectations and with them learning outcomes, is also central to the course.

EDU 515 Psychology of Education

EDU 515 explores the psychology of learning. As an interdisciplinary blend of psychology and education, it necessarily addresses both theoretical and practical issues. As a branch of psychology, it investigates the science of human behavior, especially the behaviors connected to development and learning. As education, it has practice (applied knowledge) as its foremost concern. This course will focus on how theoretical and empirical knowledge about human cognition and learning can be applied to schools and other educational settings. Students gain an understanding of key concepts in the areas of development, learning theory, motivation and teaching; explore applications of concepts in contemporary educational settings through case studies, visits to schools, and other activities; become familiar with contemporary issues in educational psychology and consider those issues from various viewpoints (e.g., teacher, student, parent, administrator); and develop through directed research, both field-based and theoretical, their own personal philosophy of education, principles of learning, views of the role of education in the development of the individual, and suggestions for improving current educational practices.

EDU 517 Educational Assessment: Institutions, Programs, and Learners

EDU 517 offers a critical review of types, purposes, procedures, uses, and limitations of assessment strategies and techniques including authentic assessment, value-added assessment, and alternate assessment. Students are introduced to emerging trends in assessment, various assessment models (e.g., formal, informal, discrepancy analysis, performance assessment, portfolios, and rubrics), and learn how to link assessment to instructional, program, and institutional changes and improvements. It is essential that assessment results are reported effectively to students, parents and the wider community so that their needs for information are met and they have a clear understanding of the assessment. When properly presented, assessment reports can help build support for schools and for initiatives that educators wish to carry out. But if assessment results are poorly reported, they can be disregarded or interpreted incorrectly, adversely affecting students, educators, and others in the school community. Students gain not only the assessment competencies they will need as educational leaders but the communicative skills to convey the results of assessment to their publics clearly and effectively. As a final class assignment each student writes an assessment report, utilizing measurement concepts and tools learned in the course.

EDU 512 Educational Leadership and Societal Change Invited Speakers Series

EDU 512 takes advantage of the Winter Block to bring various distinguished speakers to campus to explore further with students the special themes and concerns of the MA Program in Educational Leadership and Societal Change. Nationally and internationally recognized scholars and educators from the fields of history, sociology, psychology, educational administration, and policy studies engage students in a three and a half week long seminar designed to provide the benefits of external professional input and evaluation, including prospects for publication.

EDU 520 MA Thesis

Students spend the last semester of the Program preparing and completing their MA Thesis under the supervision of a principle faculty advisor. Students are responsible for preparing a non-credit bearing public defense of their Thesis as a prerequisite for successful graduation.

SUMMER RESEARCH PROGRAM

Occurring between the first and second year, The Summer Research Program (SRP), supported by a travel grant for up to six weeks of work, is a non-credit bearing instructional option designed to enable graduate students to conduct pre-MA-thesis research at a discrete location either in the United States or abroad. Students identify a field site where they can obtain first-hand experience as well as pursue research in an area of scholarly interest. Given the experiential nature of the program, it is expected that the theoretical framework of the study will contain quantitative and/or qualitative elements, include a comparative dimension, and involve a large degree of face-to-face and/or on-site data collection, a creative combination of “talk, text, and interaction” (Silverman 2000).

If you submit your application online your fee will be reduced to $30. Applicants are responsible for ensuring that payments are sent to the Admission Office. Without the receipt of payment an applicant will be considered incomplete.
3. Transcripts – Applicants should request that all previous academic institution(s) send an official transcript covering all undergraduate studies (and graduate studies, if any) directly to the Office of Admission at Soka University of America. Only official transcripts that are signed, stamped and sealed, or otherwise certified, by the issuing institution will be accepted.

The applicant is responsible for making sure complete, official transcripts are on file with the Office of Admission. Work in progress will be considered in fulfillment of requirements, and admission may be granted subject to the filing of final transcripts, before enrollment, showing satisfactory completion of work in progress.

Recommendations are usually from the applicant's former or current professors who are able to give an in-depth evaluation of the applicant's strengths and weaknesses with respect to academic work. They should paint as full a picture of you as possible for the admissions committee, saying how well and in what capacity they know you and frankly stating deficiencies as well as merits. They should provide a candid opinion of your ability to undertake graduate study and your potential for a career in educational leadership.

Please ask your recommenders to use the official Reference/Recommendation Form provided by SUA. Type, or print clearly, your name on each form and sign the waiver statement. Give each recommender the Reference/Recommendation Form and ask him/her to return the completed form directly to the Office of Admission in the sealed envelope.

5. Personal Statement – Please write a brief statement in which you describe your background, your past work in your intended field of study, your goals for graduate study and a professional career, experience and any other information you feel is relevant.
6. GRE® Testing – An official score report for the Graduate Record Examination (GRE) taken within the past five years is required of all applicants. Be sure to request that official GRE® scores be sent directly to the SUA Office of Admission. The GRE school code for SUA is 4720. Student copies and self-reported scores are not accepted. The GRE General Test measures critical thinking, analytical writing, verbal reasoning, and quantitative reasoning skills that have been acquired over a long period of time and that are not related to any specific field of study. The GRE is offered by the Educational Testing Service (ETS) in different formats and times depending on a test taker's location. For more information, the student should check the GRE website at <http://www.ets.org/>.
7. Resume or Curriculum Vitae (CV) – A copy of your Resume or CV is required for all applicants. This document will outline your experiences and skills as they relate to the graduate program.

8. Academic Writing Sample – An academic writing sample is required for all applicants. This should be a college-level research paper written for one of your classes, or, if your college or university has it as a graduation requirement, a senior thesis. Less important than the topic is that the paper you submit is the strongest sample you have of your writing and research skills as a student. It is not necessary to include the grade or the instructor's comments with your submission.

9. International Applicants: TOEFL® Testing – Any applicant whose native language is not English is required to submit a TOEFL score report. Be sure to request that official TOEFL scores be sent directly to the SUA Office of Admission. Student copies and self-reported scores are not accepted. The TOEFL® school code for SUA is 4720. The Test of English as a Foreign Language (TOEFL) measures the ability of non-native speakers of English to use and understand English as it is spoken, written, and heard in college and university settings. The TOEFL test is offered by the Educational Testing Service (ETS) in different formats depending on a test taker's location. For information about the test, the student should check the TOEFL website at <http://www.toefl.org>.

If you are a non-native English speaker who graduated from a college or university where English is the primary language of instruction, you may be eligible for a waiver of the TOEFL requirement for admission. Please contact the Office of Graduate Admission.

TRANSFER CREDITS

Courses completed at other recognized graduate institutions, not exceeding 6 semester credits, may be applied toward the requirements for the MA degree provided that the studies are of acceptable quality, have a shelf-life not to exceed ten years, and are equivalent to parts of the approved program of study.

Transfer credits are accepted only from other institutions of higher learning accredited by an association recognized by the United States Department of Education (USDOE), or any institution of higher learning, including foreign institutions, if the institution offering the program documents that the institution of higher learning at which the units were earned offers degree programs equivalent to degree programs accredited by an accrediting association recognized by the USDOE.

Upon requesting permission to transfer graduate-level course work into the Soka University of America program, a student is instructed to provide a copy of a syllabus or a catalog description of the course from the institution where the course work was completed.

Transferred courses will not compute into the GPA, but will appear on the student's transcript. This policy may be applied toward no more than 2 courses and no more than 6 units per student. Although a higher requirement may be set as a condition for a particular course, no courses will be accepted as meeting SUA Graduate School graduation requirements, nor will they have credit transferred, if the grade received is less than B.

If a course from another institution was taken so long ago that the content has become outdated, the Dean will recommend that a student retake the course at Soka University of America rather than transferring it in.

Soka University of America may require that an applicant obtain an evaluation of their academic credit from an outside organization that provides foreign credential evaluation services to evaluate transfer credits from foreign institutions.

Official transcripts for credit earned at other institutions that have been presented to Soka University of America for admission become the property of Soka University of America and will not be returned.

TAX LIABILITIES

For international students, a Federal Income Tax withholding may be applied to amounts of scholarships or grants that are greater than qualified education expenses as defined by the Internal Revenue Service. Depending on the student's country of origin, a 14% Federal Income Tax may be withheld from any scholarship or grant awarded over $30,964 for the academic year and applied around the beginning of each session. Students are responsible for full payment of tax withholding at the time of charge. For further information regarding tax liabilities, please contact the Controller's Office at (949) 480-4319.

NONPAYMENT WITHDRAWAL

Nonpayment of tuition may result in student's involuntary withdrawal from the university and/or dropped from all courses. All session charges must be paid in full prior to the end of the academic session. The Office of Student Accounts will review any accounts with unpaid tuition for consideration of non-payment withdrawal and enrollment cancellation.

In the event of withdrawal for nonpayment of tuition, a student will be dropped from all courses, from campus housing, and from food services. A hold will be placed on a student's account until the financial obligation is met.

HOLD POLICY

A hold will be placed on the student’s account for any charges past due including tuition, miscellaneous fees, and/or student loan. A hold prevents a student from registering and receiving various services from SUA including, but not limited to, transcript requests. Before your withdrawal can be processed, all signatures specified on the withdrawal form must be obtained from the indicated departments. The Office of the Registrar will process the withdrawal based on the appropriate withdrawal date. This date is used in the calculation of tuition and any possible refund. If a refund is due, it will be processed according to the following refund schedule per session.

FINANCIAL AID

FINANCIAL AID

Soka University of America (SUA) admits graduate students without consideration of their abilities to meet the costs and oversees a need-blind admission policy in which a student's financial aid status will not affect his or her possible admission to the university.

It is the sincere objective of the Office of Financial Aid (OFA) to provide fair access to aid across all student populations. SUA Office of Financial Aid does not discriminate on the basis of race/ethnicity, color, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, disability, veteran status, or age in the administration of financial aid or any other programs.

COMMUNICATION POLICY

Email is the standard and preferred method of communication. The OFA will use the email address noted on the admissions application for all communication with new applicants. Once an SUA email address is assigned to a student, the OFA will use this as the primary communication method and cease to use other email addresses. In addition, students are encouraged to access their Learn Student Portal to review important financial aid "to do" list items or for information on their aid award, student account and enrollment information.

This scholarship is awarded each year based on merit as determined during the admissions process. The top ranking applicant(s) who accepts the admission offer will receive the scholarship award. Scholarship awards are renewable annually and subject to the student's continued Satisfactory Academic Progress. The lifespan of the scholarship is 4 terms.

FEDERAL LOANS

Federal Direct Loans (Stafford) – are a part of the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan program, in which borrowers obtain loan funds directly from the U.S. Department of Education. These loans are more commonly referred to as Stafford Loans and are available as Unsubsidized Loans for Graduate students. Stafford Loans have annual and yearly limits.

Unsubsidized Loans – are available to students regardless of financial need and there is no interest subsidy. The interest will accrue from the time of disbursement. The interest rate will change yearly based on the 10-year treasury note index.

Graduate students may borrow up to $20,500 per year in Unsubsidized Loan. The maximum total debt from Stafford Loans is $146,500. The graduate debt limit includes Stafford Loans (including Subsidized loans) received from undergraduate study.

Repayment of Unsubsidized loans begins six months after the student graduates, withdraws, or enrolls below half-time.

Federal Direct Graduate PLUS Loan – is a federal loan that graduate students can use to help pay education expenses. The U.S. Department of Education is the lender. The maximum loan amount is the student's cost of attendance minus any other financial aid received. There is no interest subsidy for this loan. The borrower must not have an adverse credit history. The Graduate PLUS loan will be placed into deferment while the student is enrolled at least half-time and for an additional six months after you cease to be enrolled at least half-time (4 units).

INSTITUTIONAL LOANS

Soka Graduate Loan – is available for international students. International students interested in applying for the Soka Loan will be required to annually submit the "International Student Financial Aid Applications." 2. Application process to be considered for aid.
3. Criteria used to calculate need.
4. SUA refund and repayment policy.
5. Policies surrounding Satisfactory Academic Progress.
6. The rights and responsibilities of individual programs.

DISBURSEMENT OF FUNDS

Awarded and accepted financial aid is authorized for posting to the student account after full-time enrollment is confirmed at the start of the Fall and Spring Semester.

The Office of Student Accounts is responsible for all financial aid disbursements. After applying tuition, room & board, and other appropriate outstanding charges, the Office of Student Accounts releases the remaining credit balance to the student within fourteen days after the credit balance occurs.

If a student is receiving a paper check, Office of Student Accounts notifies the student when the check is available. If the funds are sent via Electronic Fund Transfer (EFT), the Office of Student Accounts notifies the student that the fund have been transferred into their bank account. Soka University does not apply any credit balance to prior year's charges. All students must have a zero balance at the end of each academic year.

REFUNDS AND REPAYMENTS

Students who withdraw from school may be expected to repay a portion of their financial aid. According to a formula prescribed, any refundable amount used to pay tuition and fees is returned to the appropriate financial aid sources. Students may also be required to pay the unearned portion of disbursed aid called a Return to Title IV Refund. For more information visit the SUA website at www.soka.edu.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS POLICY

The Office of Financial Aid (OFA) uses the SAP Policy to determine continued eligibility for its financial aid programs. The SAP Policy is comprised of two parts, a qualitative and a quantitative component.

Students must be in good academic standing and uphold the minimum requirements for both the qualitative (grade-based) and quantitative (time-based) requirements of the SAP policy to maintain eligibility to receive financial aid. In compliance with federal regulations, Soka University of America (SUA) has established guidelines that are designed to ensure that students successfully complete courses and to promote timely advancement toward degree objectives. These requirements also serve as a standard against which to evaluate student's progress, grade point average (GPA) and the overall time frame in which students complete their graduate program. SAP is evaluated at the end of each term at SUA.

In addition, the OFA will notify students if they are not making satisfactory academic progress or SAP; the Office of the Registrar will notify students separately of academic probation or suspension. The OFA SAP policy is as follows:

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP) applies to the following programs:

1. Federal: Direct Loans
2. Institutional: Soka Scholarships, Grants, Loans

SAP policy is a complement to the Academic Probation policy but is a separate policy governing only financial aid eligibility. Students must be aware that it is possible to avoid academic probation or suspension, yet fail to meet SAP for financial aid.

The following minimum academic standards must be met:

I. Qualitative Measure:

Students must maintain a minimum cumulative grade-point average (GPA) of at least 3.0 in order to be eligible for financial aid.

2. Quantitative Measure:

The second component used to measure SAP is the maximum time a student may take to complete a program. Students must complete their program within 2 years.

Students must achieve both the qualitative and quantitative requirements of SAP to remain in good financial aid standing.

Failure to meet SAP Requirements

The U.S. Department of Education (ED) has mandated that universal terms (warning, suspension, and probation) be implemented to describe failure to meet SAP across all colleges.

SAP Warning

Failure to meet SAP after one term will result in a placement on "SAP Warning" status. Student will have one term of financial aid eligibility to correct their SAP deficiencies. Students will be notified that he/she is on "SAP Warning." SAP Warning is not given to students who have reached their maximum time frame or students who have failed to meet SAP for 2 consecutive terms.

Academic counseling should be sought to ensure the student satisfies all deficiencies during this period.

If the student meets SAP within the warning period (of one term), he/she will be automatically placed back in good standing for financial aid.

SAP Suspension

After one term of warning and continued failure to meet SAP, all of the student's financial aid will be suspended/cancelled and student will be placed on "SAP Suspension."

Students will be notified in the event that he/she is on "SAP Suspension." Failure to receive notification from the OFA is not terms for an appeal approval. It is the student's responsibility to understand the Financial Aid SAP policies and adhere to them.

Regaining Eligibility

Students on "SAP Suspension" can earn units and raise their cumulative GPA the next academic term; however they are ineligible to receive financial aid during that period of suspension.

Once the SAP requirements have been met, students are eligible to apply for financial aid for the upcoming term.

It is the student's responsibility to notify the OFA when he/she regains eligibility for reinstatement of funds.

Appeals and Extenuating Circumstances

Students may appeal for reinstatement of financial aid via a written request if they have an extenuating circumstance that has prevented the student from meeting SAP for institutional scholarships. Such situation must be exceptional and non-recurring in nature. Some examples are death in the family, illness, or car accident. The appeal must explain the cause of academic difficulty and how the situation has been resolved.

The appeal must be submitted within 20 days of notification of financial aid ineligibility. The student must meet with the Director of MA Program to create an academic plan that will ensure success in completion of their program. The academic plan must be submitted with the SAP appeal.

Students must submit the "SAP Appeal" in person to the OFA. Students may request that the form be date marked for when it has been received.

Students can expect to have a decision within two weeks of submitting an appeal form. The OFA may need to request documentation from the student which could extend this period. In addition, if the appeal is sent to committee, the period of time needed to convene a committee could also extend the time required to make a decision. If this is the case, students will be notified that there will be a delay.

If the SAP appeal is approved, the student will be placed on "SAP Probation" and will regain eligibility for financial aid for one or more terms based on the academic plan submitted.

If the SAP appeal is denied, students are entitled to an explanation. Once an appeal has been denied, students may not make an identical appeal because he/she did not agree with the outcome. The appeal will be considered officially denied.

A student may not appeal after the enrollment period for the academic year or once graduated.

Grades, Repeated Courses, Transfer Credits

Grades that meet SAP completion standards are grades for which credit is awarded: A, B, C, D and P. F, NP, Withdrawals (W), and Incompletes (I) are not passing grades.

If a student repeats a failed (F) or a previous passed class (D), it will replace the highest grade to recalculate into the new cumulative GPA. Credits attempted in repeated classes will be included in the cumulative credits attempted in addition to the original credits. Students who passed a class and chooses to repeat for a higher grade may receive financial aid only once for that repeated class. Students may receive financial aid for a failed class that they repeat until they pass.

STUDENT LOAN DEFAULT

A hold will be placed on any delinquent or defaulted student loan accounts. A hold will prevent the student from registering and receiving services from SUA including release of transcript, grades and alumni services. Account balance and hold information is available through the borrower's loan servicers.

Delinquent/defaulted loans will include past due accounts placed with a collection agency.

Delinquent loans will be reported to credit bureaus, and borrowers will be responsible for any collection costs including but not limited to agency fees, attorney's fees, court costs, and other fees related to the collection of the loan.

The SUA Office of Financial Aid is committed to counseling students regarding borrowed loans after graduation. Students should contact the OFA regarding loan repayment options.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

GRADUATION REQUIREMENTS

- Satisfactory completion of required 41 course credits with an overall index of B is required for the degree. In addition, B or higher is required for the MA Thesis/Project course.
- A grade of C or higher must be received for all courses.

GRADUATION

Upon satisfactory completion of the MA program, a student may apply for graduation. If graduation is granted, Soka University of America will confer an official graduation date and issue to the student a Soka University of America diploma for a Master of Arts (MA) Degree in Educational Leadership and Societal Change, and an unofficial copy of their final transcript. Soka University of America proudly conducts a commencement ceremony in May of each year to honor new graduates.

GRADUATE ACADEMIC ADVISING

Meeting and engaging in dialogue regularly with the academic advisor is an integral part of the Soka experience.

Advising is available from the Program Director to assist graduate students in the planning and completion of their university study as well as in their career search and development. All students are required to meet with the Director prior to enrollment in classes.

STANDARDS FOR STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT

The student's performance is evaluated based on his/her class performance (e.g., participation in class discussion) and assignments and/or examinations.

Assignments and examinations given during the course are evaluated and returned to the students with comments and/or grades indicating the instructor's assessment of the student's work and progress. Class performance, assignments and examinations measure and verify critical thinking and the acquisition of analytical and other necessary skills.

SATISFACTORY ACADEMIC PROGRESS AND PERFORMANCE

The admission of all graduate students is continued at the discretion of the Dean of the Graduate School, consistent with the policies and practices of the University, the Graduate School and the graduate program. A student must make satisfactory progress in meeting program requirements, must demonstrate the ability to succeed in his/her course of studies, and must attain performance requirements specified by the graduate program, otherwise his/her enrollment will be terminated. Determinations of satisfactory progress occur at the graduate program level.

The Graduate School of Soka University of America has established guidelines that are designed to ensure that students successfully complete courses and to promote timely advancement toward specific degree objectives. These requirements also serve as a standard against which to evaluate student progress, grade point averages and the overall time periods in which students complete their graduate programs.

To satisfy academic progress requirements for financial aid, students must accomplish the following:

1. Maintain a minimum grade point average of 3.0 or better each semester.
2. Complete a minimum of six (6) units of credits per semester unless otherwise approved by the Dean of the Graduate School.
3. Complete the degree objective within the maximum time allowed.

MINIMUM GRADE REQUIREMENTS

All students are required to have a B average or higher to graduate. A student must receive a C or higher in all required courses. In addition, a B or higher is required for the MA Thesis/Project course. A student who fails to finish his/her thesis/project on time and/or has a B- or lower has the option of re-enrolling in and repeating the course in the following semester.

DEFINITION OF GRADES

Final grades are defined in the following chart:

Grade	Grade-Point	100% scale*	Definition
A	4.00	94-100	Excellent. Outstanding achievement.
A-	3.70	90-93	Excellent, but not quite outstanding.
B+	3.30	87-89	Very good. Solid and credible graduate-level performance.
B	3.00	84-86	Good. Acceptable achievement.
B-	2.70	80-83	Acceptable achievement, but below what is generally expected of graduate students.
C+	2.30	77-79	Fair achievement, above minimally acceptable level.
C	2.00	74-76	Passing work.
C-	1.70	70-73	Very low performance.
P	N/A		Passed.
F, NP	N/A		Failed.
W	N/A		Withdrawn.
I	N/A		Incomplete.

*General guidelines based on the 100% scale

GRADE CHANGES

Once grades have been submitted to the Office of the Registrar, they become final and may be changed only in case of error. An instructor desiring a change of grade must present a written request to the Dean of the Graduate School. The change will become effective only if the change of grade form has been approved by the Dean and filed with the Office of the Registrar by the end of the following session.

Students wishing to appeal a specific grade assigned by the instructor may do so under SUA's Grade Grievance Policy. No grade changes are permitted after a degree is awarded.

GRADE GRIEVANCE

Students should contact faculty members when there are questions concerning the final grades. The student and the instructor who gave the final grade should resolve disputes, and a satisfactory resolution should be reached through meaningful and respectful dialogue. However, in cases in which satisfactory resolution cannot be achieved, a formal appeal can be made to the Dean of the Graduate School. The student must submit the appeal by the end of the following session.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Life experiences and other non-instructional experiences may be considered in the admission process, but they do not supplant the minimum academic requirements for graduation.

ATTENDANCE

Students are expected to attend all classes in all courses for which they are registered. Individual absences, dropouts and leaves will be treated on a case-by-case basis. Students who have not completed required assignments will be awarded an "I" grade. Normally this is regarded as a temporary grade; the deadline for the completion of the work is no later than 6 weeks after the end of the term. If the work is not completed by this time, the "I" becomes a permanent grade and the course will neither be counted towards graduation nor be computed in the cumulative index.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

Students may request a single 30-day leave of absence, or for an extended period, up to a total of 2 years, under truly extraordinary circumstances during their attendance at Soka University of America to meet individual needs for emergencies. A meeting with the Program Director is required before, if at all possible, or after the leave to develop a revised academic program schedule for the student.

If the student leaves the program for more than 2 years, he or she will be considered to be withdrawn. If a student withdraws from the program and wishes to re-enroll, the student should re-apply. If the decision is to re-admit, the student will be charged a re-enrollment fee in addition to regular tuition and fees.

ACADEMIC POLICIES & PROCEDURES

CREDIT HOUR POLICY AND ACADEMIC RIGOR

At Soka University of America, the “credit hour” is defined as “the amount of work represented in intended learning outcomes and verified by evidence of student achievement that is an institutionally established equivalency that reasonably approximates not less than:

1. One hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours of out-of-class student work each week for approximately fifteen weeks for one semester hour of credit for didactic instruction, or the equivalent amount of work over a different amount of time; or
2. At least an equivalent amount of work as required in paragraph (1) of this definition for other academic activities as established by the institution, including laboratory work, internships, practica, studio work, and other academic work leading to the award of credit hours.”

The University offers semester-based credit courses in 15-week-semester and 3-week-block sessions. Three-credit lecture (didactic) courses require a total of 45 class contact hours. For every hour of classroom instruction each week, there is a minimum of two hours of student work.

Consistent with award of credit practices in higher education, semester credit is awarded on the following basis:

Didactic Coursework: one hour for fifteen weeks (15 hours) equals 1 semester credit, with the expectation of 2 hours of outside work and preparation;

The University will review periodically the application of its policy on credit hour across the degree programs to assure that credit hour assignments are accurate, reliable, appropriate to degree level, and that they conform to commonly accepted practices in higher education through new course development, course review and revision, and program review.

While the commitment of time relative to award of academic credit is standard for the semester credit, the distinction between undergraduate and graduate level curricula and outcomes is represented within the context of the course outline/syllabi, which include course description, expectations for outcomes, and the rigor indicative of the level at which the course and instruction is provided.
